PRISON JAM RELIEVED

Hoover Acts on Congestion

Military Jails Will be Used Until Government Builds New Penitentiaries

Use of $6,250,000 Will be Asked in Budget for Work Planned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Two more federal penitentiaries were discussed today by President Hoover and Atty.-Gen. Mitchell.

The first, as announced by the latter, contemplates use by the Department of Justice of three military prisons for incarceration of prisoners until completion of the building, $6,250,000 construction program. Subsequently the Attorney-General said the Budget Bureau would submit that program, calling for a new penitentiary in the Northwest, industrial reformation in the South and three short-term jails in districts yet to be selected.

President Hoover had conferred with Secretary Good and Mr. Mitchell regarding the availability of military prisons. They described the disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth could be turned over to the Department of Justice immediately as soon as the military prisoners there can be moved.

The disciplinary barracks at Governors Island and at Alcatraz also are said to be available if necessary, but at present the Justice Department does not contemplate their use.

Attorney-Gen. Mitchell said the Fort Leavenworth barracks could accommodate 1000, and after these prisoners are turned over in about six months they probably will be operated as a part of Leavenworth penitentiary. As soon as organization is completed, prisoners will be transferred from the Atlanta and Leavenworth penitentiaries, in both of which there are now 3700 prisoners, although the prisons were designed to hold half as many.

The new penitentiary will cost, according to a decision made today, $3,500,000. Mr. Mitchell said the program first will be submitted by the Budget Bureau and Congress, and then will come the plans for completion.

PLANS FOR PRISONS

Attorney-General hopes the transfer of the Leavenworth barracks will ease the situation until the penitentiary is completed. It is designed to accommodate 1000 prisoners, while the industrial reformatory will accommodate 1000 inmates and each of the jails not more than 100 prisoners. He said the reformatory would be conducted along the lines of the present federal reformatory for first offenders.

SCHOOLS TO DO STREET IMPROVING

Board Will Ask Permit to Avoid Assessment Under Mattoon Act

In cases of street improvement projects which are undertaken under the Mattoon Act, the Board of Education itself will undertake the construction of the portion of the project which abuts on school property, if it can obtain the consent of the City Council and the county Board of Supervisors to such an arrangement, it was decided at last night's meeting of the board.

Unlike some of the city departments, it is the policy of the Board of Education to pay assessments for street work levied against it if the improvements abut on any school property. However, under the Mattoon Act no direct assessment is made against individual parcels, but the cost is levied against the improvement district as a tax with payments spread over a period of years.

It is because this provision of the act bars the board from following its usual practice of paying assessments in full at the time they are levied that it is advancing the suggestion that it be permitted to construct the portion of the improvement abutting school property in a Mattoon Act proceeding.

The question arose first in connection with the improvement of streets in the Dickens-street and Kester-avenue Improvement District. The Dickens-street school site has direct frontage on two of the streets in the district and it has been estimated that the board would be taxed $5600 for the improvement. Last night it was decided to apprise the City Council once of the board's policy in the matter and ask that the Dickens-street school site be exempted from assessment.

The chief expenditures authorized at last night's meeting of the Board of Education were that of $5000 for the purchase of books for the library of the new Bancroft school, another of the same amount to cover additional construction work, and for the Beverly Hills High school and appropriations of $6000 and $4000 for equipment for the Audubon and Bancroft and Harte Junior High Schools.

The practice of the board of issuing for the instruction in certain school districts of pupils residing in the Los Angeles School District will be discontinued in the future, according to a decision made at last night's meeting. Existing contracts with other school districts covering such instruction will remain in full force until their termination but no more will be made.

The board's action was made on the basis of a report of its business and school committee, which stated that "it is not necessary for pupils of the Los Angeles School District to transfer to other school districts to obtain educational advantages."

Patricia Farmer Tiniest Scaler of Mt. Whitney

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 21.—Miss Patricia Farmer, 9 years of age, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Farmer of this city, is believed to have the distinction of being the youngest child ever to scale Mt. Whitney, highest peak in the United States.

Miss Patricia, accompanied by her parents, her sister, Ruth, and brother, Ardis, has returned from an outing in the Sierras, the standing feature of which was the climb to Whitney's summit. Arriving at Stone Block House at the foot of the 14,500-foot mountain, the little lady found a solid mass of ice. Snow drifting in during the winter had settled and frozen into ice. Only a short step was made on top, as the air is very cold and rare.

The climb was made in three stages, as one must stop often to breathe in such a rare atmosphere. The greater part of a day was required to make the ascent, and the trip down the mountain was negotiated much quicker.

BUILDING AND LOAN MEN TO BREAKFAST

En route to the national convention of building and loan executives to be held next week in Salt Lake City, between sixty-five and seventy-five delegates from Louisiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Nevada and District of Columbia, will be guests of Los Angeles building and loan men at the Breakfast Club tomorrow morning, according to announcements made yesterday by William A. Ryon and A. A. Arnold, who will be official hosts of the party. During the visit here the visitors will be guests of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce; Harry McDonald, Los Angeles Herman Seiferd, New Orleans Times-Picayune; Louis Pizzo, New Orleans Item-Tribune; John A. Devine, Ohio Building and Loan League; Dr. Emerson P. Schmidt, American Savings and Loan Institute, Kansas City, and Norman F. Cellarius, Cincinnati, will be E. C. Burton, Chester, Pa., of the United States Building and Loan Association.

SUN SMILES UP AT BYRD

Added Light Enables Men to Kill Seal and Dine on Fresh Meat

BY RUSSELL OWEN

(Copyright, 1929, by the Los Angeles Times, New York Times Company and St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

LITTLE AMERICA (Antarctica) Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—An unfair advantage was taken of the sun today. Officially, it is not due back here until Thursday, but it was so close to the horizon at noon that men climbed the radio towers and saw it and peeked at it from the top of the barrier hills. It did not quite detach itself from the clinging skyline but at least three-quarters of it was visible. Not only that, but a seal was killed for fresh meat, the second seal seen this season and the snow shoveling gang was out marking the end of the long hibernation.

This was a perfect day to get the first glimpse of the sun. Early this morning the sky became golden in the northeast and the splash of light moved northward until a thin gold line was shimmering on the edge of the barrier. Masses of yellow and orange clouds were piled above this shining segment, the pale blue of the sky between them.

LIKE FAIRY ROAD

Almost overhead a coral pink line of feathery cirrus clouds stretched like a fairy road and was lost over the far horizon. Low in the south was a band of pale-blue violet and above that a band of deep rose pink in which was set the full moon like a jewel. It was a pale-green yellow moon with a corona of pale-opaline green, an unreal and spectral moon.

So magnificent were the colors that men shoveling snow stopped and leaned on their shovels in wordless enjoyment of such beauty. Slowly the colors changed, became deeper and less evanescent as the pulsating golden glow to the north grew wider and stretched farther up the sky. Men had been climbing the radio towers all morning in the hope of catching sight of the sun, but had given it up for a time. Commander Byrd just before noon decided to go up and got to the top of one of the towers. "Larry, oh, Larry," he yelled down to Larry Gould, who with others engaged in the prosaic occupation of digging out bags of coal, "I can see the sun."

RUN FOR TOWERS

All around the camp men dropped shovels and ran for the towers. Joe Rucker and Quinn Blackburn and Arnold Clarke swarmed up behind the commander, and Quinn perched

ENDURANCE PLANE FALLS AT BAY CITY

One-Man Refuel Flyer Rescued from Bay After Ship Hits High Wire

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—Crashing into a high-power electric line at the edge of San Francisco Bay two miles above Mills Field tonight, Donald Templeman, Mills Field pilot, wrecked his plane, the San Franciscan, at 9:55 p.m., after thirty-five hours and forty-five minutes in the air, on his one-man, nonstop refueling flight.

The wrecked plane fell into the shallow water near the shore, but Templeman escaped uninjured. He was sitting on a wing of his ship when Bert Vierra and Robert Roper rescued him a few minutes after the crash. The endurance pilot was taken to Mills Memorial hospital for an examination, and then sent home.

The ground crew at Mills Field was advised of the crash almost the instant it happened. The lights at the airport went out. As Vierra, manager of the West Coast Air Transport, and Roper, his head mechanic, started out to look for the trouble with the lights, they met an excited motorist, who shouted that a plane had just crashed into the bay.

Templeman had hoped to remain up forty hours for a new solo duration record. However, he had demonstrated the possibility of refueling in the air single-handed, a feat never before accomplished, refueling contacts having been made seven times.

JONES LAW'S TEETH MEANT FOR MAJOR BOOTLEGGERS

Mrs. Willebrandt Tells Why She Worked for "Five and Ten" Dry Act Amendment

BY MABEL WALKER WILLEBRANDT

(Copyright, 1929, by Current News Features, Inc. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

(Still dealing with the subject of putting the law to work, Mrs. Willebrandt in this article tells of the progress made before the Jones law was passed and why she advocated its passage. She shows how the bootlegger could operate with ease and contempt of the law until "teeth" were provided by enacting legislation which put violation of enforcement legislation on a par with other crimes.)

Vast sums are made by bootleggers. They never pay income tax. Frequently the way we have brought them to justice is by investigating first their financial transactions and assessing the tax. A bootlegging buccaneer named Manly Sullivan resisted paying any income tax. And his best defense was that he had made his income unlawfully and it violated the Constitution to compel him to put in a tax return. He won the point, too, before the Circuit Court of Appeals. He tried his own case. He had a sense of humor, quick wit and a glib tongue. The judge was reluctant to hold him as closely in check as to the asking of irrelevant questions as he would a practicing attorney. Sullivan was aware of this and imposed upon the judge's reluctance to the limit. He was constantly overstepping the bounds of propriety.

At appropriate places in his examination or cross-examination he would turn aside for comments to the jury. One of these comments was: "You gentlemen see how these northerners are harassing me under the prohibition and the tax laws—two of the most damnable statutes on the books of this country." When I was in the midst of my argument of the law of the case, later, to the Supreme Court of the United States, the Chief Justice suddenly burst out in an audible chuckle that quite upset my train of thought. He had found the page of the record upon which Sullivan's comment appeared. He commented that the defendant in the case seemed to hold very decided views with respect to certain of the Federal statutes.

MRS. MABEL WILLEBRANDT (LEFT)

CRIME LESS PROFITABLE

The Supreme Court held in this case that an income tax is collectible on profits illegally amassed. This has had a far-reaching effect touching graft, illegal contracts and crime profits of all descriptions, in addition to that derived from illicit liquor. Tax collections from bosses of the underworld have reached many millions of dollars since the Sullivan decision. I maintain that if the man conducting a criminal business is financially pinched in every way that the law permits, it will do as much to deter crime as penitentiary sentences. The Sullivan decision made crime less profitable, for the illegal operator in making his return does not dare to deduct his outlay for graft. The lower court raised that very point, but Justice Holmes waved it to one side, saying:

"It is urged that if a return were made the defendant would be entitled to deduct illegal expenses such as bribery. This by no means

PERU ENVOY QUITS IN HUFF

Mrs. Miles Poindexter Causes Diplomat to Resign After Row Over Employment of Her Servant

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—A lively quarrel between Senor Alfreda Gonzalez-Prada, Peruvian charge d'affaires in Washington and Mrs. Miles Poindexter, wife of the former American Minister to Peru, over the services of a houseman once employed in the Poindexter household culminated today in the resignation of the Peruvian envoy.

Senator Prada, who had employed the servant, one Cornelius, and thus deprived Mrs. Poindexter of a valued employee, retired from the Diplomatic Service rather than give him up. Although ordered by the Peruvian Foreign Minister to restore the servant to Mrs. Poindexter, the envoy flatly refused. Cornelius, he asserted, had been imposed upon and exploited and he proposed to protect him.

PAY WAS SMALL

Cornelius, it develops, was brought to Washington by Poindexter when the former Senator from Washington State returned from the Peruvian capital some six months ago. Before coming to the national capital, Cornelius agreed to work for something like the same modest salary he had been paid by the Poindexters when he served them in his native land.

However, Cornelius began to take stock of his condition. He soon found that others, probably not as good servants as himself, were obtaining much more money for their efforts.

DIPLOMAT EMPLOYED

Becoming dissatisfied with existing conditions, Cornelius bethought himself of the Peruvian Minister. He told his troubles to Senor Prada and sought advice. The envoy advised Cornelius that this is a free country and that he did not have to remain in the employ of the Poindexters any longer than he de-

FLYERS MAY BE IN SEA

Swiss Overdue; Feared Lost

New York Waits in Vain for Intrepid Pair Last Seen Flying Over Azores

Gas Believed Exhausted and Venture Expected to be Atlantic Tragedy

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Two Swiss flyers, scarcely more than boys in years and novices in experience, are overdue tonight in their attempt to conquer the westward crossing of the North Atlantic, an attempt in which far better-equipped expeditions had failed before them.

With the unbounded confidence of youth and blithely disregarding the fact that they knew next to nothing of navigation and none too much of flying, Oscar Kaesar and Kurt Luescher took off from Lisbon early yesterday morning and headed their white monoplane for the far coast across the waves.

FLY OVER AZORES

A German steamer saw them 175 miles at sea and they flew over the Azores at 1 o'clock, eastern standard time, in the afternoon. Up to that time they had maintained a speed of ninety miles an hour and the gasoline consumption apparently had been light enough to give the 21 and 22-year-old flyers the belief that they could make the American coast.

It had been their plan that if they found their fuel decreasing too rapidly when they reached the Azores they would turn back, but at the last view they were following the sun westward to their distant goal.

After that no ship at sea sighted them during the day and the night, and today passed without any report of their whereabouts or their fate. It was foggy along the coast today and if they reached Newfoundland and Nova Scotia they were not seen.

HOPELESS WATCH

Judging from their speed as far as the Azores, the Swiss flyers should have reached New York at 4 o'clock this afternoon, supposing that their use of fuel had been so economical that they were encouraged to make the entire flight nonstop. Roosevelt Field on Long Island was their destination, whether or not they should stop for fuel in Nova Scotia. But there was no sign of them there as the hours passed.

Field officials decided to burn beacons all night, but there is small belief that the flyers will arrive for it is generally felt that their fuel could not have lasted so long and that the audacious young flyers must be down somewhere along their course.

The plane was a French land plane with no equipment for landing on the water and the only safeguard in case of a forced landing on the sea was a rubber suit which each aviator had supplied himself.

Cleveland Again Backs Manager Government Plan

This is the third time in two years Clevelanders have gone to the polls to express their stand on the city manager form of government.

Flyers Complete Round Trip

Transcontinental Endurance Plane Lands at Spokane on Fifth Day in Air

Hoover Wires Felicitations to Mamer and Walker on 7200-Mile Exploit

SPOKANE (Wash.) Aug. 20. (AP) Nick Mamer and Art Walker stepped from the cabin of the flame-colored Spokane Sun God at 5:59:40 p.m. today, the first flyers to complete a round-trip nonstop flight across the continent.

LT. NICK MAMER

The two men brought their plane to earth after having been in the air for five full days, during which time they traversed 7200 miles, the greatest lineal-mile distance ever completed. The flight was ended about four hours after they arrived over Felts Field from Missoula, Mont., where the last refueling contact was made.

Mamer was at the controls when the plane touched the ground. He taxied down the field for several hundred feet and Walker jumped from the cabin into the arms of a pressing crowd. Nick taxied the ship to a receiving stand erected on the field before he alighted. Both men appeared to be in excellent physical condition, but both were unable to hear ordinary conversation.

HOOVER CONGRATULATES

A telegram from President Hoover was read through a microphone. It follows:

Nick Mamer and Art Walker: Congratulations on the successful completion of your nonstop refueling flight across the continent and return. This was a further demonstration of the widening scope and practical utility of aircraft.

AIR INQUIRY LAUNCHED

Race Sabotage Charge Sifted

Accidents to Women Result in Official Inquiry at San Bernardino

Local Aviators Inclined to Attribute Mishaps to Poor Preparation

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—Acting after charges had been made that several of the planes of entrants in the National Women's Air Derby had been tampered with while at the Federal airport Sunday night, Dr. L. W. Ayers, chairman of the San Bernardino Exchange Club derby committee, today asked Dist.-Atty. Johnson to conduct an investigation.

The prosecutor immediately instructed officers to call the entire ground crew personnel on duty at the field Sunday night, guards and employees of oil companies who serviced the planes of the eighteen girl flyers, to his office tomorrow at 9 a.m. for questioning. Chief Deputy District Attorney Thompson was assigned to conduct the inquiry.

Dr. Ayers and his associates on the air derby committee in charge of the race rules while the flyers were in San Bernardino, acted when Herbert Fahy, husband of Claire Fahy, charged that acid had been placed on the guy wires of his wife's plane, eating the wires in two. Thea Rasche, German aviatrix who was forced down in an alfalfa field near Holtville two hours after taking off from San Bernardino, also charged that rubbish had been placed in the gasoline tank of her plane, clogging the gas line and stalling her motor.

GUARDS ON DUTY

"While it is possible that the planes were tampered with at the field," said Dr. Ayers, "I do not believe it probable. We had a number of guards on duty all night, there were two deputy sheriffs and employees of the oil companies servicing the planes and Federal Aircraft Corporation workers at the field from the hour that the flyers landed until they took off Monday morning."

Dr. Ayers explained that he asked the District Attorney to conduct the investigation to prove or disprove, if possible, the charges of sabotage.

"I cannot believe there was any tampering with the planes," he continued. "I do believe, however, that there was a woeful lack of preparation for a cross-country race. Some of the girls were accompanied by mechanics who traveled in their own planes to look after the flyers' ships."

SOME HAVE MECHANICS

Miss Marvel Crosson, the girl killed near Wellton, Ariz., was unaccompanied by mechanics to San Bernardino. Her mother was in the city Sunday night, making the trip from Santa Monica by automobile. It is reported that Miss Crosson wired her brother in Chicago to fly west and meet her.

ENGINE HEATED

Dr. Ayers tonight declared that Miss Crosson, shortly before she took off from this city yesterday, told him that her plane's motor had been heating and that the oil pressure had been dropping constantly during the first leg of the journey from Santa Monica here. The flyer told Dr. Ayers, he said, that she planned to "take it easy" to Yuma, the next control station. Whether or not the condition of Miss Crosson's plane's engine grew worse after leaving here is not definitely known, although, it is understood, several of the entrants pleaded with the girl not to endeavor to fly the ship on the Yuma-Phoenix leg.

A number of the girl flyers had mechanics to care for their planes at the stopping points. Jim Granger, Los Angeles aviator, accompanied Ruth Elder of trans-Atlantic

ZEPPELIN DUE HERE SUNDAY

Globe Circler Set to Leave Tokio at 11 a.m. Today if Weather Remains Favorable

TOKIO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Illuminated by great batteries of lights by which more than 100 Japanese naval mechanics worked to refuel her, the globe-circling Graf Zeppelin is almost ready tonight for its trans-Pacific flight to Los Angeles, the last great test of her flight around the world to Lakehurst.

The dirigible's departure remains fixed at 4 a.m. Thursday, Japanese time (11 a.m. Wednesday, Pacific standard time,) provided the weather permits. Indications tonight from the Japanese Weather Bureau are that favorable conditions for the Pacific flight will reign for several days.

DUE HERE SUNDAY

While the majority of the officers and crew retired early after a day of entertainment out at Kasumigaura Air Field, the work of refueling the Graf and replenishing her stores proceeded steadily. It is under the direction of Karl Beuerle, chief engineer of the Zeppelin, and H. M. Scott, engineer of Los Angeles, representing the American company which is supplying the fuel gas.

Both engineers are confident their work will be completed by Wednesday evening.

FOLLOW GREAT CIRCLE

If the Graf averages as fast a passage over the Pacific as over Europe and Asia, or approximately 1700 miles daily, she should reach American territory by Saturday and sail over Los Angeles early Sunday.

It was officially indicated that Dr. Eckener intends to follow the great circle steamship route northeast from Kasumigaura. This would keep the Graf over the steamer lanes from Yokohama to Seattle and Vancouver.

The officers of the Zeppelin are hopeful of beating the record for traveling around the world held by J. H. Mears and the late C. B. D. Collyer with twenty-three days and fifteen hours. To do so the Zeppelin must pass over the Statue of Liberty by approximately 4 p.m. the 31st inst.

FALL KILLS DERBY GIRL

Miss Crosson's Body Found

Partly Opened Parachute Reveals Racer Leaped to Her Death

Aviators Plan to Shower Flowers Over Funeral at San Diego

WELLTON (Ariz.) Aug. 20. (AP)—Wrapped in the silken folds of the parachute which was strapped around her when she fell to her death, the body of Marvel Crosson of San Diego, Cal., Santa Monica-Cleveland air derby entry, killed near here when her plane crashed, was brought here today to be sent to her California home.

A searching party led by Deputy Sheriff Jack Livingston of Yuma county found the young woman crushed against the boulder-strewn ground in an isolated ravine at daybreak. She was crumpled among the folds of her partly opened parachute, her neck and both legs broken. One hundred yards away was the wreckage of her plane.

RIP CORD PULLED

Examination of the parachute revealed that the rip cord had been pulled, but that, due possibly to lack of sufficient altitude, the silken fabric had failed to open sufficiently to break the flyer's fall. The position of the body and the plane indicated that Miss Crosson had leaped from the ship during the course of its fall. Ranchers who reported seeing the plane plunge downward in the distance estimated that it had not been flying at great altitude.

Aeronautical experts who examined the plane expressed belief that the heat of the desert region above which Miss Crosson had been flying, between Yuma and Phoenix, control points of the derby, may have caused trouble with the cylinder heads of her motor.

ORDERED NEW MOTOR

At Yuma Miss Crosson while refueling was urged by her sister pilots to abandon the race or wait until a new power unit could be installed. She insisted, however, on continuing the flight to Phoenix, where she expected a new motor would be awaiting her.

She had ordered a new motor from Los Angeles to be shipped to Phoenix, according to several of the other entrants in the race, who told last night of their efforts to dissuade the San Diego girl from attempting the flight from Yuma to Phoenix.

The body was brought to Wellton today by motor, after having been carried from the rugged region in which it was found, on horseback. It will be sent to her San Diego home.

A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death at an inquest today.

FLYERS WILL DROP FLOWERS OVER GRAVE

A squadron of planes from Clover Field will pay final tribute to Miss Crosson by dropping flowers over the San Diego cemetery during the services, it was announced last night by Lieut. Duff Wilson, manager of the Santa Monica Airport.

Miss Crosson's body was en route to San Diego yesterday from Yuma, Ariz., by train, where it was taken in an ambulance from Wellton, Ariz., following discovery of the crash scene a few miles northeast of Wellton on the edge of the Gila River.

Joe Crosson, the brother who taught Marvel to fly and her partner in an Alaskan commercial aviation enterprise, was en route by plane last night from Detroit, Mich., and is expected in San Diego today or tomorrow.

Zelma Crosson, a younger sister, student at the Pasadena Hospital Nurses' Home, left for San Diego yesterday to aid in funeral arrangements.

INDIANA GIRL

Marvel Crosson was born in Warsaw, Ind., on April 27, 1904. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Exler E. Crosson, and spent her preschool days on a farm before attending grade school near Minneapolis, Kan. Later the Crossons moved to Sterling, Colo., and Marvel graduated from the Logan County High School there.

It was in Sterling that Marvel and her brother became fascinated by aircraft. A barnstorming aviator named McMullen, flying an old-style pusher type plane, appeared at a Sterling fair and it was then that Marvel and her brother decided to fly if they ever got the chance.

That chance came in 1923 when Marvel's family moved to San Diego. Joe purchased an old army training plane there and Marvel helped him put it in commission. Joe soloed in the spring of 1923 and taught Marvel to fly alone a few weeks later.

WON ALTITUDE RECORD

They entered commercial aviation together and went to Alaska in 1923 where Marvel gave flying exhibitions and worked as an aviation executive, while Joe flew as a transport pilot.

Marvel developed into such an accomplished pilot, flying over the high rough mountains of Alaska in all kinds of weather and in all types of planes, that Joe sent her back to the United States to enter commercial flying here.

World-wide recognition was accorded Miss Crosson when she took a plane off from Clover Field and established a new world's altitude record for women of 23,996 feet on June 28, last.

When the National Women's Air Derby was announced Miss Crosson flew both ways over the Santa Monica-to-Cleveland course and filed in Cleveland the first application in the derby. She bore No. 1 on her derby plane and was regarded as one of the best prepared for the cross-country race.

MRS. THADEN LEADS DERBY

Pittsburgh Flyer Takes Heat Money at Douglas and Has Best Elapsed Time Mark

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Aug. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Louise Thaden of Pittsburgh, spiraled down at the International Airport here at 10:18:40 o'clock this morning to take lap money in the third heat and the lead in elapsed time in the women's Santa Monica-to-Cleveland air derby. She took off from Phoenix at 8:40 a.m., covering the 220 miles to Douglas in one hour and thirty-five minutes.

Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., covered the distance in 2h. 31m. 50s., to take second place. She also stands second in elapsed time at 6h. 38s.

Mrs. Phoebe Omlie of Memphis, Tenn., piloted the first light plane into the Douglas control at 6h. 27m. 37s. elapsed time, retaining her lead in that class.

Fears that Mrs. Vera Dawn Walker of Los Angeles, who was reported missing had met with an accident were dispelled late this afternoon when word came that she landed near Lordsburg, N. M., 100 miles east of here, after having lost her way. Getting her bearings, Mrs. Walker refueled and took off for Douglas where she landed at 3:14:30.

Mrs. Keith Miller, New Zealand light-plane entry, made a forced landing at Elfreida, Ariz., approximately twenty miles north of Douglas. The fuselage of her plane was damaged slightly, but repairs are being rushed and she is expected to fly the plane into the airport here tonight.

Blanche Noyes, Cleveland, O., lost her bearings and flew southward into Mexico for a distance of nearly sixty miles. She landed at Cananea, Son. Her landing created considerable excitement in the Mexican city and when she saw a small army of peons coming rapidly toward her, several on horseback, she made a quick take-off and was in flight before her would-be welcomers were within speaking distance.

Mrs. Florence Lowe Barnes of San Marino, Cal., who led in elapsed time yesterday, also went considerable distance south of the international line. She finally regained her course, landing here at 11:33:31.

The flyers were keenly grieved over the death of Marvel Crosson, San Diego entrant, killed near Wellton, Ariz., yesterday. Mrs. Thaden and Mrs. O'Donnell, close friends of the dead flyer, burst into tears.

The flyers were inclined to discredit reports received here that their planes had been tampered with at control points west of Phoenix.

Precautions are being taken to guard the planes here through the night.

The pilots were enthusiastically greeted by a crowd here estimated at 6000 persons.

JOINS OTHER PILOTS

Miss May Haizlip of Kansas City, who experienced trouble in the second lap from San Bernardino to Phoenix, and who spent last night in Mexicali, landed late this afternoon, flying from Phoenix to Douglas in 2:31:30. She came from Mexicali to Phoenix this morning, and will take her place on the starting line with the other entrants tomorrow morning.

Thea Rasche, German girl flyer, is spending tonight in Phoenix, where she landed today after staying last night in Calexico. She plans to leave Phoenix at 5:30 tomorrow morning, attempting to reach here in time to take off with the "gang."

AIR SABOTAGE INQUIRY OPENS

Acid Put on Wires of Plane, Aviator Charges

Aviatrix Declares Rubbish Found in Gas Tank

and film fame, flying his own ship. Granger took up Miss Elder's ship in San Bernardino Monday morning before Miss Elder took off. He said that the ship was in good order. On Sunday night, however, mechanics placed gasoline in the oil tank of Miss Elder's ship. This was clarified, however, when oil company employees said they acted on Granger's personal orders and when the mistake was discovered, drained the tank, refilling it with lubricating oil.

LITTLE SLEEP

Thea Rasche was another flyer traveling alone. An employee of an oil company sponsoring her flight, serviced her plane at the field, it is reported, although the District Attorney operatives have not yet located the mechanics. Lieut. Fahy, pilot of the Lockheed Corporation, will be asked to appear at the District Attorney's investigation tomorrow to testify and hear the questioning of the ground crew.

None of the eighteen girl flyers who took off from San Bernardino at 6 o'clock Sunday morning had slept more than four hours Sunday night. Until long past midnight the girls were wrangling over the routing of the derby by Calexico instead of Yuma. At 1 o'clock all of the girls were routed from their beds by Mrs. Florence Barnes, the wife of the San Marino minister, to sign a formal threat of refusing to continue the flight, unless permitted to land at Yuma instead of Calexico where the landing field was declared unsafe for the pilots of the heavier ships.

POOR INSPECTION BLAMED FOR TROUBLE

Not sabotage, but poor inspection and servicing of planes and lack of adequate protection of them from curious visitors at San Bernardino and other control points were responsible for mishaps to contestants in the first National Women's Air Derby, was the opinion expressed yesterday by several local motor and aircraft experts and officials of the derby.

Although a statement was issued here by Mrs. Ulysses Grant McQueen, aviation enthusiast, asserting that Marvel Crosson had told her the motor of her derby entry was giving her trouble before the Clover Field take-off, Palmer Nichols, who supervised the installation of Miss Crosson's motor, stated last night that he gave the motor a final inspection an hour before the race started.

"I asked Miss Crosson if everything was okeh," Nichols said, "and she told me that it was. That was only a few minutes before the start here and Miss Crosson was too experienced a flyer to take off if her motor was not right, even if it meant giving up entering the race.

SPEED TESTS MADE

"The motor was installed the Friday before the race and not a few hours previously as Mrs. McQueen's statement indicated. Miss Crosson made some speed tests with the plane over Mines Field and I understand had a slight crack-up there, but she did not ask us for any help with her motor and her starting-time sanction of the motor convinces me that her plane and motor were in first-class shape."

Lieut. Duff Willson, manager of Clover Field, also declared that he has been misquoted in reports that he is said to have found four or five of the derby planes in dangerous condition just before the start of the second leg of the race in San Bernardino.

"I was asked by four or five girls to look their ships over," Willson said, "and found that two of the planes' oil tanks had been filled to capacity. This would not have left room for expansion of the oil and would have brought the planes down within a few minutes.

"So far as finding any mechanical defects in the planes, however, there is nothing to it. If anything was done to the planes that weakened them or caused their motors to stop I believe curious visitors at the field unintentionally tampered with them while they were left unguarded during part of Sunday night."

THEORY ADVANCED

Although Mrs. Claire Fahy and her husband, Lieut. Herbert J. Fahy, are reported to have made the charge that bracing wires on Mrs. Fahy's plane had been weakened with acid, a chemical test of the frayed wire ends had not been made here last night and it was impossible to determine by inspection whether acid was to blame or a rough landing field caused them to snap.

No one here knew whether Mrs. Fahy's ship was equipped with a battery, leaving open the possibility that leaking acid from a battery could have softened the wires.

Local pilots who were in close touch with the derby scoffed at the idea that there has been any sabotage committed. They agreed, however, that refueling crews may have misjudged gasoline capacities of the ships, that unintentional harm may have come to the ships from airport crowds, and that some of the entrants had not been long enough at the controls of the types of ships they are using in the race to attempt the rough flying schedule.

sired. In fact there was no reason, the kind senor said, why Cornelius should not go to work at the legation.

A few days later Cornelius was established in the household of Senor Gonsales-Prada. Mrs. Poindexter traced her prize to the Peruvian legation and called Senor Gonsales-Prada on the telephone. Once sure of her connection, Mrs. Poindexter, according to friends of the Peruvian diplomat, decided to tell Senor Gonsales-Prada just what she thought of him for having "enticed" away her perfect servant.

The envoy did not get all that Mrs. Poindexter said, but he gathered the distinct impression that unless Cornelius was restored forthwith, there would be trouble in Peru. Mrs. Poindexter, it seemed, is a friend of the ruling powers in Peru and would take steps to see that her servant was returned.

BYRD GETS PEEK AT FIRST SUN

himself on the platform of one of the towers. There was part of the sun, a glowing ball of flame magnified tremendously by refraction. Men feasted their eyes on it, watched it till the unaccustomed brilliance made them turn away. Far out on the barrier edge a mile and a half from camp Howard Mason also saw it and watched till his toes got cold and up on snow hills behind the camp others on skiis stood still.

It has been four long months since the sun has been seen here, four months of darkness and twilight, of cold and blizzards. Only now do we realize how much we missed it and how good it is to see it again. But it will be two days yet before it can be seen from sea level or before it will shine directly on Little America, for the camp lies in a hollow.

Mason had a wonderful view spread out before him. The barrier fell sharply away at his feet, a line of pressure bridges thrusting up their uneven edges below him on the bay ice. Beyond was still another upheaved mass of twisted ice and between them a pool of slush ice where a seal had been seen the day before. A seal lay on the ice near the hole and near it were two small figures, Chris Braathen and Jack Bursey, who had killed it for fresh meat and were preparing to bring it in on a dog sled. Still farther out was the glistening expanse of the bay ice with the sun peeping over the edge.

NEW PRESSURE ICE

Bernt Balchen and Sverre Strom went on skiis to Framheim today to see what condition the ice was in at the approaches to the barrier where the southern trail winds through pressure ice and crevasses. They found many new upheavals and crevasses as if there had been a terrific pressure there this winter. On the way home they came by way of the bay ice and had to make a wide detour to get back around the pressure ice which has been forced up in the last few months. The entire surface of the bay between here and Framheim has apparently changed and is so broken that it may go out this season much farther than last year.

SKY "SUFFRAGE" GIVEN WOMEN

Equal Rights on Recognized Records Now in Effect

Derby's Entrants Unable to Set Marks; However

Strict Rules Not Observed in This Particular Event

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—With only one year of record-making behind her, the woman aviator has won "equal rights" in world aviation.

The "ladybirds" now competing in the "powder-puff" derby flight from Santa Monica to Cleveland are engaged in the first women's contest in America since their right to a world record was established at Copenhagen in June by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale.

It is unlikely, however, that any new women's world records will come out of the Santa Monica-Cleveland event. F.A.I. rules require the strictest timing with a specially calibrated watch, and the action abroad was not made official in time to arrange for this air derby under world-record conditions.

OFFICIAL OBSERVANCE

Maj. Luke Christopher, secretary of the National Aeronautical Association contest committee, says of the Copenhagen action:

"It was decided to create a separate category for women's records, national and international.

"This decision will take effect immediately. In the future, all records established by women, through competition conducted in accordance with F.A.I. rules and regulations, will be officially observed. The data concerning same will be compiled as our other world records, and sent to the secretary-general of F.A.I. in Paris, France, for promulgation."

Women's records hitherto made, and now listed as "miscellaneous" on N.A.A. books, will stand, he said.

These records have appeared merely because the men of the N.A.A. were chivalrous enough to set them down. The woman aviator had no official status.

LIST OF RECORDS

These automatically become the first really official American women's records:

Altitude, 23,996 feet, Marvel Crosson.

Straightaway speed, 156 miles per hour, Louise McPhetridge Thaden.

Duration, 26h., 21m., 22s., Elinor Smith.

Wouldn't Take $1000 for Good Sar'gon Did Him

"I wouldn't take $1000 cash in my hand for what Sargon did for me! It not only restored my health, but it made me feel 20 years younger and stronger. I just feel great since I took this wonderful medicine.

"My stomach caused me no end of trouble the past few years and it seemed like no matter how little I ate, I always had indigestion. I had a dull ache in my side nearly all the time and an awful pain across the small of my back. My kidneys were all out of order and would get me up six and seven times a night. This broke into my sleep so that I'd get up dead tired before the day began. I was so weak, I couldn't walk a block without being 'all in.' My liver was torpid, my tongue was coated and I felt weak and dizzy. I was awfully worried about my condition for it isn't easy for a man 79 years old to find anything that will build him up. I had been reading in the papers about Sargon and when I kept seeing statements from so many well-known Los Angeles people, telling of the wonderful results they got from it, I went out and bought six bottles.

"Well, sir, I never saw anything in my life to equal Sargon! It ended my stomach trouble; gave me a dandy appetite and I can now eat anything I want without any ill effects whatever. I sleep just fine all night and get up refreshed and full of vitality. The pains in my back and side have all disappeared and I've got more strength and energy than I've had in years.

"And those Sargon Pills are fine! They regulated my liver; caused the coating on my tongue to disappear and I never feel dizzy any more.

"If anyone wants to know what I think of this marvelous medicine, just let them see me and I'll be glad to tell them all about it."

The above statement was made by John J. Husnik, 471 S. Indiana, Los Angeles.

The special Sargon representative at the Owl Drug Store, 6th and Broadway, is explaining the merits of this revolutionary new medicine to hundreds daily. Sargon may also be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.

The other fires are west of Vacaville, where 1000 acres are aflame, and in Pope Valley, near the Lake-county line.

In Sierra National Forest, 8500 acres were burned over, in addition to about 2000 outside the forest. Two thousand acres in Tahoe National Forest near Camptonville are blazing, with the fire out of control, and 3900 acres in Klamath National Forest near Oak Bar are afire, but isolated.

NONSKID FRANKFURTER NOW DREAM OF PACKERS

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—You who take your hot dog as a matter of course have no idea what a problem it really is.

The Packers' and Sausage Manufacturers' Association worries over such things. At the moment it is perturbed because of the frankfurter's tendency to skid. It realizes there is nothing more embarrassing than to have a frankfurter, sandwiched between the halves of a bun and slathered with mustard, skid from its place. Besides being a waste of good mustard, the skidding is a constant threat to milady's gown and to men's shirts.

Another sad thing about frankfurters is that the juices, like grapefruit, are apt to squirt forth most inauspiciously and at the most annoying angles.

The Association, therefore, has started a contest, open to any student in an architectural or engineering school, for a new design for a skinless, nonskid link frankfurter.

It feels that all real lovers of the wienerwurst delicacy will recognize in this contest a clarion call to do all they can to make hot dogs not only a succulent but a safe course of nourishment.

Federal Check Gives Angeleno Flying Record

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Bureau of Standards calibrations today showed that Waldo Waterman, test pilot at Metropolitan Airport in Los Angeles, made an American record altitude of 20,230 feet for commercial-type planes on July 27, last.

Waterman's record will not be official until it is confirmed by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale at Paris.

The previous American record of 16,732 feet for this type of plane was made by Harold Harris.

The world record of 25,941 feet is held by Regina Schinziger, a German.

WASHINGTON TELLS OF RANGERS' GOOD WORK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—In spite of the fact that forest fires have been burning large areas in the West this year, figures for the seven months between January 1 and July 31, the latest available, show that the regular protective organization maintained by the Forest Service has been functioning with record-making efficiency in the national forests, it was declared today by officials of the Department of Agriculture.

During the period, it was announced, 3898 fires started. Of these, the department explained, 1788, or 66 per cent, were controlled before they reached a quarter of an acre in size, and 668 fires were controlled between a quarter of an acre and ten acres in size.

Ninety-one per cent of the fires started from the first of the year to July 31 were controlled within less than ten acres, and these are the fires that the regular protective association combats. This constitutes a new record, it was pointed out. The other 9 per cent, it was explained, were combated by the emergency fire fighters.

The chief cause of the present forest fires in the West is lightning, a total of 1461 fires being thus started up to July 31, it was said. The West, the department recalled, is having a large number of electrical storms and is suffering from drought.

The remainder were entered as man-caused fires, most of which were due to careless smokers and campers.

GERMANS ORGANIZE GREAT AIR COMPANY

BERLIN, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Graf Zeppelin's flight from Friedrichshafen to Tokio today brought forth a $20,000,000 project for regular German-Russian-Japanese air service with terminals in each of the three countries. It was announced that plans for the scheme had been completed.

Capt. Walter Bruns, executive secretary of the Aeronautic Society and head of an international committee studying the development of international air traffic, said today that the European terminal of the Asiatic line will be in Berlin. The Asiatic terminal is placed somewhere between Yokohama and Kobe. The naval airport at Kasumigaura also may be used.

The ambitious venture calls for a possible later extension of the service over the Aleutian Islands to Vancouver and San Francisco.

STOWAWAY LEAPS FROM SHIP TO ESCAPE TRIAL

HAMBURG, Aug. 20. (Exclusive) Albert Buchow, young stowaway on the Zeppelin's last Lakehurst trip, made a desperate attempt to escape. As the liner Thuringia entered the Elbe estuary, Buchow leaped overboard and started to swim to shore, but a lookout spotted him and gave the alarm. Various ships around sent out boats, one of which picked up the youngster and after a struggle handed him over to the police.

SUPERMAN COLONY TO BE FOUNDED

Scheme for Califonia Development Disclosed by Miss Besant in East

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Annie Besant, 82-year-old leader of the international Theosophist movement, arrived today on the Majestic, en route to Chicago to attend the world conference of Theosophists next month.

Mrs. Besant announced that a committee is at work on plans for a farm community in California, called "Happy Valley," where a new and superior race of Americans will be bred. The type of colonists to be selected, for the excellence of their children, are plentiful in California, she said.

These children, she explained, have as a special quality a keen intuition by which they observe truth readily without the necessity of long explanation and they mature about two and a half years sooner than other children.

The colony will sustain itself by raising fruit, she said. Only the best types of American families will be permitted to join.

tor developing 300 horsepower, left Spokane last Thursday night at 5:58:10 p.m. (P.S.T.) and winged toward San Francisco, near where the first refueling contact was made.

OVER MAIL ROUTE

From Mills Field the flyers turned eastward on the lighted transcontinental mail route, refueling successfully at Rock Springs and Cheyenne, Wyo., North Platte, Neb., Cleveland and New York, the eastern terminus of the flight. They took on a full supply of gasoline, oil and food over Roosevelt Field and in two hours started retracing their route to Cleveland.

At Chicago the Sun God was sent to St. Paul to fly over the proposed northern air-mail route. They refueled at St. Paul, Aberdeen, S. D., Miles City and Missoula, Mont.

ALTITUDE PERILS

In the rarified atmosphere at 9000 feet over Rock Springs, Wyo., refueling was most difficult, and before a contact was completed the flight barely missed disaster. Only ten gallons of gasoline remained in the tanks when the first fifty gallons was transferred. Once more, when the flyers reached western Pennsylvania on the return trip, a storm threatened to ground them. Weathering this they straightened their course westward and completed the hop in 48h. 53m., 17h. and 45m. quicker than the eastward passage.

fenders at Chillicothe, O., which is a nonwalled prison.

HOOVER'S STATEMENT

President Hoover's statement concerning the prisons situation follows:

"Through the co-operation of Secretary Good and the Attorney General I believe we have found a temporary solution to the problem of overcrowding in the Federal prisons, especially those at Atlanta and Leavenworth.

"The Army has three major prisons—one at Governor's Island, one at Leavenworth and one at Alcatraz.

"The army prison at Leavenworth is a model establishment with a capacity of about 1600 prisoners. At the present there are only 600 army prisoners in the establishment. At the same time there are many vacancies in both Governor's Island and Alcatraz. Also there are vacancies for short-time prisoners in some of the army post prisons. Beyond this again there are a number of men recommended for parole from the army prisons.

"Subject to our being able to overcome any legal difficulties, it is proposed to make the Leavenworth military prison available to the Department of Justice as a temporary measure pending construction of further accommodations by the Department of Justice. This will afford relief to about 1600 prisoners from the general prisons at Leavenworth and Atlanta."

GERMANS NUDGE JAWING VICTORS

Stresemann Points Payment Date to Allies

Dawes Plan Void in Ten Days; New One Unratified

Teutons Face Possibility of No One to Pay to

[Copyright, 1929, by Chicago Tribune.]

THE HAGUE, Aug. 20. (Exclusive) With her creditors still hopelessly deadlocked over the splitting up of the financial spoils of victory, Germany today asked for a meeting with the Allied powers and for information on what happens about reparations if no agreement is reached here.

Gustav Stresemann, German Finance Minister, in a note points out that it is a short time before September 1, when the Young plan should become operative and supersede the Dawes plan. He stressed the point that Germany has accepted the experts' plan.

Therefore, it is questionable whether the Berlin government will continue payment of $595,000,000 per annum under the Dawes plan and serious doubt if Germany will begin paying the Young plan scale, averaging $487,900,000 yearly, until it finds out to whom the money shall be paid.

The creditor powers, therefore, face the disagreeable prospect of getting no reparations at all unless they are able to reach an accord on distribution of the booty, and Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden is still adamant that Great Britain's share must be increased to 22 per cent as the reparations agreement provides.

Aristide Briand, French Premier; Louis Loucheur, French Finance Minister, and Mr. Snowden had tea with Japanese Delegate Adatchi this afternoon and over the cakes and tea cups tried to reconcile their viewpoints.

An official statement afterward said they had tried to bring their standpoints closer to agreement.

Meanwhile the technical experts still are laboring over drafting a report as to what the four-power memorandum really offers Great Britain in actual figures.

Treasury experts showed one arithmetical mistake in the Young plan, awarding France in one annuity about $1,482,000 in excess of its due share.

The error was blamed on an adding machine miscalculation, but the French did not offer to hand over the sum to Great Britain.

German Opera Star Succumbs

DRESDEN (Germany) Aug. 20. (AP)—Frau Meta Seinemeyer, 34 years of age, hailed by the German press as one of the most promising of the younger stars of the world's operatic stage, died today after an attack of grip.

Only a few hours before her death she had been married to Dr. Frieder Weissmann, orchestra director.

Health is best, in average life, between the ages of 30 & 40. The "danger period" in health begins at 40. Read how this health curve can be passed up to 50 and over.

Why Age 40... is often the turning point in health

Begin at 20 to guard against this prevalent "after 40 ailment" that over half of men and women are afflicted with

THE TURNING point in health is 40; the average age when wear and tear of life begins to take its toll.

One of the most prevalent "after 40 ailments" is kidney breakdown. Over half of men and women are afflicted in some degree; many without knowledge of it, for there are no warning symptoms.

Medical Science now gives the cause: 75% of poisonous waste from the system is excreted by kidneys, much in too concentrated form. Overburdened, delicate kidney cells break down. Congestion occurs, throwing back into the system the poisons which should be eliminated. This becomes the forerunner of many serious ills.

Doctors now advise this preventive: Drink six glasses of Puritas mineral-free water each day. Puritas dilutes poisonous waste, dissolves and washes it away, thus lightening the load of kidneys. Mineral-free, it leaves no congestion-forming deposits. Thus Puritas constantly protects the normal functioning of kidneys.

Puritas water, scientifically distilled and aerated, is mineral-free, impurity-free; water in its purest state. Although you'll find its taste different at first, each drink becomes increasingly enjoyable.

Highly skilled weather observers along the entire route are transmitting their reports to your pilot. He knows exactly what to expect! . . . And, with three motors, can easily meet any weather emergency.

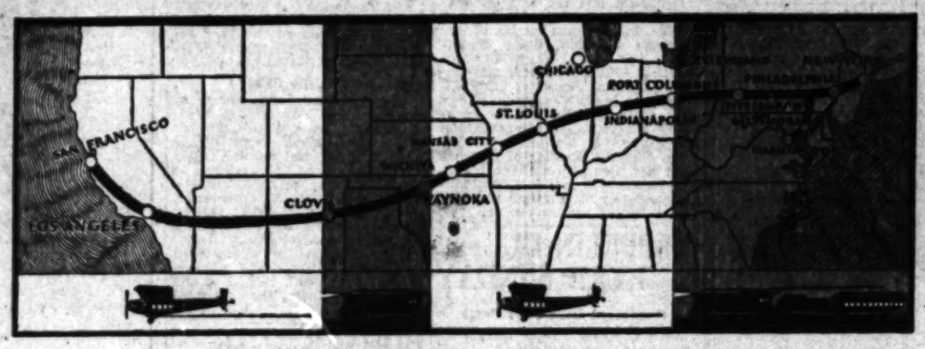
Not until safety was definitely assured could the great transportation companies risk carrying passengers across the sky. And safety could not be assured until three of the greatest hazards of flight were overcome. These were (1) engine failure, (2) structural defects, and (3) fire. War-time planes, and planes built on war-time principles, could not overcome these hazards, because such planes were planned expressly for hazardous performances and risky maneuverability. A new type of plane, a commercial plane with safety as its chief factor, had to be developed before peace-time transportation could be assured.

After months and years of study, both in America and Europe, the Pennsylvania Railroad, in conjunction with the Santa Fe, realized that at last, in the multi-engined plane, safety with comfort could be assured!

New York to Los Angeles—48 hours

On July 7th, with more than a thousand applications for passage in hand, the first air-rail service was inaugurated across this country. Now, as you are reading this message, the giant, all-metal tri-motored planes of the Transcontinental Air Transport are driving across the sky smoothly, luxuriously, SAFELY . . . at over a hundred miles an hour! This is the birth of a new service that will continue through the ages; for with the development of the metal plane air-transportation is at last an established fact.

You are accustomed to marvels in this industrial age. But do you fully comprehend the simple fact of this new air-transportation service? Do you understand that taking passage from New York to Los Angeles or San Francisco, or to intermediate points by T-A-T planes, is today just as simple as taking passage by train or boat? . . . And that it will not end, as a fad does, next month or the month after, but will continue to expand until the skies are streaked with giant metal planes?



The shaded portions of the map indicate the sections of the route traversed in Pullman cars at night. The entire trip from Coast to Coast takes only 48 hours. So most of the country you pass is revealed in golden sunlight.

Tickets may be purchased, are being purchased! at all railroad stations affiliated with the Santa Fe or Pennsylvania Railroad lines. Passage from New York to Los Angeles costs $351.94, and includes meals and all accommodations while aloft.

The Safe Road Aloft

The 48-hour trip begins at 6:05 P. M. on the "Airway Limited," a Pullman sleeper, departing from the Pennsylvania Station, New York. Dawn at Port Columbus discloses a Ford all-metal, tri-motored plane, with engines idling beside the rails. . . . A swift run! A new sensation of smoothness and extraordinary firmness and stability underfoot! You are aloft! As the world grows smaller beneath you, you experience a marvelous sensation of increased stature . . . of almost divine calmness . . . of a new and superior understanding.

FEAR? There is none. The swiftness of flight gives the air about you the density of water. Extend your hand through an open window. You can FEEL the air, just as you feel water when you trail your hand from a canoe! DIZZINESS? There is none. For there are no lines of perspective to draw you earthward. The world in panorama simply floats beneath you. You are traveling a pathway that mankind has never known until the birth of this progressive generation. You are feeling emotions indescribable only a few years ago.

You glide lightly to earth for a few minutes at Indianapolis . . . St. Louis . . . Kansas City . . . Wichita. . . . And as the sun begins to sink at Waynoka, at 6:24 o'clock, you come again to the spacious comfort of another Pullman sleeper. Dawn, once more, in Clovis. Once more you soar smoothly into the sky, desert beneath you and purple mountains beyond. You land for a few moments at Albuquerque . . . Winslow . . . Kingman. . . . And late in the afternoon the blue of the California sky reflects the deeper blue of the Pacific Ocean. You have crossed the North American continent on one of the most marvelous trips the genius of this age can offer you!

Stability has been equal to a cushioned limousine gliding over a cement road. The comfort has been that of a luxurious yacht, with a steward in attendance, and refreshments, iced or piping hot, at your order. Running hot and cold water in an immaculate lavatory were at your service. And the world below you was an open book of infinite fascination!

But what assured your SAFETY?

Two vital factors made your trip one of security.

1. All-metal construction.

The science of metallurgy has alone made possible the highest development of transport planes. Metal will not burn. And metal is of uniform strength. Planes built of the new alloys are uniformly strong. In comparison to the planes of war-time, and of the experimental era, when they were held together with glue and sticks and uncertain fabric, they are as a modern automobile compared to an old-fashioned wooden wagon. . . . That is why the great air liners of Germany are practically all of metal. . . . That is why in other countries the trend is toward all-metal planes. . . . That is why Ford built at least five years ahead of the modern trend in aviation!

2. THREE air-cooled motors of 1275 horse-power.

Two of these motors would have been sufficient to lift you from the ground and carry you to your destination. But in the transport of passengers over wide and uncertain areas, what if one engine failed? Immediate descent would have been necessary, though the glide might be extended over many miles. THE THIRD ENGINE IS YOUR EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY. For if one of three engines cuts out you may continue on to your destination in safety. And if one of the remaining two engines should by chance cut out you still have many miles for a reasonably safe landing. . . . That is why the trend in Germany is toward multi-engined ships. . . . That is why the Silver Wing air liners, the Imperial Airways of Great Britain, are tri-motored. . . . That is why Ford will build nothing less than a three-motored ship for human transport.

FOR UPON THE FACTOR OF SAFETY, MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE, DEPENDS THE SUCCESS OF COMMERCIAL AVIATION.

This principle of safety first . . . established by the experts of the Transcontinental Air Transport . . . is a policy that is certain to carry this great new transportation company far on the wings of success.

INFANTRY UNITS GO IN AIR CORPS

Five Battalions Disbanded for Aviation Program

Other Branches to Furnish 1094 Enlisted Men

General Staff Works Away on Army Reduction

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Five battalions of infantry were ordered disbanded by Secretary Good today so their enlisted personnel can be transferred to the Air Corps in connection with the five-year army aviation expansion program.

The cavalry, field artillery, Engineer Corps, ordnance, and chemical warfare service sections also were ordered to furnish a total of 1094 enlisted men to the aviation service. These transfers are to be made as the third annual increment of the Air Corps' personnel under the five-year expansion plan.

UNITS TO DISBAND

The battalions selected for disbandment are: First Battalion, Thirteenth Infantry, Fort Strong, Mass.; Third Battalion, Eighth Infantry, Fort Moultrie, S. C.; First Battalion, Tenth Infantry, Fort Thomas, Ky.; Third Battalion, Sixth Infantry, Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and Second Battalion, Seventeenth Infantry, Fort Des Moines, Iowa.

Under the transfer from the other arms of the service, 321 men will be drawn from all the cavalry units in the country; by reducing the Fifteenth Field Artillery from a regiment to a battalion, 547 men will be taken from the field artillery; 141 men from the Engineer Corps; seventy-five men from the ordnance department, and ten men from the chemical warfare service.

USE PRUNING KNIFE

Meanwhile at the War Department, officers of the General Staff are seeking means of paring down the army's expenditures as proposed by President Hoover. A vast compendium of facts and statistics is being assembled from all army units and services throughout the United States and American possessions in the office by Brig.-Gen. Simonds.

The survey is expected to be completed by November 1 and after the General Staff has drafted its report the army's war council, consisting of Secretary Good, Assistant Secretary Hurley, Gen. Pershing and Gen. Summerall, Chief of Staff, will transmit a final report of the department to Congress.

CEREMONIES AT SESSION OF KNIGHTS

Catholic Order Opens Its Supreme Convention With Religious Services

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—Impressive religious ceremonies that saw 9000 persons jam their way into the Milwaukee Municipal Auditorium to participate, and business sessions at headquarters, featured the opening day of the supreme convention of the Knights of Columbus here today.

The Milwaukee auditorium was transformed into a huge cathedral today for the colorful pontifical high mass which marked the opening of the convention.

In his annual report, Supreme Knight Carmody expressed satisfaction of the Knights of Columbus with the adjustment of the religious situation in Mexico and the signing of the Lateran pact. He also reported on seven convictions obtained for the circulation of the bogus K. of C. Fourth Degree oath in various parts of the country.

Court Upholds Disbarment of Woman Lawyer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—The disbarment of Maud Stillwell Shattuck, also known as Mary Maud Stillwell, Los Angeles lawyer, dropped by the State Bar Association last October, was upheld today by the State Supreme Court, making the final disbarment of the first woman lawyer of the State to be subjected to such a procedure.

Mrs. Shattuck was charged with negligence in administering the estate of Nicholas John Steiner and with failure to make a final report accounting for a $851.91 residue in the estate. The charges were filed by Hubert J. Turney of Los Angeles, a beneficiary.

The Supreme Court again in the decision upheld the constitutionality of the act creating the State Bar of California.

WAR BRINGS ARGUMENT

Russo-Chinese Conflict Settles Down to Quarrel as to Who Really Started It

TOKIO, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Russo-Chinese war in Manchuria has settled down to a "battle of propaganda," according to reports received here.

Charges and counter-charges of invasions and other provocations, exchanged freely in the press for the last week or longer, today were brought to the official notice of the Japanese government when the Chinese Minister, Wang Yung-Pao, visited the Tokio Foreign Office and laid a full account of Russia's asserted aggressions before H. Aritt, chief of the Asiatic Bureau.

Wang asserted he acted on instructions from the Nationalist government at Nanking. Nanking told him to inform Japan that Russia definitely launched a campaign of border aggression on the 16th inst.

Nevertheless, China intends to remain in peaceful relations with her northern neighbor, according to the diplomat.

Meanwhile Russian cables bring similar charges against the Chinese. The frontier zone apparently is quiet but the noteworthy increase of Chinese forces there continues.

MUKDEN TROOPS SENT

Both Mukden and Nanking report that Gen. Chang Hsueh Liang, Governor of Manchuria, is sending 60,000 Mudken troops to the Manchurian border to take the responsibility of defense out of the hands of local military authorities.

The Mukden troops are better trained and equipped than the northern provincial levies, which until now have been charged with the duty of guarding the frontier.

IRREGULARS INVADE MISHAN, ON BORDER

[Copyright, 1929, by Chicago Tribune.]

HARBIN, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—The Chinese agent of the International Harvester Company in the town of Mishan, on the Chinese-Russian border north of Pogranichnaya, telegraphed the head office at Harbin today that a band of so-called Russian irregulars had invaded the town and looted the company's office, following which it burned a large vodka distillery.

It was stated that the raiders were in mixed uniforms, some of which were similar to those of regular soviet troops.

The town of Tuning, also located on the border south of Pogranichnaya, was likewise looted by a band of partisans. Chinese authorities have rushed reinforcements to this area, but, owing to the mountainous, wooded character of the country the Chinese troops are experiencing difficulties, especially in view of the fact that the partisan gangs are familiar with the country and seemingly well armed.

While the soviet government has denied any connection with the series of terrorist activities along the entire soviet-Chinese border in the past few days, the Chinese are convinced that the gangs are financed and armed by some interested source which apparently is determined to create a war situation.

DANGEROUS TENSION RULES MANCHURIA

LONDON, Aug. 20. (AP)—A dangerous tension continued today in Manchuria without the slightest indication of a truce holding any prospect for reopening the suspended negotiations between China and Russia on the Chinese Eastern Railway.

At the same time the view in official quarters in London is that every day gained without formal outbreak of hostilities is a point in favor of peace.

Diplomatic advices today said that all was quiet in the vicinity of Manchuli, so much so that Japanese residents who had fled at the prospect of war were returning. This view of the situation was confirmed by Tokio, where it was said there had been no serious developments for the past two days.

Charges and counter-charges brought by both China and Russia are increasing in bitterness, but are doubtless intended largely for foreign consumption and to justify in the eyes of signatories of the Kellogg antiwar pact their refusal to resume negotiations.

One of the most interesting developments was the complete refutation from Peiping of the report that 10,000 soviet soldiers had invaded Chinese territory.

In later years, Gillis wrote a number of articles about his friend, the last being called "Memories of Mark Twain."

SON OF HOOVER RIDES IN ETHER

Listeners-in Take Imaginary Journey in Plane

Operation of Wave Beacons Told in Broadcast

Network Hook-Up Address One of Education Series

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—In terse, dramatic style, Herbert Hoover, Jr., son of the President, took the radio audience on an imaginary airplane journey halfway across the continent this evening to illustrate the use of radio in flying. The talk, delivered over a twenty-five station hook-up of the National Broadcasting Company, was one of the "roads of the sky" series sponsored on the network by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

The radio address was young Hoover's first, although he has long been an amateur radio operator, working the ether channels in communication with other "hams." At 26 years of age he now is assistant to the president of Western Air Express, a large air mail and passenger carrier. He is at present engaged in building up its radio system.

Radio, Mr. Hoover told the national radio audience, must become to the airplane what the block signal system is to the railroad. Providing constant communication between transport planes in flight and their ground bases, it is supplying the link in commercial aviation that assures safety and regularity of operation, he said. It is part of the nerve system of an air transport company, being even more important to aviation than to shipping inasmuch as a boat, rarely traveling over twenty miles an hour, can ride out a storm or anchor off port indefinitely, while an airplane must travel over 100 miles an hour and find its airport immediately.

Federal Survey of Dry-Killing Cases Dropped

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—The proposed survey by the Department of Justice to determine the number of citizens and officers killed in the enforcement of the prohibition law was said today by Attorney-General Mitchell to have been dropped.

Answers to the inquiry, the Attorney-General said, showed that municipal and State officers have not kept a record of prohibition killings and that any figures gathered would be entirely useless.

JONES LAW TAKES PROFITS OUT OF LIQUOR TRAFFIC

follows but it will be time enough to consider the questions when some taxpayer has the temerity to raise it."

These decisions represent permanent gains in the government's huge task of enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment. The winds of popular disapproval and political excitement over "Volsteadism" may rage, but these foundations, though unspectacular, are sure and firm. Ultimate orderly enforcement will be built upon them. At moments of discouragement I find reassurance in the knowledge that in this way I really have left a permanent contribution to the development of constitutional law, a contribution of increasing value as the government proceeds on its task of enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment.

JONES "FIVE-AND-TEN LAW"

Many tears have been shed by antiprohibitionists, and especially organizations actively engaged in propaganda against the prohibition law, because of the amendment which the antis have labeled "The Jones Five and Ten Law."

I have heard many such comments as this:

"Now you have a law that will let a judge send a woman to prison for five years for selling a quart of whisky; and probably the next thing the prohibitionists will get through is a law giving a life sentence to the bootlegger who is caught a second time, and after that you will probably try to get capital punishment for supplying the stuff that even judges are drinking. The prohibitionists are just getting desperate because they know the law can't be enforced under reasonable penalty."

PROVISIONS CITED

First, let's see what the Jones Law provides:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That wherever a penalty or penalties are prescribed in a criminal prosecution by the National Prohibition Act, as amended and supplemented, for the illegal manufacture, sale, transportation, importation, or exportation of intoxicating liquor, as defined by Sec. 1, Title II, of the National Prohibition Act, the penalty imposed for each such offense shall be a fine not to exceed $10,000 or imprisonment not to exceed five years, or both: Provided, That it is the intent of Congress that the court, in imposing sentence hereunder, should discriminate between casual or slight violations and habitual sales of intoxicating liquor, or attempts to commercialize violations of the law.

Sec. 2. This Act shall not repeal nor eliminate any minimum penalty for the first or subsequent offense now provided by the said National Prohibition Act.

I do not believe that harsh penalties ever will obtain enforcement of or obedience to laws. It is quite true, as stated by some of the Anti-Prohibitionists, that juries will not convict if the punishment does not fit the crime. Certainly, as the head of the department charged with the responsibility for the conduct of prosecutions, I would not recommend enactment of a law that would make conviction more difficult to obtain.

JUSTICE TEMPERED

Yet the fact is—and I say it without any compunction or pangs of conscience—that I actively advocated the passage of the Jones bill.

Why?

Probably some of my antiprohibitionist friends will supply an answer far from the truth—

"She is a fanatic on prohibition and she would put her own mother in jail for ten years if she found her selling a pint of liquor."

I have always believed, and my official record contains plenty of proof of that fact, that it is best for society to temper justice with mercy.

But I also believe that there is such a thing as being too lenient and "easy" with the criminal, and the result is disastrous for law-abiding citizens.

The prohibition - enforcement problem would not have reached the proportions it has today if there had been adequate penalties prior to passage of the Jones law that would have deterred and discouraged and frightened the thousands who embarked on bootlegging with the thought in mind, "well even if I do get caught, I will only get a $100 fine or a couple of months in jail. The money I can make justifies that much risk."

HAD NO "TEETH"

Let's see what the situation was up to the time of passage of the Jones law.

Willie Haar, of national bootlegging fame, whose profits reached the sum of $7,000,000, after conviction with some sixty of his confederates, under a conspiracy charge, was given the maximum sentence the judge could impose. That sentence was two years! And it wasn't under the prohibition law. Under it Haar could have not received more than six months and a $1000 fine. In other words, a man who had by bribery, corruption, fraud, and perhaps violence, and theft, distributed liquor through many States, contributing to the downfall and perhaps death of many persons with whom he never came in contact, was subject to less punishment than he would have been if convicted of stealing a gold watch or diamond ring in any one of most of the States.

Consider for a moment the actual case of an Indian agent who simply defrauded the government in supplying groceries and other necessities to Indians on their reservations, and who thus violated two sections of the Federal statute. The agent had a family to support and was working for only $1500 a year. Nevertheless, he was sentenced by a Federal judge to seven years' imprisonment in Atlanta penitentiary.

SLAP ON WRIST

On the other hand, a bootlegger whose sale of liquor traced by the Treasury Department, amounted to so many millions of dollars that he was subject to tax assessment of more than $1,000,000, was sentenced to but six months in jail.

Any person who imports goods in violation of the customs law, or who sells such goods after importation, may be imprisoned two years.

In other words, if George Jones had been convicted of smuggling into the United States empty whisky bottles, a judge could have sentenced him to the penitentiary for two years, and could have fined him $5000. But if George Jones had instead smuggled into the United States hundreds of gallons of whisky, he would prior to the Jones Amendment have been subject to a maximum penalty of only a $500 fine in case of conviction.

A drug importer failing to pay the tax levied on opium may be fined $10,000 and imprisoned for five years, or both. If a manufacturer fails to affix the required revenue stamp on phosphorus matches, he is liable to a sentence of two years in prison.

PENALTIES LIGHT

Another man, manufacturing tobacco without giving the required bond, is subject to a minimum sentence of from one to five years in prison.

For certifying a check when a depositor had not sufficient funds, the National Banking Act provides a penalty of imprisonment in the penitentiary for from five to fifteen years. If an army officer while in an intoxicated condition at a polling place interferes with an election he is subject to a sentence of five years imprisonment, or a $5000 fine. But the bootlegger who sold him the cause of his intoxication, if convicted prior to enactment of the Jones Act faced at the most, only six months in jail and a $1000 fine.

The fact is that the penalties of the Prohibition Act were inconsequential during the first ten years of its enforcement, or attempted enforcement, and they were totally out of proportion to the offenses which constitute the real Federal problem. They were out of proportion to the penalties that follow violation of other Federal laws. Yet the violation of the prohibition statute is a violation of the Constitution itself.

PUNISHMENTS RAISED

The Jones Amendment is not a new law. It leaves most of the Volstead Act untouched, raising penalties for violation of such sections as parallel specifically with the Eighteenth Amendment. Only maximum punishments are raised. The judge is simply given a larger sliding scale in order to enable him to fit the punishment to the crime. There has been raised by the anti-prohibition press a great hue and cry over the outrages judges may commit under it in sentencing college boys, mothers with small children and a man who carries a flask on his hip, to the penitentiary for five years.

Federal judges are appointed for life. They are officers chosen for their discretion. Every day they sentence hundreds of offenders under laws that have a sliding scale of punishment enabling the sentence to be all the way from a fine of $1 to twenty-five years in the penitentiary. We can trust our judges. Certainly government is in a bad way if we cannot leave the fate of a college boy who carries a flask to the football game to the sound discretion of the Federal judge whom he faces. There isn't an objector to the Jones Law in the entire United States who could point to a single Federal judge in whose hands that boy's fate would not be safe.

COBWEB OF RESTRAINT

The crux of the matter is that a Chicago racketeer will no longer feel so safe. The judge now has the power to send him to the penitentiary for five years, and neither the racketeer nor his patrons like that.

Every safeguard is still left around the casual offender. He can be given only a fine. Or he can be given the smallest kind of a jail sentence of an hour or a day. Everybody seems to forget the probation statute, under which the judge can suspend all punishment. That is why I was for the Jones Amendment. It is not oppressive. It is right for the judge to be able still to deal leniently with the exceptional case. But it arms the government against crafty criminals. I know that teeth are needed in the law so that he who violates the Constitution for the purpose of making money may be dealt with in such a manner that the punishment means something.

There would be little opposition to this amendment if it pertained to anything except prohibition. The little criminals and little drunkards never will overthrow the dignity of the law. We have drifted along for ten years with conditions becoming worse until a new danger has arisen. It is the commercial class of law violator—the racketeer, alcohol baron and rings of smugglers—who combine their lawlessness with entrenched political power. To them the Volstead Act was no more than a cobweb of restraint. Any fine under it was less than a license compared to the profits of the business. And it was easy for them to hire substitutes to go to jail for little terms.

ALDERMAN WORRIED

In Chicago not long ago an Alderman was convicted. He organized a $5,000,000 company to engage in a systematic violation of the prohibition law for the specific purpose of commercializing crime and making money out of defying the law. My experience as a law enforcement official has convinced me that the Volstead Act needed to be amended so that when that Alderman stands up for sentence, the judge may have the power to mete out something reasonably proportionate to his offense. Before the Jones Amendment the price would have been six months or $500 fine for profits to a $5,000,000 illegal combine.

Another reason I know that beneficial results will follow the Jones Amendment is that it will do away with the too prevalent use of the conspiracy statute. United States attorneys when given evidence of huge sales or manufacture of liquor on a commercial scale, in order to avoid the toothless misdemeanor offenses of the Volstead Act, have charged the defendants with "conspiracy." The conspiracy statutes have thus been distorted. They never were intended for so widespread use. Federal judges, including the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, have condemned such careless resort to conspiracy indictments in liquor cases. The man who transports a truckload of liquor should be charged with transporting. The man who sells large quantities of whisky should be charged with sale, and he who manufactures gin should meet that charge before the bar of justice. That is the forthright way to go about law enforcement. That is what the Jones Amendment is enabling prosecutors and judges to do.

The Jones Amendment to the Volstead Act also enables the man who purchases liquor from a bootlegger to be prosecuted. This is because sale has been made a felony. That ties it in with Section 251 of the United States Code. Section 251 provides that whoever helps in the commission of a felony shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than three years, or both. If, therefore, a man purchases a case of liquor, he is helping in the commission of a felony and may himself be charged with misprision of a felony. Several United States attorneys are preparing cases of this character now.

A great bugaboo has been raised over the Jones Amendment because it is charged that hereafter every prohibition violation will have to be presented to the grand jury. No one who is informed upon the various statutes can long maintain such a contention. Almost every violation reported by prohibition agents is a legal infringement of no less than five sections of law, to wit: First, some of the internal revenue statutes existing prior to prohibition; second, the possession; third nuisance; fourth, transportation; fifth, sale; or, sixth, manufacturing sections of the national prohibition act; seventh, the Tariff Act; eighth, the Customs Act, and, ninth, frequently the prohibition law of the State.

Manifestly, no prosecutor multiplies charges for the same set of facts by pleading violation of all of these statutes. It is the duty of the prosecuting official to look over his evidence and then plead the case under the statute best suited. It is also the duty of a prosecutor to follow the intent of Congress.

HOPE FOR HIP POCKETS

The Jones Amendment makes it clear that Congress intended it to apply particularly to commercial violations of the law. If, therefore, the prosecutor has evidence of a "hip-pocket pint" he does not need to take it to the grand jury. He can proceed under possession by filing an information. If the evidence shows commercial "crime for profit" features he should take it before the grand jury. It is the prosecutor's duty to exercise a sound discretion in choosing the proper charge. If he does, the grand jury alarm fails.

The Jones amendment to the Volstead Act already is working. It is not congesting courts. They already were congested before it came along. In districts where the United States Attorney has organized his work and is using common sense, it is not proving burdensome to grand juries. The little local misdemeanor cases ought to be turned over to the State courts anyway. The chief responsibility of the Federal government is to reach the major offenders—the racketeers. The Jones amendment gives the judge power to punish them adequately instead of giving them a "slap on the wrist," as the Volstead penalties have been doing for ten years.

Why all the hullabaloo over the hypothetical harshness of the Jones Act? The Volstead infant has been in the arena ten years and big bootleggers laugh!

Then why not try "the five and ten!"

Maybe they won't laugh it off so easily.

(In her next article Mrs. Willebrandt will reveal some of the human flaws in enforcement.)

CHURCH VOICES THANKS FOR PROHIBITION SERIES

The congregation of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church of Pomona has expressed its appreciation to The Los Angeles Times and to Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt for their efforts to clarify the law enforcement situation as regards the Eighteenth Amendment.

This announcement was made yesterday by a church committee comprised of Chester R. Montague, the pastor, Fred Holcomb and G. W. Way in a communication forwarded to The Times, and in which it says the appreciation was expressed by the congregation in the form of a resolution adopted unanimously last Sunday morning.

The committee's communication and resolution follows:

"Inasmuch as the Los Angeles Times has seen fit to publish the illuminating and revealing articles on prohibition enforcement written by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, therefore be it resolved, that:

"We, the pastor and members of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church of Pomona, Cal., do hereby record our deep appreciation of these efforts to clarify the law enforcement situation in regard to the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for this service, to both the Los Angeles Times and to Mrs. Willebrandt and pledge anew our loyalty in support of all true efforts for national righteousness.

"We favor widest publicity for these articles and would be glad to have them published in more permanent form if possible."

BLIGHT SAYS TAX STORIES ERRONEOUS

Franchise Commissioner Denies New Law Will Cut Revenues $4,200,000

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—Reynold E. Blight, State Franchise Tax Commissioner, today issued a statement in reply to stories that were published today showing that the new 4 per cent net income tax as applied to bank and business corporations will reduce the State's general fund revenues by $4,200,000. The stories were not given out by Blight but were based on a statement issued by the State Board of Equalization and on the tax rolls that closed on the 15th inst.

While the tax rolls revealed that the Bank of Italy, for instance, last year paid a State tax of $607,000 and this year is listed for a tax of $23,277 and that the Ford Motor Company will pay $25 as compared to $46,864 in 1928, Blight said the new tax law will bring in more revenue than the Tax Commission promised.

Blight says that the tax rolls are based on the returns made by the taxpayers themselves and that before a final bill is tendered by the State all returns will be audited and checked to see that full payment is made under the income law.

GISH-DUELL DUEL KEPT UP ON SHIP

Actress and Ex-Director Arrive on Liner Hurling Additional Accusations

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (Exclusive) Lillian Gish and Charles H. Duell, whose charges, counter-charges and court affrays have been the subject of choice gossip in the Hollywood film colony for years, arrived from Europe on the same boat today—but still as far apart in their likes and dislikes as ever.

Miss Gish told reporters, in fact, that she had been compelled to remain "virtually a voluntary prisoner" in her stateroom for the entire trip because of the presence on board of her former director, who is suing her for breach of contract and various other things.

Duell complained that he had been "shadowed all the way over" and said that the constant surveillance annoyed him no little.

Duell insisted to reporters today that he did not know that Miss Gish was to be a passenger on the liner when he booked accommodations.

The actress is convinced, however, that "it was all very deliberate."

INTERNAL WAR GRIPS AUSTRIA

Government Admits Peril of Civil Strife

Factions Rest on Arms, but Will Fight Again

Chancellor Weakly Attempts to Adjust Issue

VIENNA, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—The Austrian government with all good faith in the world again has declared its impotence in the face of what amounts to simply a passive civil war between the Fascist Heimwehr and the Socialist Schutzbund, which had one of its sporadic emergencies from the passive stage Sunday at St. Lorenzen and St. Murien.

The capital eats the rumors as it would the latest scandal in Viennese society and shrugs its shoulders while the shadow of civil war hangs over the country. Chancellor Streeruwitz places no direct blame on anybody, stating that an investigation is under way and defending the local authorities, who it seems did their level best, and completely ignoring the main issue.

WILL CLASH AGAIN

And the main issue is that the Schutzbund and the Heimwehr are armed to the teeth and seem bound to clash again, perhaps with the gravest consequences.

Nobody looks the situation in the face.

In the meantime the Socialist schutzbunders who, conservatively estimated, number 60,000, are literally standing in arms. The Heimwehr is divided into two factions and number about 40,000.

A less virulent faction of about 40,000 headed by a country lawyer, Dr. Steidle, has its strength, at Tyrol, Borarlburg and Salzburg and is linked up with the Bavarian extremists like Maj. Papst.

WILDER CROWD

A wilder crowd of some 160,000 headed by Dr. Pfriemer rules at Styria, Carinthia, in upper and lower Austria, and dates back to the days of the Carinthian war of liberation with Jugo-Slavia. They have a fine military tradition and a trained general and staff.

"What could a little Austrian army of 30,000 men, as limited by the peace of St. Germain, do in face of this?" is the question on the lips of a few Austrians, who think about it. The most sober of them realize they could hardly do more than preserve order in Vienna, if that, but it is remembered that the Austrians are a gentle people and events can simmer without blowing off the lid for a long time.

Fourth Degree Brings Results as Third Fails

KANKAKEE (Ill.) Aug. 20. (AP)—The "fourth degree" has been found more efficacious than the third in the case of Vittorio Festante, charged with attempted extortion.

Don Bleau, chief investigator for the State's Attorney, explained that the "fourth degree" is that of kindness instead of force.

"We didn't try to browbeat Festante," Bleau said. "Instead; we sympathized with him, consoled him. He appreciated our solicitude and told us all about it."

Festante said he wrote threatening letters to Vito Marchese demanding money because Marchese had prevented Festante's uncle from obtaining a $40 sick benefit from the Italian-American Society.

"I thought I would make him sick a little bit, too," said Festante.

FRENCH TO DUN UNCLE SAM

Marseilles Digs Up Old Account and Demands That it be Paid $250,000 by Us

PARIS, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—The Americans are ready enough to complain that the French are trying to dodge their debts, but are not always so ready to settle up their own accounts.

This is the triumphant pronouncement in the Paris press on learning that the city of Marseilles is preparing to dun the American Treasury for a bagatelle of $250,000 which is claimed to be owing the Mediterranean port ever since 1773.

According to Joseph Fournier, librarian of the Marseilles Chamber of Commerce, who has plunged deep in the dust of the city's archives, $226,000 in gold was deposited in the American Treasury at the outbreak of the war of independence by French sea captains, whose vessels were anchored in American ports. These captains were afraid to carry their companies' money across the sea during the troubled times, so left it with the American Treasury for safety.

As soon as the Americans succeeded in winning their independence, according to M. Fournier, the city reminded the Treasury that France had $250,000 on deposit. The Americans have not replied, although the interest was paid regularly. The French governmental demand of 1793 likewise was ignored, and since then not a cent of either interest or principal has been paid the Marseilles shipowners, according to records.

The debt since has been forgotten, but on being rediscovered the French press indignantly demands that the American Treasury fork over this amount instead of always saying that France is trying to get out of its obligations.

Boat's Capsizing Fatal to Three

CARIBOU (Me.) Aug. 20. (AP)—Three boys, members of a Sunday-school class of eighteen from Colby, who started out on a camping trip yesterday, were drowned in Little Madawaska Lake last night when an overloaded boat capsized.

They were Albert Thomas, 16 years of age; Horace Skidgle, 13, and Leonard Skidgle, 15.

MEXICAN LABOR LAW BAN LIFTED

Eighteen States Ratify Constitution Change

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—With the Senate's announcement made this afternoon that eighteen State legislatures, representing the necessary two-thirds indorsement of amendments of the constitution previously passed by the Federal Congress, the last barrier toward changing the Constitution so as to make possible Federalized labor legislation has been lifted and actual discussions of the all-important drafted labor law that has roused more protest than any problem the country has recently faced, are now made possible.

Labor finds a flaw in the law, contending chiefly that the law does not grant sufficient insurance protection to the workingman and that it strips the unions of the right of an uncontested strike privilege.

A far greater repercussion has been felt throughout the republic since the law was made public than was anticipated, with scathing criticism of its provisions voiced by some of the principal American and other labor employers.

The employers argue that the law, as it now stands and which has the support of President Portes Gil, will react not only to the detriment of industry, but on the workingman as well.

NIAGARA PLUNGE PLAN BALKED

Mayor Calls Woman's Proposal "Suicide" and Refuses to Issue Permit

NIAGARA FALLS (N. Y.) Aug. 20. (AP)—Mayor Laughlin today refused to grant a permit to Mrs. Susan B. Grove, Hagerstown, Md., to go over Niagara Falls in a rubber ball.

J. A. Love of Hagerstown asked for a permit for his fellow townswoman to make the plunge.

The Mayor replied: "No one, not even the President of the United States, has the power to give permission to anyone to commit suicide."

FRUIT FLY SHIP READY TO SAIL

Dr. Quayle to Make Voyage for Pest Study

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—Dr. Henry J. Quayle, entomologist of the University of California and director of the experimental farm at Riverside, nearly has completed his plans for the year-long voyage of the floating laboratory Utowana from which he will operate in a search for new facts and figures on the Mediterranean fruit fly in the North Atlantic islands and the countries bordering the Mediterranean. He conferred here today with Dr. Marlatt, chief of the Plant Control and Quarantine Bureau of the Department of Agriculture, which is actively co-operating with the floating research unit headed by Dr. Quayle.

The itinerary of the Utowana virtually is completed in its major aspects, though certain details have not yet been settled. The ship will sail from New London on August 24, bound for Bermuda. From there it probably will go to the Azores.

The Utowana was loaned to the government for this cruise by Allison V. Armour of Princeton.

Mrs. Quayle will accompany her husband on the expedition.

American Executive in Port on Vacation Tour

Trip Marks End of Thirty-six Years in Field

Says Section Ripe for Great Trade Development

BY WALDO DRAKE

California is fast developing as the commercial gateway of Central America, in the opinion of J. M. Dyer, American executive who has just completed thirty-six years of service in the Spanish Americas. Mr. Dyer, at present Guatemalan representative of the W. R. Grace shipping interests, arrived at the port yesterday aboard the Panama Mail liner Ecuador for a two months' vacation.

J. M. DYER.

"Guatemala, a good barometer of Central American conditions, has enjoyed an increase of 40 per cent in its imports during the past two years and of its total inbound commerce, fully 30 per cent now comes from the ports of Los Angeles and San Francisco," said Mr. Dyer. "An excellent illustration of the industrial boom under way in Guatemala is offered by Guatemala City, where $10,000,000 is being spent in construction of new buildings alone."

Mr. Dyer said that in his thirty-six years of railroad construction and operation and industrial development south of the Rio Grande, he has survived eighteen full-sized revolutions. Since 1926, he said, the Spanish Americas have made such exceptional progress toward education, good government and industrial progress, that, with the exception of Nicaragua, revolutionary uprisings are a thing of the past.

"California has a great opportunity to get in on the ground floor of Central America's industrial expansion by establishing efficient steamship connections," he declared. "That country has potential agricultural resources unsurpassed on this continent, and, if American capital lends a hand, the 375,000 bags of coffee which we shipped last season to Los Angeles and San Francisco out of Champerico would soon be a mere drop in the bucket."

Mr. Dyer said that efforts of United States consular representatives during the past five years have done much to attain present good relations between this country and the Spanish Americas.

TEXACO TANKER BACK FROM ANTIPODES

Return of the M. V. Australia of the Texas Company to Los Angeles Harbor yesterday, marked the completion of that tanker's first round-trip to supply the Australian market with Texaco bulk shipments of petroleum products which for many years have been shipped in barrels and packages from Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico ports.

The Texaco tanker lifted anchor on June 30, last, at Wilmington, loaded with 145,000 barrels of gasoline, kerosene, motor spirits and other oil merchandise for the island. According to marine officials, the entry of the M. V. Australia into the Antipodes trade marked an important development of the local harbor. For many years the Texas Company has been a heavy distributor of petroleum products in Australia, shipments being made from the eastern and southern ports.

With the purchase of the California Petroleum Corporation last year by the Texas Company, however, the Texaco refiners were provided, in the local harbor, a new outlet to Australia for their products since the haul was materially reduced. The Texas Company also came into the possession of several new and modern tankers, but the immediate starting of the service was delayed until this year pending installation of new equipment and the addition of new storage, terminal and marine facilities both here and in Australia.

ROSS SEA WHALING FLEET TO MOBILIZE

The world's largest whaling vessels, the Norwegian steamers C. A. Larsen and Sir James Clark Ross, will arrive at the port from Norway on September 15 and 17, respectively, to load stores for their next season's expedition on Ross Sea, under the shadow of the South Pole. The Ross Sea Whaling Company, owning both giant mother ships, yesterday cabled A. Grove-Knutsen, local representative, that each vessel will load here 80,000 barrels of fuel oil, in addition to $40,000 worth of food and small stores.

The C. A. Larsen is the vessel which last October took Commander Richard E. Byrd and his Antarctic expedition out of Los Angeles Harbor. On this voyage from Norway, she stopped at Norfolk to load supplies for the Byrd expedition and will also load additional stores here for the explorers. Tentative plans are now being effected for the Byrd expedition to return here in April, 1930, aboard the C. A. Larsen, upon completion of its mission in the Antarctic.

The Anchor-Donaldson liner Letitia, of 23,000 tons, will pay the port a visit next April, when she brings in 300 students on the last leg of an around-the-world university cruise. The students will Among those to disembark were Prof. Edwin Arthur Wichers of Hamburg, with his family, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wuest and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rawitsch, all of San Diego.

Bellesen yesterday completed his eighth successive voyage in the McCormick Pacific-Argentine-Brazil Line service, entailing 124,000 miles of steaming, when he brought the steamer West Mahwah in from Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Santos and Rosario, with a cargo of coffee, cocoa beans, Quebracho extract and fertilizer. Capt. Bellesen reported exceptionally fine weather through the Straits of Magellan.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Following the finding of an investigation conducted Monday, Omund Svendson, master of the lumber schooner Florence Olson, which grounded on Point Reyes early Saturday, today went on trial for inattention to duty. Svendson pleaded not guilty and attributed the stranding of his ship to a dense fog. He explained his failure to cast the lead by saying he was sure of his course. The Florence Olson pulled off the rocks under her own power after a three hour struggle and proceeded to San Francisco.

SEATTLE, Aug. 20.—Including regular export lumber is moving in volume enough to indicate a steady and permanent demand, a new market for northwestern lumber with shipments averaging nearly 2,000,000 feet monthly has been built up to French ports during the past few months, R. E. Shyvern, Jr., district manager of the General Steamship Corporation, agents for the French line, said today.

Shipments to this portion of Europe, previous to this summer had been few and limited to special orders of high grade materials. Making New Orleans direct on this voyage, the Point Fermin of the Swayne and Hoyt Gulf-Pacific line will sail for Puget Sound the 24th inst. The carrier is due tomorrow with general cargo and will lift lumber, canned goods, general and newsprint at south cities.

PORTLAND, Aug. 20.—Continuations of minimum $15 first class fare from Portland to San Francisco through September and October was announced here today by E. E. Anderson, city passenger agent for the Pacific Steamship Company. The "Wednesday Special" as the fare is called, has proven the most attractive offering ever made by the line, Anderson declared.

TARIFF RECEIPT ESTIMATE GIVEN

Chairman Smoot Discloses Committee's Figures

Amount Shown Greater Than Existing Collections

Total Under Revised Bill Set at $605,498,469

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Estimates made public today by Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance Committee placed customs receipts under the committee-revised tariff bill at $605,498,469, a decrease of approximately $40,500,000 under estimated revenue from the House rates, but an increase of about $90,000,000 over existing collections.

The Utah Senator estimates receipts under the House measure at $646,014,545, and those under the existing law at $516,581,344.

Of 431 changes in House levies approved by the Finance Committee Republicans, Smoot said 254, or 59 per cent, represent decreases. He figures the average protection of ten of the fifteen rate schedules that make up the bill have been reduced, one is identical, and four contain "slight increases."

EXAMPLE GIVEN

The chairman further estimates that 13 per cent of the 177 increases approved by the committee majority affects commodities in the agricultural schedule, while many of the remainder touch products in other schedules in which the farmer has an interest.

As an example he mentions the proposed new raw-sugar duty of 2.20 cents a pound against Cuba which, though representing a decrease from the House tariff of 2.40 cents, is an increase of 44-100 of 1 cent over the existing levy.

Casein also is cited. This commodity, a by-product of skimmed milk and listed in the chemical schedule, will be raised to 3¼ cents a pound by the committee bill, from 2½ cents under the present law. Farm organizations have advocated a higher duty, while New England paper manufacturers, who use casein for coating purposes, have opposed an increase.

Smoot estimates total revenues under the committee rates in the chemical schedule at $28,167,942, as against $30,534,735 in the House bill and $27,686,466 under existing law.

OTHER SCHEDULES

He figures the revenues of other schedules as follows:

Earths, earthenware and glassware: Committee rates, $30,367,-860; House, $31,129,659; present law, $25,802,163.

Metals and manufactures of: Committee rates, $42,848,180; House, $51,535,850; present law, $45,903,592.

Wood and manufactures of: Committee rates, $4,143,367; House, $6,-704,428; present law, $4,193,618.

Sugar, Molasses and manufactures of: Committee rates, $145,500,501; House, $161,405,190; present law, $118,572,109.

Tobacco and manufactures of: Committee rates, $39,314,791; House, $41,729,431; present law, $39,314,791.

Agricultural products and provisions: Committee rates, $86,906,799; House, $89,792,910; present law, $60,-065,515.

Spirits, wines and other beverages: Committee rates, $591,386; House, $591,386; present law, $483,-489.

Cotton manufactures: committee rates, $20,724,749; House, $21,557,-559; present law, $19,916,330.

Flax, hemp, jute and manufactures of: Committee rates, $24,987,-342; House, $24,809,189; present law, $23,973,191.

Wool and manufactures of: Committee rates, $65,090,664; House, $66,886,360; present law, $57,171,-665.

Silk and silk goods: Committee rates, $20,256,956; House, $19,518,-181; present law, $18,347,719.

Rayon manufactures: Committee rates, $6,071,474; House, $6,054,430; present law, $6,016,237.

Paper and books: Committee rates, $5,821,389; House, $5,816,043; present law, $5,483,073.

Sundries: Committee rates, $81,-705,089; House, $87,949,194; present law, $63,949,286.

The Finance Committee Republicans continued work today on the administrative provisions of the House bill, hearing Chairman Marvin and Vice-Chairman Dennis of the Tariff Commission.

Chairman Smoot announced after the morning session that the two commissioners have expressed favor with the new provisions relating to commission procedure, with some modifications.

Considerable time was given to the proposed change to permit the commission to consider differences in conditions of competition between foreign and domestic articles instead of differences in cost of production alone as a basis upon which to establish a duty to equalize such conditions.

HOOVER AIDE'S SON GETS THRILL ON HIS BIRTHDAY

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 20. (AP)—The thrill that comes once in a lifetime was enjoyed today by Marshall Newton, son of Walter H. Newton of Minneapolis, secretary to President Hoover.

Mrs. Hoover made the thrill possible for Marshall on his ninth birthday as he lay on a cot at a hospital here recovering from amputation of a leg crushed in an accident recently.

A large package bearing the official mark of the White House at Washington was taken to Marshall by a nurse. Opened, the box revealed a large piece of cake, a strange looking board with some pegs stuck in a design formed by holes and a letter.

The latter was a personal note from Mrs. Hoover and explained that the piece of cake was from President Hoover's birthday and the board and pegs were a puzzle which kept Col. Charles Lindbergh guessing for most of an afternoon.

DATE OF SNOOK EXECUTION SET

Professor to be Electrocuted on November 29

Judge Overrules Defense's Plea for New Trial

Sweetheart Slayer Calm as He Hears Doom Sealed

COLUMBUS (O.) Aug. 20. (AP)—Dr. James H. Snook was sentenced to be electrocuted on November 29, next, for the killing of his co-ed sweetheart, Theora Hix, by Judge Scarlett today after a motion for a new trial had been overruled.

Looking the judge square in the eye the former professor heard the pronouncement of death without a tremor. He turned as the judge finished the sentence and started to resume his chair at the defense counsel table. A bailiff laid his hand on the doctor's arm as if to support him. It was unnecessary.

He was taken immediately to a waiting automobile and whisked to the penitentiary where he was lodged in a cell in death row.

Judge Scarlett passed sentence after he had overruled a defense motion for a new trial. Given an extra day in which to obtain affidavits to support a charge of prejudice on the part of "one or more" members of the jury when the original hearing on the motion came up yesterday, E. O. Ricketts of defense counsel announced today that the affidavits were not yet in hand. Ricketts indicated the defense desired to make no arguments and the court, with an announcement that no more time would be given, promptly overruled the motion. Ricketts recorded an exception.

RADIO HELPS TO TUNE PIANOS

Broadcast Shows Off-pitch and Makes Players Seek for Proper Keys

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—The radio, besides being a boon to the housewife, a solace to the sick and a gold mine to the music-lover, also is doing a great deal to keep the nation's pianos in tune.

The National Association of Piano Tuners made the discovery. At their session today they agreed that pianists who also have radio sets quickly detect any off-pitch in their pianos by comparing it with instrumental music arriving via the air.

BEATING ON HONEYMOON DESCRIBED

Mrs. Lois Dodge Manning Takes Witness Stand in Plea for Divorce

DETROIT, Aug. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Lois Knowlson Dodge Manning testified today in her uncontested divorce action against Lieut. Benjamin Franklin Manning, former Coast Artillery officer, that her husband struck her in the face "and used vile language" during their honeymoon trip from Honolulu to Japan, which ended their brief romance in 1927.

Mrs. Manning, the former wife of Horace E. Dodge, told the court that Manning struck her in the face and left a bruise half the size of her hand while they were going from Tokio to Kobe, Japan, on a train. The affair was witnessed by other passengers, she said.

While on the boat, she testified Manning called her names without cause and behaved in such a manner that the captain took him in custody.

Judge Theodore R. Richter of Wayne county Circuit Court granted an indefinite postponement until Mrs. Manning's personal maid, the only available witness of the alleged scenes, could be located.

The Mannings were married at Honolulu September 1, 1927, five months after Mrs. Manning had won her divorce from Dodge.

POLICE VICTORS IN GUN BATTLE

Asserted Bandit Killed; One Wounded; Another Jailed

Santa Barbara Men Shoot It Out With Suspects

Officers Pursue Small Car in Running Fight

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 20.—In a running gun battle that began at Miramar at 3 a.m. today, and ended on the State highway a mile north of the County Hospital, Joseph Barry, 21 years of age, of Quincy, Mass., was killed; Charles Gillis, 23, New York, was shot through the shoulder and taken to the Cottage Hospital, and Ralph Kemp, 23, was taken to the County Jail. Two deputy sheriffs and four policemen were fired upon. In the car of the three men who battled the officers was found considerable jewelry and money, goods stolen from Kendrick's Service Station in Serena and more property reported stolen in Ventura.

SEARCH STARTS ACTION

Harry Fryer and Ben Hoover, of the Sheriff's night patrol, found a small car parked on the highway opposite Miramar with Barry, who was killed a half hour later, standing by the machine. Barry was questioned and said that the machine had run out of gas. The deputy sheriffs were suspicious and Hoover stayed with the man and the car while Fryer started down the road.

He found two men in the Miramar Hotel grounds. They said they were looking for a hotel. When Fryer insisted on searching them, Kemp stuck a gun in the officer's ribs and the two walked to the car. Hoover, believing that the two men were running from Fryer, gave chase and crowded Gillis into the brush. He was fired on and the two officers started in pursuit. The three men in the car opened fire from the rear of their machine.

The Sheriff officers telephoned to the police and Lieut. Hone and Officers Carter, Aiken and O'Brien rushed to the junction of the State highway and Modoc Road, north of the city, with shotguns.

DRIVER KILLED

The car and its three occupants came by the stand taken by the police a few minutes after they arrived and the police machine with seven open gave pursuit while the small car took on more speed. The three men ahead opened fire on the police. The officers returned the fire and in a few blocks the machine came to a stop.

It was found that Barry had been killed instantly at the wheel and Gillis was wounded and Kemp had shut off the gas and applied the brakes. Kemp was not hurt. Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Emerson of Chicago, guests of the Miramar Hotel, today identified jewelry found in possession of the asserted bandits as belonging to them.

Corner-stone to be Laid by Elks

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 20.—With construction of the new $150,000 Elks' Temple at Main and Almansor streets being rushed, plans are now being made for the ceremony of corner-stone laying scheduled for September 9, L. W. Barlow, president of the Elks' Holding Company, declared today.

An impressive program will include the ritualistic work prescribed by the Grand Lodge for such affairs. The annual meeting of the Past Exalted Rulers' Association of Southern California will be held in Los Angeles on September 9 and the visitors will be invited to attend the Alhambra ceremony. A dinner will be served in the present clubrooms prior to the program. The new clubhouse will be ready for occupancy by Christmas, it is believed.

HUNTINGTON PARK, Aug. 20.—County Sanitation District No. 1, which includes Bell, Maywood, South Gate, Walnut Park, Compton, Lynwood, Watts, Huntington Park, Willowbrook, Graham, Florence, Miramonte, Cudahy, and parts of Vernon and North Long Beach, will have about the same tax rate as last year, according to information received from the office of Chief Engineer A. K. Warren, of the Metropolitan sewer project. The district had a maintenance rate of 4 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation and a 29-cent rate for retirement of bonds, making a total of 33 cents last year.

CORNER CHANGES SOUGHT

TORRANCE, Aug. 20.—Plans which will eliminate the death corner on Western and El Prado avenue have been put before the City Council by the County Board of Supervisors. The offer made by the county officials to improve the corner not only corrects the hazardous highway intersection but also gives the city an expenditure of $18,000, which was to have been spent in a previously authorized change.

HERE'S LATE STYLE FROM QUAKER CITY

H. P. Nicholls

Wearing his idea in emancipation of the male species from time-honored but sweltering wearing apparel.

WHITTIER, Aug. 20.—Not to be outdone in this hot-weather wave of dress reform for men, H. P. Nicholls, British war veteran, writer and teacher, living at 521½ East Philadelphia street, has designed and is wearing an ensemble, which he contends is both practical and economical.

Nicholls's garb consists of a union suit, blouse or jumper trousers, suspenders, socks and shoes. This, he points out eliminates all belts, ties and other articles of ordinary man's wear which restrict free circulation of air about the body. It can be made in any material, he said.

CITY ACTION FOUGHT BY ATTORNEYS

Condemnation Act Called Unconstitutional in Case of Pacific Electric

LONG BEACH, Aug. 20.—An amended answer filed by the Pacific Electric and affiliated interests in the condemnation action by which the city seeks to condemn right of way in the center of American avenue between Anaheim and Willow streets, today attacked the constitutionality of the statute, which gives the municipalities the power of condemnation in such cases, asserting that it is violation of the Federal Constitution.

The Pacific Electric answer is said by attorneys to give the railway an opening by means of which the case may be carried on appeal to the United States Supreme Court, a threat which has been attributed to company officials in negotiations to date.

The railway's original answer asserted that the Pacific Electric would be damaged to the amount of $1,000,000 and that reconstruction work would cost an additional $250,000.

The case is set for trial in Department A, September 3, next. Arguments on a motion to amend the answer as filed today will be heard at that time.

Monterey Park's Tax Rate Rises

MONTEREY PARK, Aug. 20.—With a marked increase in the city budget for the coming year, a 40-cent rise in the city tax rate looms. The City Council last night gave first reading to the tax ordinance, which provides for $73,500 to be raised by taxation. Last year's budget provided $31,077 for this purpose. The tax rate this year will be $1.55, as compared with $1.15 last year.

The employment of two additional police officers and a fireman and the purchase of a new police car are items mentioned in the new budget. Two new subdivisions in the southern part of the city will require additional motorcycle officers.

MYSTERY DEATH INQUIRY CALLED

Police Investigate Drowning of Aged Watchman

Railroad Man Found Dead in Waste Oil Tank

Foul Play Indicated; Time Clock Starts Search

SANTA MARIA, Aug. 20.—Finding of the body of George Rustin, 60-year-old night watchman, in a sitting position submerged in the bottom of a ten-foot-deep cement waste tank, half-full of water, in the roundhouse of the Santa Maria Valley Railroad here yesterday noon, has set Santa Maria police searching for a possible murder clew.

According to Constable Glenn Baker, who is investigating the circumstances surrounding the drowning of the watchman, the heavy wooden top used to cover the four-foot hole through which the waste oil is dumped, was partially over the opening. As it is not thought that Rustin could have pulled the top back after descending into the hole, police believe there has been foul play.

Friends and acquaintances of the dead man declare he had no apparent enemies, but say he was worrying over some trouble. The cause of his worry has not been learned by police.

Rustin was not missed until late in the forenoon. His time clock, usually placed in the office, however, was the object of search among employees of the railroad.

The drowned man was found by Arthur Dittner, an employee, who sat down near the tank to eat his lunch at noon. On the cement top he found Rustin's flashlight, and upon peering into the tank, saw the drowned man submerged in the oil and water. After a part of the water had been syphoned out, the body was removed. His pay check, which he drew Saturday, and some small change was found on his person.

His time clock and his revolver also were on his person. The clock had stopped at 1:05 a.m. It was found that he had punched his last clock at 12:30 a.m.

During the last few weeks Rustin had been living alone, as his widow was visiting in New Mexico. She was expected to return in two or three days, friends said.

Commissioners Succeed Selves

VENTURA, Aug. 20.—J. E. Rains, representing Ventura, and Charles Donlon, representing Oxnard, this morning were reappointed by the Board of Supervisors to succeed themselves on the Ventura County Harbor Commission, their terms having expired Saturday. Rains and Donlon both were nominated by Supervisor A. J. Dingman of Oxnard, who said he felt that their service on the commission had made them particularly conversant with the work the commission has done, and he said he felt no change should be made.

A resolution adopted last night by the City Council calling upon the Supervisors to reappoint Rains was submitted to the board by Merle J. Rogers and a similar resolution adopted by the Ventura Chamber of Commerce was submitted by J. C. P. Moore.

TOURISTS BRING BACK TIGER PET

Merle Kahl and Cub

He and his wife brought it back from South America, where their acquaintances contend they never become vicious.

EL MONTE, Aug. 20. — Mr. and Mrs. Merle Kahl, recently returned from Cartagena, South America, have introduced a new kind of pet, bringing with them a tiger cub, 4 months of age.

The cub, which at this tender age is as playful as a kitten, enjoys nothing better than to chew its mistress' finger. It is of a species which weighs about thirty-five pounds when full grown and the Kahls declare they have friends in South America who have 6-year-old tigers for pets, which have never become dangerous.

At present the cub is about the size of a half-grown cat. Its coat is much heavier, however, and is beautifully marked. It shows no fear of a dog and will run up and playfully cuff any dog that chances to approach.

"I do not believe I will ever be afraid of our tiger," said Mrs. Kahl. "We had a friend in South America who had a grown tiger and it would play by charging its mistress, leaping at her and seizing her throat playfully in its mouth. However, I do not intend to teach that trick to our tiger."

DEMONSTRATION BY REDS BANNED

Sheriff of San Bernardino County Issues Orders

Preparations Made to Sieze Communistic Sheets

"Little Leningrad" Camp's Closing Blow to Cause

REDLANDS, Aug. 20.—Sheriff W. A. Shay has notified local officers that steps have been taken to prevent any Red demonstration in this county or the dissemination of literature.

It is reported that large quantities of circulars, demanding that a fight against "police brutality" be instituted and that the workers' children's summer camp be reinstated at Yucaipa, are being sent to San Bernardino and Redlands from Los Angeles. Samples of the literature, prepared by combined Communistic organizations of the metropolis, have been confiscated in Los Angeles and preparations for the same action are being prepared in this county.

According to reports from Los Angeles detectives, the action ordering the closing of "Little Leningrad," the juvenile Communistic camp at Yucaipa, has been more of a bombshell to Communistic training quarters than any other setback in years. The officers declare that the closing of the camp ruined the Reds' main source of basic instruction and that they now seek to take advantage of their misfortune by raising a hue and cry of persecution.

Ontario Curbs New Type of Wet Violator

ONTARIO, Aug. 20.—Ontario has a new type of wet violator to combat, Austin Burt, city service manager, last night informed City Council and an emergency ordinance was presented to curb the practice in future.

According to Burt he has received several complaints from property owners that tenants renting their places have waited until the water bill is due, then move out to another neighborhood, "jumping" the bill and leaving it for the next tenant or owner to pay.

The new renter of the place is not allowed to have water service until the bill for the other party is paid. The bill jumper goes into another house and continues using water until it is time to pay the bill again. Then he moves to another house.

In order to keep track of such persons the ordinance, given first reading last night, says, "Before water shall be supplied from city mains the owner or occupant shall make written application for the water service upon the proper city forms. Water will not be provided while the water bill is unpaid."

Ventura and Bakersfield police were asked to stop the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kalman of 914 Nineteenth street, if possible.

TRAINING PLANE EXPERT CALLED

Maj. Harmon, Commander at March Field, Ordered East

Ship Types to be Discussed at Dayton Conference

Officer to Participate in Consultation There

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 20.—Detailed to confer with other army experts on the type of training plane to be used, Maj. M. F. Harmon, Jr., commander of March Field, left this morning by airplane for Dayton, O. Accompanying him is Lieut. B. M. Giles. The flight is being made in an O2K plane, and the trip is expected to be completed in two days. They will return to March Field in ten days.

Whether the proposed new type of ship will replace the present O2K which is used in the advanced flying courses, or whether it will be utilized in a still more advanced stage of flying instruction is not yet determined. The O2K is a modification of the O2H pursuit planes.

The PT-3 type of ship is the one now in use in imparting instructions in the primary stages. It is the successor of the former Jennies, which were discarded by the Army several years ago.

Corona Realizes Large Returns from Fruit Crop

CORONA, Aug. 20.—The fruit season is nearing its close and, according to Harry Whaley, secretary-manager of the Queen Colony Fruit Exchange, this district will receive large returns from citrus fruit shipped to eastern markets. The actual number of cars shipped from here to date amount to 3498 with probably another 150 cars yet to go.

It is estimated that $3,000,000 has been received in this area by citrus growers for their fruit. While the average size was much smaller this was made up in quantity and has presented quite a marketing problem. The average size of navels was 340.7 per box as compared with 186.9 in 1928. The estimated average size on Valencias is 278.3 as compared with an actual size of 208 for 1928.

The long warm period has caused much of the fruit to drop when it was setting and growers are of the opinion that next year's crop will be about 50 per cent of this year's crop. However the sizes will be much larger.

Bandit Suspect Found in Jail

HUNTINGTON PARK, Aug. 20.—Believed by local police to be the man who held up the Charles Nay service station late Sunday night, when P. G. Huckabee was robbed of $38, Clyde Higgenson is in the local City Jail.

Shortly after the robbery here, Higgenson and another man whose name is given as James Lester Kirby of Los Angeles, were arrested for speeding through Maywood. A bottle of liquor was found in the machine and police reported that the license plates on the machine belonged to another make of car. Higgenson is said to have had three different pink slips.

Yesterday when Capt. Fred Estell and Detective W. J. Lee had occasion to visit the Maywood Jail, they saw a man answering the description of the hold-up man, given them by Huckabee, who later identified him as the bandit and filed a complaint against Higgenson. Los Angeles police reported that they had a police record on Higgenson and that he has several aliases among them Clyde White, Clyde Marshall and Clyde Higgens.

The prisoner was questioned last night, but refused to talk. Maywood police are holding Kirkby on a charge of possession and transportation of liquor.

DESCANSO, Aug. 20.—J. Thompson of this city and his dogs have been on the trail seven months and have bagged eighteen mountain lion pelts. San Diego pays $75 bounty and the State $25. As it is estimated that a lion kills at least one deer a week, Thompson figures that he has saved the lives of 600 deer in this county.

WARRANT OUT FOR MOTORIST

Asserted Reckless Driver Twice Fails to Appear in Court; Leaves State

GLENDALE, Aug. 20.—For the second time, Joseph Ellmore, Pasadena automobile dealer, today disappointed the judge in the Glendale Police Court by failing to appear when the time for his trial on a reckless-driving charge arrived. When, or if he finally does make his appearance it will be on a bench warrant that was issued today.

Ellmore was summoned to court on the first place several weeks ago to answer a reckless driving charge, but neither he nor his brother, who is also his attorney, appeared, and Police Judge P. H. Lowe tried Ellmore in his absence before a jury, which found him guilty.

Attorney Ellmore later appeared and told Judge Lowe that his brother had been injured while seeking witnesses to testify for him in court, and asked for a new trial, charging prejudice on the part of Judge Lowe. The new trial was granted and Police Judge Charles R. Dyer of Montrose sat today in place of Judge Lowe.

When Ellmore and his attorney failed to appear Judge Dyer waited for half an hour then issued the bench warrant, fixing bail at $1000. Attorney Ellmore appeared later to explain that he had mistaken the hour of trial and stated that his brother is now in Missouri. Judge Dyer stated that the warrant still stands and that the police will be ordered to hunt for the defendant.

ASSERTED BURGLAR ARRESTED IN ACT

POMONA, Aug. 20.—Attracted by the sound of breaking glass, a night patrol officer arrested Jay Stewart Mohl, vagrant discharged soldier, giving Hammond, Ind., as his home, in the asserted act of breaking into a service station at the corner of Holt and Mountain View avenues late last night. He is said to have confessed to the robbery of the Mission Service Station, a block away, earlier in the evening, obtaining $16.22 in cash, and miscellaneous articles.

The suspect attempted to run when the officer surprised him in the act of glass breaking, but he was apprehended two blocks away after a foot race. When discovered by the officer, Mohl was sitting on a bicycle, throwing rocks at the service station windows, later walking up to open the door. A dishonorable discharge from Fort Bliss (Tex.) army post, was found in his possession.

HAWTHORNE'S TAXES LOWERED BY COUNCIL

HAWTHORNE, Aug. 20.—The 1929-30 tax rate for all city purposes was set at $1 by the City Council last night, a decrease of 28 cents over that of last year. The saving was accomplished by the fact that water bond being retired at a rate of 30 cents annually can now be taken care of by the water department.

The assessed valuation is $3,880,700, a gain of about $150,000 over last year.

WATER SUPPLY SURVEYED

Sierra Madre System Viewed by Engineers in Order to Ascertain Most Vital Improvement Needs

SIERRA MADRE, Aug. 20.—For the purpose of ascertaining the most vital improvements to the city water system, an extensive survey is now being made by the city water committee, according to Councilman Ralph Stewart, chairman.

Assisting members of the committee in making the investigation, the Loveland Engineering Company of Los Angeles compiled a survey which reveals existing conditions of the domestic water supply of Sierra Madre. The survey report asserts that many portions of the city water plant are in poor physical condition; that the plant is operating at low efficiency and that the present reservoirs are not of sufficient size to provide ample storage facilities for possible emergencies.

The survey also cites that the reservoirs are not, in all cases, properly located to provide reasonable pressure in parts of the various zones and at the present time much water is being boosted which could be supplied by gravity.

The engineers recommend further that with sufficient reservoir capacity the pumping plants could be operated at night, thereby effecting a considerable saving in power costs.

That the present transmission and distribution pipe systems should be reconstructed and placed in first-class condition and the reconstruction of the present plant should be carried out as fast as finances will permit was further recommended in the survey.

Looking into the future as well as the present, the engineers compiling the survey divided the water problem as follows:

The placing of the present plant in good condition so that it may render adequate service to consumers and can be operated in an efficient and economical manner, and the matter of present and future water supply needs.

INFORMANT REGAINS POST

Grover Cleveland Allen Reinstated in Pasadena City Engineering Department by Acting Manager

PASADENA, Aug. 20.—Acting City Manager R. L. Daugherty's action in rehiring Grover Cleveland Allen, informant in this city's street graft scandal, may result in the resignation of C. H. Paddock, father of the famous sprinter, from the Board of City Directors, it was learned today.

Board members asserted that Paddock threatened to resign today following a discussion of the Allen reinstatement. Paddock denied that he had said, as reported, that he would resign. "I merely said that I should 'feel like resigning' if Allen were rehired by the city," he declared.

Allen, who was dismissed in June because of "lack of work," furnished the first information that led to a sweeping City Hall investigation and to the indictment by the grand jury of former City Engineer Warren C. Earle and three others on twelve counts.

Paddock expressed the opinion that Allen knew of the asserted irregularities in the engineering department, in which he was employed, for several days before he laid the matter before the District Attorney's office, and that Allen voiced his suspicions only after he had been told that he was to be dismissed.

Daugherty asserted that Paddock apparently does not take all the facts in Allen's favor into account. "It was unfortunate for Allen," said Daugherty, "that he had only a faint suspicion of the conditions for some weeks, and was able to verify these suspicions only after he had been informed he was to be dismissed."

According to Daugherty, no matter what Paddock and the other board members may think of the rehiring of Allen, authority in the matter rests entirely with the City Manager.

All Shareholders to Receive Subscription Rights

Eastern Board Application for Listing Proposed

In connection with the announcement of an offering to all Pacific Finance Corporation stockholders of record September 21 of one additional common share at $120 a share for every ten shares of either preferred or common stock held, directors of the company following a special meeting yesterday also revealed that they had voted, subject to ratification by the stockholders, to reduce the par value of all the stocks from $25 to $10 and to split up all stocks two and one-half shares for one. Stockholders will act on the stock split-up proposal at a special meeting called for October 1.

Rights to subscribe to the additional stock will expire October 15 next. The company will issue transferable warrants covering rights to the new stock as soon after September 21 as possible, it was stated by Lee A. Phillips, president.

TO LIST IN EAST

As it is contemplated that 50,000 additional shares will be offered, the rights accruing to shareholders represent a potential profit of considerable size at the present market value of Pacific Finance stock, officials estimated. The common stock, which has been an outstanding feature of the trading on the Los Angeles exchange for several weeks, closed yesterday at 143½ after scoring a new all-time peak at 147 3-4.

The directors also authorized the filing of an application to have the common stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange. This is to be done immediately with a view of permitting distribution of the stock on a national basis.

EARNINGS JUMP

For the seven months ended July 31 last, the earnings of the corporation were $1,2[illegible]5,000, as compared with $615,000 for the corresponding period of 1928. O. Rey Nulk, executive vice-president, pointed out that these earnings represent the net profits after federal income taxes and all reserves and do not include earnings of subsidiary companies in excess of the amount paid to the parent corporation in dividends.

Common stock earnings for the first seven months of the current year were reported at $1,074,000, or at the annual rate of $9.27 a share on the outstanding stock.

The regular quarterly cash dividend on the common stock of 75 cents and a stock dividend on the basis of one share of common for each 100 shares of common held was declared payable October 1 to stockholders of record September 20.

BALLARD APPRAISES EDISON

Utility President, Back from Europe, Says Stock Not Too High; Estimates $3.40 Earnings on Common

BY EARLE E. CROWE

R. H. Ballard, president of the Southern California Edison Company, returned to his office yesterday in time to release the earnings statement for July and to add some pertinent comments on the market prices of public utility shares. Stockholders of the Edison company will be interested to know that Mr. Ballard is one public utility executive who thinks his stock is not selling too high and believes the shares are worth more money.

After a long sea voyage and a visit of two months in Southern Germany, the Edison president remarked that he comes back to find the company making even faster progress in all respects than he envisaged earlier in the year. After examining the records of business volume and earnings, he decided to revise his estimate of several months ago and now states that the earnings on the common stock for 1929 after all charges will run about $3.40 a share.

This estimate compares with $3.10 earned on the common in 1928, and with his previous estimate for 1929 of $2.25. The 1928 earnings and the 1929 estimate are computed on the basis of 2,510,000 shares as the average number outstanding.

HOLDERS ADVISED

Mr. Ballard's remark relative to the stock market prospects for Edison shares was made after he had compared current earnings and market prices with similar data for the leading public utilities in the East. He does not believe that Edison common has fully discounted in market prices the steadily improved status of the company nor the changing viewpoint of powerful investment interests toward the public utility industry. He advises stockholders to retain their Edison shares.

Referring to the so-called rule of thirty times earnings as the new yardstick for appraising the worth of utility shares, Mr. Ballard declared it is too high in his opinion. As he judges utility shares the more conservative approach would be a twenty-five-to-one ratio.

On this basis Edison common, earning at the rate of $3.40 annually, is entitled to sell around $85 a share. This would compare with $102 under the thirty-to-one rule.

RUMORS PUNCTURED

Mr. Ballard also took the occasion to again deny that there is any prospect of the Southern California Edison Company entering into any consolidation of Pacific Coast or any other utilities. The company was the pioneer, he pointed out, in developing an extensive distribution of its shares among customers and there is no intention on the part of the management to lose the confidence of its 120,000 stockholders by turning over the executive control to others.

Furthermore, he added, there is very little likelihood of any group obtaining control in the open market. Both preferred and common stocks have voting power and the distribution is wide.

For its part, Mr. Ballard continued, the Edison management is gratified over the interest manifested in Edison shares by the large investment trusts that evidently have been accumulating the stock, for these buyers are permanent investors and not speculators.

Move Afoot to Boost Foreign Trade at Port

Los Angeles Clearing House Association has issued a letter to member banks suggesting that in the interest of the development of foreign trade for Southern California that the banks urge clients purchasing import letters of credit to have their merchandise shipped direct to Los Angeles Harbor wherever possible.

A committee of the Foreign Trade Club of Southern California investigating United States imports found that a large portion of commodities destined for Southern California enter other ports of the country and are shipped here in bond while in many cases the rates direct to the harbor are cheaper.

By boosting the volume of merchandise cleared through this harbor it is believed that more attention will be drawn to Southern California as a foreign-trade center.

Outlook for Fall Trade Brighter

With the vacation season now coming to a close merchants are entering the fall with fairly good prospects for autumn and winter business, according to the weekly letter of the Bradstreet Company, covering the Los Angeles territory, issued yesterday. Radio sales continue very good and the 1930 models to be exhibited soon at the show in San Francisco are expected to stimulate sales in keeping with the large volume during the first half of the year.

Despite the keen competition in the tire manufacturing business, plants are working practically at capacity. Employment in the motion-picture industry has improved. While the weather continues favorable principal crops, such as oranges, are finding sales handicapped by a surplus in eastern markets.

WESTERN PIPE IN NEW ACTION

Privately Owned Company Passes to Public

Stock Sold to Workers and Private Investors

Expansion of Pioneer Steel Concern Impending

Expansion of the Western Pipe and Steel Company of California, one of the oldest industrial corporations in the State, from a privately owned to a publicly owned company, was announced yesterday by James A. Talbot, president. With his associates Mr. Talbot has acquired the interests of other large stockholders and has distributed the stock to employees and investors under private subscriptions. Application has been made to list the stock on the Los Angeles and San Francisco stock exchanges.

One of the original founders and incorporators of the present company in 1907, Mr. Talbot has assumed the presidency in place of J. W. Mason, who has retired. He will be in active charge of the management, assisted by Howard O. Tallerday, executive vice-president; L. N. Slater, W. G. Aldenhagen and R. D. Plagman, vice-presidents.

Western Pipe and Steel ranks as a leading manufacturer of steel tanks for oil storage, oil-well casing, refinery equipment, etc., as well as steel pipe for the transmission of water, oil and gas, structural steel, culverts and general sheet and plate work. The company operates five plants for the fabrication of steel products in Los Angeles, South San Francisco, Fresno, Taft and Phoenix. Products are sold along the entire Pacific slope.

CAPITAL ANNOUNCED

Capitalization of the company, according to the announcement, consists of $1,576,100 of common stock outstanding with a par value of $10 a share; $139,800 preferred stock of $10 par value, and $850,-000 first mortgage 6 per cent bonds outstanding. A dividend of $2 a share annually on the common has been inaugurated.

Earnings for the past five years after charges including depreciation and preferred stock dividends have averaged $468,500, equal to $3.40 a share on the equivalent amount of common stock outstanding for the period. For the six months ended June 30, last, the average earnings per share have considerably exceeded the five-year average, according to the announcement. Dividends have been paid uninterruptedly since 1917.

History of Western Pipe and Steel, through one of its units, goes back to 1854, the days of the gold rush, when the Francis Smith Company was established at Grass Valley to manufacture riveted water pipe for the hydraulic miners. This company opened a plant in San Francisco in the early 60's, which passed to the Western Pipe and Steel Company in 1910 and was transferred to Richmond.

PIONEER UNIT ADDED

Thomson & Boyle Company, another of the predecessor companies, was established in Los Angeles in 1886 and was one of the pioneers in its field in this part of the State. Products of this company were well casing and water pipe. Mr. Talbot, now president of Western Pipe, entered the employment of Thomson & Boyle Company in 1900 as a bookkeeper, and a few years later was made manager. In 1907, he and a group of associates purchased the company, and in 1908 erected a new plant. In 1921 one of the largest steel-fabricating plants in the West was erected here.

Western Pipe and Steel in 1917 purchased the plant of the Schaw-Batcher Company on tidewater at South San Francisco, and at the request of the government converted the plant into a shipyard to build freighters. Through this plant Western Pipe and Steel launched approximately $35,000,000 of steel steamships for the United States Shipping Board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation. After the war the plant was reconverted into a plant for the fabrication of steel products.

Since the Thomson & Boyle Company was purchased in 1907 for $5000 by Mr. Talbot and his associates, no new money has gone into Western Pipe and Steel until the decision was made to convert the enterprise from a privately to a publicly owned company.

Besides holding the presidency of this company, Mr. Talbot is chairman of the Richfield Oil Company, chairman of the Fokker Aircraft Corporation, director of Western Air Express, and of several other aviation enterprises.

FIRE LOSS OF CITIES GROWS

Estimated Toll in United States and Canada for July $31,528,000, and for Seven Month $195,302,000

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Losses from fire in the cities are growing, although more money is being spent each year per capita for fire department equipment and personnel, and fire insurance companies cooperate in a much more practical way than ten years ago.

Last month the estimated loss in the United States and Canada was $31,528,000. This compares with $17,-106,000 the previous July, an increase of more than 80 per cent.

Insurance companies are disturbed, for the figures show a serious trend. Two factors responsible in part are the unusually dry condition throughout the United States and Canada during June and July, and carelessness of some industrial plants in disposing of their waste.

The present loss record not only surpasses that of last year, but is almost on a par with the extremely bad record of 1927. Seven months' loss, to August 1, in 1929, is $195,-302,000.

Several insurance companies, puzzled by the situation, have started surveys in different sections to find the exact cause back of the increase.

The United States government, through the Department of Agriculture, is busy analyzing the beverage industry. So far there has been no standardization except by the large corporations, in handling their own products.

Beverage syrups and concentrates which form the basis of bottled beverages constitute the large share of interstate traffic in these products. Most of the bottled drinks are prepared for distribution locally. State control and inspection is often weak, and local food officials slack. Ginger ale, near-beer and certain fruit juices are the exception. These are national products in a larger sense than the others.

Government investigation has revealed that many so-called fruit beverages contain little fruit juice. Many of them contain synthetic flavors which add acid and artificial color without taking the trouble to label them properly, as required under the Federal law.

Bottled grape juice is made in New York, Ohio, Michigan, Arkansas, Missouri and on the Pacific Coast. Cherry juice is produced in a small way at certain canneries in the Middle West, from pitting machines. Citrus fruit juices come from California and Florida.

"Pure fruit juices are more expensive than those comprised wholly or in part of synthetic substances," say the food and drug officials. "As such they cannot compete on an equal basis with synthetic products, when these are incorrectly labeled."

So the United States Federal officials aim to protect the consumer by having the products correctly labeled.

Investment Trust Adds to Holdings

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (Exclusive) With the proceeds of an issue of $25,000,000 of its 5½ per cent cumulative preferred stock, the Solvay American Investment Corporation is adding to its stock holdings. The acquisition consists of 100,000 shares of Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation common stock, thus bringing its total holdings of that stock up to 466,488 shares worth at present quotations more than $140,000,000. This preferred stock is being offered today at $100 a share to yield 5½ per cent by a group headed by Lee, Higginson & Co., and White, Weld & Co., and including Brown Brothers & Co., and the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh.

The preferred stock will carry warrants entitling the holder to purchase up to September 1, 1934, Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation common stock for $325 a share at one share for each four shares of this preferred. Allied Chemical common is quoted on the New York Stock Exchange at about $325 a share.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Trading in the listed bond market today was highly irregular, as three of the leading convertibles were carried to new high prices. Volume of sales increased with $11,217,600 par value in bonds changing hands. The monetary situation was unchanged.

International Telephone convertible 4½s followed the stock into new high ground, shooting up to 201¾ and closing at 200 for a net gain of 16 points. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s equalled their previous record price at 270, but American Telephone convertible 4½s, which climbed a new peak at 217 yesterday, encountered profit-taking, closing at 215 unchanged. Earlier in the day they sold down to 212¾.

Although the rail stocks were strong, the bonds were inclined to ease off and several established new lows for the year. Part of this selling was attributed to bondholders switching from railroad common stocks. Atchison 4½s, which are really a speculative issue with their conversion privilege, were an exception, mounting to a new high at 138¾ and closing at 138½ for a net gain of 1¼. New lows were touched by St. Paul general 4s, Rock Island 4½s and Great Northern 4½s D. Seaboard Air Line convertible 6s gained a fraction, while the adjustment 5s fell back 1½ points. The railroad list extended the time for the deposit of bonds under the reorganization plan.

In the specialty and industrial group Commercial Investment Trust 6½s sold at 107, a new high, and Ground Gripper 6s, for a net gain of a point. American Cyanamid 5s gained 2 points. Both carry stock privileges. Fox 6s sold at a new low on the decline of Fox Film A stock, but rebounded a new high. The entire United States government list sold off.

The foreign list continued dull and featureless.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, the dash is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Pacific Finance and Southern California Edison Hold Spotlight in Local Trading

While no official announcement was made on the offer of subscription rights, Pacific Finance Corporation provided a sensation on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday when on a wave of speculation in the late afternoon the issue was carried upward 4¼ points to another all-time peak at 147¾. Last-minute liquidation, in a no less spectacular fashion, depressed quotations to a close at 143½ unchanged from the last sale of the previous day. A transfer of 3700 shares was recorded.

Southern California Edison ranked second in activity to Pacific Finance, and shot up 2 3-4 to 77 3-4, a fraction below the highest price this year. The issue closed at 77 2-8. Irregular price movements characterized the rest of the board. Edison original preferred advanced 2 points to 74, while fractional changes only were marked for other utilities.

Transamerica Corporation, recent market feature, eased 1-4 to 143½. Aero Corporation strengthened 3-4 to 9 3-4, and Maddux receipts, 1-4 to 11 3-4. Mortgage Guarantee advanced 1½ points to 206½. Oil stocks were spotty with Rio Grande off 5-8 to 29 3-4, and Standard of California down 1-4 to 78½, while Union of California advanced ½ to 51 and Union Associates with Richfield held firm to 49½ and 42 1-4, respectively.

Sales totaled 28,532 shares valued at $1,621,318; previous day, 34,694 shares valued at $1,511,113.

Principal and interest payable in New York City at the offices of Grace National Bank of New York, Brown Brothers & Co. or E. H. Rollins & Sons, Financial Agents for the Loan, in United States gold coin without deduction for Chilean taxes except in the case of Chilean owners. Cumulative sinking fund of 1% per annum operating semi-annually by drawings by lot for redemption at 100 on each interest date. The Municipalities reserve the right to effect extraordinary amortizations by surrendering bonds for cancellation. Not redeemable prior to September 1st, 1934 except for sinking fund. Redeemable as a whole or in part on September 1st, 1934 or on any interest date thereafter on thirty days' notice at 100.

Señor Guillermo Edwards Matte, Minister of the Interior, and Señor Pablo Ramirez, Minister of Finance, of the Republic of Chile, have given the following information as summarized from their letter of August 16th, 1929:

GOVERNMENT REGULATION—The revenues of the Municipalities are collected and disbursed under the direct control and supervision of the Ministries of Finance and of the Interior of the Chilean National Government. The regulatory powers of the Government further include:

1. The Government's approval is required for all municipal loans, budgets and accounts.
2. Monthly reports of receipts and disbursements must be sent to the Comptroller-General.

The present issue was arranged through the Ministries of the Interior and Finance of Chile and has been officially approved by the Chilean National Government. The Loan Agreement and/or existing laws and decrees provide in substance, among other things, that:

1. The Government will retain and/or collect from the revenues of the respective Municipalities funds sufficient to meet the service of this Loan.
2. The Government will cause adequate provision for the service of this Loan to be included in the budgets of the respective Municipalities.
3. If actual municipal revenues fall short of budget estimates, precedence is to be given to the payment of debt service over all other municipal payments.
4. In the event of any default in the payment of the service of the Loan, the entire Loan may be declared and shall become due and payable upon notice given by the Financial Agents or by five per cent. of the bondholders.
5. The service of the Loan is to be transmitted through the Treasury General of Chile.
6. No Municipality shall contract any loan in the future if thereby its total debt would exceed its total revenues during the preceding three years unless authorized by special law and unless additional revenues are created to cover such excess.
7. If any Municipality shall create any debt specifically secured by lien or charge upon any of its assets or revenues, the obligation of such Municipality on account of these Bonds shall share in such lien or charge equally and ratably with such other debt.

Finances—Upon completion of this financing the aggregate funded debt of the 65 Municipalities will amount to $24,561,947 including this issue, 55 of the Municipalities having no other funded debt. The provisions of the 1929 budgets of the Municipalities for the payment of their respective floating debts will reduce the total of such debts outstanding at the beginning of the year to $233,252. For the three years ended December 31st, 1928 the combined income of these 65 Municipalities exceeded expenditures by $1,352,218.

According to official records, during the past 100 years no Chilean Municipality has defaulted in the payment of principal or interest on its funded debt.

General—The combined population of the 65 participating Municipalities which include Santiago, Valparaiso and practically all other important Municipalities in Chile is approximately 1,907,420, equivalent to more than 45% of the total population of the Republic. During the past twenty years the population of these Municipalities has increased more than 22%. Santiago, the capital and chief city of Chile, has a population of 432,375. It is the fourth largest city in South America. Valparaiso is the principal port of Chile and the most important commercial center on the West Coast of South America. Viña del Mar—the Newport of Chile—adjoins Valparaiso. Antofagasta, Iquique, Arica and Tocopilla are leading ports of northern Chile; through these ports passes the greater part of Chile's exports of nitrates, copper and other minerals and the greater part of the total foreign trade of Bolivia. Concepción, Valdivia and Chillán are important centers in the rich agricultural sections of southern Chile. Magallanes (Punta Arenas), the most southerly city in the world, handles a large part of the total Chilean export of wool and mutton from the great grazing lands of Patagonia. The participation of the above mentioned Municipalities is 78.22% of the entire Loan.

In the foregoing Chilean pesos have been converted into United States dollars at par of exchange, one peso equalling $0.121625.

Application will be made to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

We offer the above bonds, when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of our counsel, Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell of New York, and Dr. Francisco Bulnes C., of Santiago, Chile. It is expected that delivery of interim receipts will be made about September 12th, 1929.

The foregoing is subject to the more complete information contained in our circular, copies of which may be obtained on request.

Price 94 and interest to yield 7.50% to final maturity

Develops a New Diesel Airplane Motor—

Authorities look upon it as one of the most outstanding developments in Aviation in recent years. Will it bring radical changes in the Automotive as well as Aviation industries? Time alone will tell.

In a recent test flight from Detroit to Langley Field, Virginia, a new Packard consumed only 1,018 gallons of fuel, according to reports. An ordinary airplane motor would have consumed almost twice that in cost and fuel, or about $17.00 worth.

Lindbergh Passed With It

Col. Lindbergh, in a flight with Col. Thomas Langdon, August 5th, tested the new Diesel aircraft motor and expressed himself as being highly pleased with it. He is the first person outside of the Packard staff to fly with the new engine.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Prices on the New York Curb Exchange developed increased irregularity today despite the strenuous efforts of pool operators to maintain control of the price movement. Bearish professionals were more active on the theory that the market was entitled to a sharp reaction after the violent advance in some of the leaders during the past 10 days. Profit taking also increased in volume.

Public utilities ran into frequent storms of selling but offerings generally were well absorbed. Electric Bond and Share pressed 168 to a new high and then fell back to 163 for a small fractional loss. Middle West Utilities ran up 11 points to 448¾ and closed at the top. Central and Southwest Utilities scored 10 points to a new top at 160 in reaction of the stock split up and the issuance of valuable rights. Central States issues also closed higher on the day. Investors showed a good deal of interest in Insull Utility G.&W. preferred, which displayed a moderate decline of 5½ points at 272½ after having sold above 287.

Consolidated Gas Utilities sold close to the year's high on publication of an excellent earnings report.

Allied Chemical (New) was one of the strongest features, running up 11 points to 93 and then easing to 89. Schenley Distillers jumped 5 points on reports of largely expanded sales. New highs were registered by National Tobacco, Mengel, Apollo-Hinnerwell, Reconstruction Investors, Shenandoah Corporation common and preferred and a sprinkling of others.

Cole reported shipment of 1,000 automobiles during August, running up 11 points, showing a gain of 2 points. Most of the aviation stocks drifted lower, Aero Supply & Aeroplane 3 points.

Further weakness also developed in some of the high-priced specialties including Aluminum Company of America, Crocker Wheeler, International Cigar Machinery and Deere & Co., all of 5 to 10 points.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low; and both low and close when same as the high.

SPEEDING UP THE CLOCK

In the world of modern business, time moves with a breathtaking rapidity that our grandfathers would not have dreamt of. More and more must be accomplished in shorter and shorter time. A generation ago a business man could remain at his desk, or a workman at his bench, until the age of sixty or seventy. Today — as statistics have shown — the age of retirement is about forty-five.

This is tragedy — for those to whom the job is the sole means of livelihood. But for others retirement is often the beginning of a fuller, happier life — a life of leisure, comfort and all good things.

Let us tell you about our simple, common sense plan whereby small sums, systematically invested, will be returned to you, greatly increased by the magic of compound interest, in substantial annuities when you have withdrawn from active business life. If you will follow the plan, we will UNCONDITIONALLY ASSURE the income.

Wheat Market Rallies After Early Setback

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Wheat scored a brisk rally in price late today after breaking earlier to as much as 7⅛c a bushel under yesterday's top level. Denials from Canadian railroad officials that they had authorized an extremely bearish crop estimate which was current yesterday, and which continued to have a depressing effect most of the time today, did much to help restore confidence of buyers at the last. On the other hand, export business today in wheat from North America appeared to be virtually at a halt.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅞c down. Corn closed at ⅛@⅜c advance, oats unchanged to ½c off and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10c.

Far lower Liverpool quotations than had been looked for led to general selling, that during the first part of the day found the Chicago wheat market devoid of any aggressive support from buyers. In addition to the bearish Canadian crop estimate, which had not then been disclaimed, reports current that piling up of wheat supplies in the United Bureau was being paralleled at Montreal, did a good deal temporarily to augment selling here. Montreal grain storage facilities were said to be approaching exhaustion, with the bulk of the 1929 Canadian harvest not yet touched. Besides, harvest yields in European continental countries were reported as turning out better than expected, especially in France.

However, pronounced dearth of future delivery offerings of wheat here became apparent as the day approached an end. This was after emphatic denials of bearish crop estimates came from Canadian railroad sources. Previous sellers then quickly reversed their market position and swung over to the buying side. A swift upturn in prices followed, and the market closed at about the top figures reached and with most of the day's losses wiped out. It was reported that 75 per cent of the 1929 Canadian wheat crop has now been cut, and that harvest weather is fine.

Unfavorable corn crop advices from South Dakota, which heretofore has had the best corn prospect of any in the country, were a factor in bringing about a late upturn in the corn market. South Dakota corn is now reported to be firing. Oats were unsettled, with hedging pressure in evidence on advances.

Provisions inclined downward on account of weakness of hog values.

CHAIN STORE FIELD HAILS NEW LEADER

G. K. Morrow's Aquisition of United Cigar Unit Puts Him in Spotlight

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—George K. Morrow, chairman of the Gold Dust Corporation and new head of the United Cigar Stores Company, stepped into the spotlight today as a merchandising magnate.

Acquisition of United Cigars gave the group which Morrow heads control over a $200,000,000 organization, which with its associated companies manufactures and sells a wide variety of products including tobacco, packed foods, chewing gum, candies, safety razors and numerous other items of merchandise.

Mr. Morrow, a Canadian, made his first important business success in this country with the Quaker Oats Company. Six years ago he reorganized the Gold Dust Corporation.

Transfer of control of United Cigars which was announced yesterday is regarded as the largest transaction ever made in the chain store field. The exact amount involved has not been disclosed but it is estimated that George J. Whelan and associates received the equivalent of $100,000,000 from the Gold Dust group.

Through the United Cigar Stores, the Gold Dust Company acquires holdings in the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation, Phillip Morris & Co., Ltd., the Beech Nut Packing Company, the American Safety Razor Company, the Gillette Safety Razor Company and other concerns.

Shattuck-Denn Merger Voided

DULUTH (Minn.) Aug. 20. (AP)—The merger in 1925 of the Shattuck Arizona Copper Company and the Denn Arizona Copper Mining Company, operators of mines at Bisbee, Ariz., into the Shattuck Denn Mining Corporation of Delaware was declared illegal in a decision filed in District Court today by Judge H. J. Grannis.

Judge Grannis held that at the time of the merger of the companies, both Minnesota corporations, there was no law for merging of corporations in Minnesota and no laws were cited authorizing domestic corporations to merge into foreign companies. The merger he held was unfair to the protesting minority stockholders as it would "make them against their will, stockholders in a corporation wholly subject to foreign jurisdiction, a corporation, possibly with powers and liabilities vastly different than those of the company they had joined."

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—Approximately 200 cattle arrived fresh, while 463 head were held over from Monday. No top medium and good grade steers or she stock were included in the supply, offerings consisting largely of common and low medium kinds. Demand for these was narrow and a slow and draggy trade was the result. Only a partial clean-up was effected. Prices were about steady with Monday's close.

Cutter sales included a load of Mexican steers at 9.65, while a few lots of common steers went over from 8.75@10.25, with a few medium steers @ 11.00. A load of stockers and feeders made 10.00.

Odd head of heifers sold from 9.50@10.25, while odd head and small lots of cows went over from 6.75@9.25. The more desirable heifers and medium kinds sold from 7.00@9.50, including a part load of medium Utahs at 8.35. Cutter cows and canners and medium kinds sold from 5.00@6.50, mostly 5.75@6.25. A few common and medium bulls were included from 7.00@8.25.

CALVES—Offerings consisted of two loads of vealers held over from Monday and several small lots of trucklots. A good clearance was made at generally steady prices. Two cars of good 208-pound Central California vealers that arrived late Monday sold for 14.00. Other vealers were in small supply from 12.50@13.75, with plain kind and heavy calves down to 8.00.

HOGS—The small supply sold readily at strong prices, quality considered. A short load of desirable weights Central California butchers scored 13.60, with packing sows out at 10.60. Several small lots of 140 to 190-pound truck-in butchers, including local lots, realized 13.50.

SHEEP—Yesterday's estimated supply was late in arriving. Only one deck of lambs was included and these sold readily. A short load of yearlings scored 13.00@13.50, while ewes were on a steady to weak basis. The lambs, a deck of choice 90-pound averages, made 13.85. Three and a half decks of common 87-pound ewes went out for feeding purposes at 4.00. Another deck of 94-pound weights to killers, while half a deck of 70-pound culls and cripples realized 2.00.

...longer before the plug is drilled out, to resume drilling. Indications are that this well will stop drilling at about 10,000 feet, unless it is brought in as a producer above that depth.

Production Cleaning

The Associated Oil Company's Dallugge No. 7 well, which came in about a week ago, is yielding 1860 barrels of oil a day, cutting 21.5 per cent, with bottom of the hole at 8100 feet, in the lower Clarke sand. Original production was said to be about 50 per cent water.

At Potrero, Associated's Potrero No. 1, on the country club grounds, is being prepared for its ninth cementing job, according to reports. Drilled to a depth of 4865 feet, this project has encountered showings of oil sand at alternating depths but unsuccessful cementing jobs have prevented its completion.

Deeper Than Producer

The Milham Exploration Company's Kennedy No. 1, at Kettleman Hills, is drilling ahead below 7234 feet in hard shale formation, being more than 100 feet deeper than the original depth reached in the Elliott No. 1 discovery well several miles away.

Showings of oil sand have been penetrated in this project, along with considerable gas. Heavy mud is being circulated to control the gas. The Elliott No. 2 is drilling ahead below 6660 feet in a hard formation and the Beal No. 1 is sidetracking below 5832 feet.

Showings Compare

Oil showings picked up in the Becker Fee No. 1 well of George F. Getty, Inc., at the western end of the old Summerland field are said to compare favorably with showings penetrated in the Lincoln Drilling Company's Williams No. 1, pumping about 130 feet due west, and nearer the ocean. Getty is preparing to set eleven and three-quarter-inch casing to 975 feet with bottom at 1038 feet.

Getty is bailing for a test in the old Becker No. 1, farther north and near the State highway at Summerland. Drilled recently to 5040 feet without finding oil, this project plugged back to about 2890 feet where showings were encountered after operations were resumed.

Getty's Parker No. 1 near the intersection of Asrick street and Prairie avenue at Potrero is drilling ahead below 1000 feet. It is an offset to Max Pray's Noll, said to be pumping about 150 barrels of 47 deg. gravity oil a day.

At Santa Fe Springs, Getty's No. 30 has just been completed for a daily flow of approximately 3781 barrels of 33.2 deg. gravity oil. Bottom of the hole is at 7088 feet. The fishing job in Getty No. 21 at 7026 feet is nearly completed, it is said.

Getty's Armstrong No. 1, on Sec. 4 at Kettleman Hills is drilling below 6300 feet, but has not penetrated oil sand, according to field reports. The Armstrong No. 1, on Sec. 4, is below 4670 feet.

Preparing to Test

The Shell Oil Company is reported to be preparing to run tubing to test its Sudley No. 1 wildcat on Sec. 15, 22-9, about nine miles south of King City, in Monterey county. Field reports state that oil showings have been found. Casing will be set to 3500 feet. Bottom of the hole is at 3760 feet.

Rigging Up

The Hancock Oil Company is rigging up Wallace No. 2 on Sec. 8, 11-23, at Maricopa Flat, and has made location for Wallace No. 3, nearby. Wallace No. 1 is drilling ahead below 1930 feet.

All of Hancock's projects are on an eighty-acre lease and near a recently acquired lease of the Doyle Petroleum Company.

The Standard Oil Company has made location for its No. 7 well, on Sec. 9, 11-23. Its Graham No. 1, on Sec. 7, 11-23, is drilling below 2769 feet and Graham No. 2 is below 1975 feet. Both of these wells are offsets to projects being drilled by the Signal Oil and Gas Company.

Rigging to Kill

Although flowing 46 deg. gravity oil at the rate of about eighteen barrels a day, the Moore No. 1 wildcat of the General Petroleum Corporation three miles southeast of Elwood is to be killed so the hole may be straightened.

The original flow of about 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day, has been beaned down to about 12,000,000 cubic feet, and part of the flow is going into traps where the high gravity oil is collecting.

MORE AMERICAN SHIPPING URGED

Admiral Rodgers Speaks at Politics Institute

Discusses Discriminatory Maritime Rates

Heavy Capital Investments Made in Canada

WILLIAMSTOWN (Mass.) Aug. 20, (AP)—The United States needs to extend her merchant marine for the purpose of stopping discriminatory freight rates applied to American goods by merchant transports of Great Britain and other nations, Rear-Admiral W. L. Rodgers said today before the armament limitation round table of the Institute of Politics.

The clipper ships and merchant marine which the United States maintained seventy years ago afforded protection against that difficulty, Admiral Rodgers said.

AMERICAN CAPITAL

"They were discontinued, not because they were not advantageous to the United States, but because America became so wrapped up in building railroads across the continent that she had no time or interest for the merchant marine and was glad to have Britain carry her freight for her. The United States must get back on the sea or sink."

Prof. Jacob Viner, of the University of Chicago, a native of Canada, discussing the exchange of capital between the United States and Canada, said that $3,000,000,000 of American money is invested in the Dominion. American investments in Canada have come into industrial enterprises, he said, while British capital has been placed in bonds.

There is no danger of political complications arising from the unemployment of American capital in large amounts in Canada, he believes.

"FLYING AUTO" NOSE DIVES ONTO HOUSE

Long Run Down Hill Ends in Somersault Series

After Vain Effort to Emulate Airplane

A RUNAWAY automobile somersaulted to the roof of a house at 2124 Panorama Terrace yesterday evening after running wild for two long blocks in the Moreno Highlands section. The sedan wrecked itself completely in its attempt to emulate an airplane.

Raymond E. Couch, an interior decorator, had parked his Oldsmobile sedan at the door of Jack Friedman's home, 2038 Micheltorena street, where he was doing some work. He went out to the car and removed a cushion to take into the house, and in doing so may have jostled the emergency brake, police reported. When he turned at the house door, Couch saw his sedan coasting down hill. It jumped the curb and rolled with increasing speed downhill across lots, bounding across another street and plunging down a slanting plot of ground.

At that point the car flip-flopped over on its nose and continued to pinwheel forward with the agility of a circus tumbler. Three somersaults landed its front wheels and radiator on the roof of an untenanted red tile, stucco house at 2124 Panorama Terrace. The car's rear wheels remained on the ground, giving the sedan the appearance of a prehistoric monster upreared with its front extremities clawing the roof tiles.

GOVERNOR CONFERS ON STATE SITE

Discusses With County Supervisors Location of Proposed Building

Conferences have been held between Gov. Young and members of the County Board of Supervisors during the past few days regarding the location of the State office building in the Civic Center, and according to Supervisor McClellan, chairman of the board, Gov. Young is satisfied with either of two sites now owned in part by the county. Appraisal of the situation by real estate experts is being undertaken with the intention of determining which of the two sites can be obtained at the least expense.

One site, at the corner of Hill and First streets, is partly owned by the county, but to complete its purchase to a size large enough for the $3,5000,000 building the State eventually intends to erect, it will be necessary to condemn and raze the five-story Klinker Building on the northwest corner of First and Broadway.

The other site, also in the Civic Center, at the northwest corner of First and Spring streets, is partly owned by the county, and the county has signified its intention of purchasing the other land in the block, if not for the State building, then for some county use. This is the site favored by most Civic Center proponents, and location of the State building at this point will not interfere with plans for a new Courthouse in the block bounded by Broadway, Hill, First and Temple streets.

RAIL OFFICIAL BURIED

Funeral services for Joseph Edward Bass, superintendent of power stations of the Los Angeles Railway were conducted yesterday at 2 p.m. at the W. A. Brown Mortuary, 1515 South Figueroa street, with burial in Inglewood Park Cemetery. Mr. Bass leaves his widow, Jennie S. Bass; four daughters, Mrs. Agnes Reithmuller, Mrs. Dorothy Henderson, Claire B. and May B. Bass, and a son, Robert L. Bass.

Sol Working Full Shifts These Days

Little change in temperature will be noted today and tomorrow, according to the weather forecast, although a two-degree drop was recorded yesterday when 87 deg. was reached as against the 89 deg. of Monday.

Continued warm and fair with gentle westerly winds on the coast is the official forecast for today. The temperature at high noon yesterday was 81 deg., a five-degree drop from the highest, which was recorded at 2 p.m., when the mercury started downward, reaching 82 deg. at 5 p.m.

The relative humidity at noon was 59 per cent. The low mark was 65 deg. Full thirteen hours and seventeen minutes of sunshine were recorded.

R. L. HAIGHT CONFIRMED BY COUNCIL

Fight Develops, However, on Choice of Lawyer for Playground Board

Mayor Porter's nomination of Raymond L. Haight, an attorney, of 458 South Spring street, to be a member of the Board of Playground and Recreation Commissioners was confirmed yesterday by the City Council, but not without a fight.

When the matter came up Councilman Lewis stated that he understands Haight is the personal attorney of Playground Commissioner Rittenhouse, Venice Beach concessionaire, who was asked Monday by the remainder of the commission to resign his office.

Lewis then moved the postponement of action on Haight's confirmation for a week while this asserted connection between Rittenhouse and Haight was examined. The motion was seconded by Councilman Davis and then voted down, 9 to 4, Councilmen McAllister and Sanborn joining with Lewis and Davis. The confirmation of Haight then was adopted, 10 to 3, Lewis, McAllister and Sanborn voting in the negative.

APPEAL COURTS' PREFIXES FIXED

New Fourth District Takes in Old Second One

Three Justices Expected to be Selected Soon

One May be from Each of Towns on Circuit

With the creation by the last State Legislature of a Fourth District Court of Appeal, the State Supreme Court has issued an order, providing for prefixes to be used in connection with cases reaching the respective courts. Although the new Fourth District will be a separate unit in itself, it will carry the same designating prefix as that assigned to the Second Appellate District, located in Los Angeles. This prefix will be "L. A."

The new district comprises counties, with the exception of one, formerly included in the Second District. These are Imperial, Inyo, Kern, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego and Tulare. The exception is Fresno county, formerly included in the First District.

OTHER DISTRICTS

The new Second District Court of Appeal, with two divisions functioning in Los Angeles, under the new arrangement will have jurisdiction over appeals arising in Los Angeles, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties.

The First District, comprising Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Monterey, San Benito, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara and Santa Cruz counties, will be designated by the prefix "S. F."

The Third District, covering Alpine, Amador, Butte, Calaveras, Colusa, Del Norte, El Dorado, Humboldt, Lake, Lassen, Madera, Mariposa, Mendocino, Merced, Modoc, Mono, Napa, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, Sacramento, San Joaquin, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Solano, Sonoma, Stanislaus, Sutter, Tehama, Trinity, Tuolumne, Yolo and Yuba counties, will be designated by the prefix "Sac."

APPOINTMENTS NEAR

Appointment of three justices to the newly created Fourth District Court of Appeal is expected to be announced within a short time by Gov. Young, he indicated. It was pointed out that the Governor has sixty days from the date the new law creating the court became effective to name the new justices.

The court will be circuit in its nature, conducting sessions at Fresno, San Bernardino and San Diego, and it has been rumored that appointees to the bench will be chosen from these three cities.

Street Car Kills 3-Year-Old Girl

Fatally injured yesterday beneath a street-car's wheels, Margaret McCargar, 3 years of age, of 4907½ South Wall street, died shortly afterward in Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

Police report that the little girl ran into the street in front of her home while Motorman J. F. Phillips of 725 East Fifty-fifth street was taking two empty cars to the barns. In some manner Margaret fell, a rear wheel crushing her left leg. She died in spite of amputation.

NEW AVENUE AUTHORIZED

The ordinance calling for the establishment of a new street by the condemnation of land extending between Banning street to First street, and widening and laying out Banning street between Center and Vignes streets was adopted yesterday by Council. The new artery will be known as Santa Fe avenue and will extend northerly from Santa Fe avenue to First street.

Porter Favors Buying Towns in Owens Valley

Mayor Porter yesterday returned from his inspection trip with the statement that the only way to settle the quarrel between the valley residents and the city is for the latter to buy out the towns. He said he is not in a position to state what the prices should be, but added that his commissioners will work out a plan.

He left Los Angeles Friday afternoon, returning early yesterday morning. He said that in spite of the work he managed to squeeze in a fifteen-minute fishing trip, but caught nothing.

ROADWAYS OPENED

Ordinances calling for the opening and laying out of portions of the roadways of San Vicente Boulevard between Pico Boulevard and Fairfax avenue were passed yesterday by the City Council.

STUDIO HEADS REVIEW STRIKE

Producers, Through De Mille Discuss Equity Defeat

No Malice, However, Will be Held for Anyone

Film Work Has Been at Peak in Spite of Strife

With the Hollywood picture colony returned to its former status following the failure of the attempts to place so-called "Equity shop" into the industry, Cecil B. De Mille, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, yesterday issued a statement summing up the views of the producers he represents.

His statement is the first made by the producers since early June when Frank Gillmore, Equity president, issued his edict. In his statement De Mille refers to the move for "Equity shop" as "an attempted invasion" and points out that the industry moved along at normality during the strike with no interference with production. He also lauded players who accepted standard form of contracts and said the producers will hold malice toward no one.

His statement in full follows:

"We are glad that Frank Gillmore, president of the Actors' Equity Association of New York, has officially notified members of his association to accept work when it is offered in the motion-picture studios.

"There was no occasion for the attempted invasion of the motion-picture industry by the stage Actors' Equity Association of New York.

"There was no reason for the turmoil and unrest initiated by Mr. Gillmore's unexpected ultimatum of June 4.

"The Actors' Equity Association of New York came to Hollywood with demands which meant virtual control of the motion-picture business. This control was predicated upon conditions unwise, impractical and unfair. The Equity movement did not have the approval or sympathy of a majority of the working actors and actresses in the motion-picture studios.

"As producers, we regard ourselves merely as the medium through which the public decides which of the actors and actresses shall be presented for their entertainment.

WORK FOR MANY

"The motion-picture industry has brought contentment and prosperity to thousands employed therein. The conditions of employment are fundamentally sound. The remuneration is such that it has attracted more applicants than can be given work. We believe that many of Mr. Gillmore's supporters were recruited in part from the ranks of those who unfortunately were out of employment and in part from those who have never been able to obtain employment.

"The motion-picture industry has always held open to those artists of the speaking stage able to qualify, opportunity to express their talent, with rewards far greater than the rewards of the stage. This inviting prospect to the artist of the stage has been in no way disturbed.

"It is a striking commentary upon the whole situation to reflect that during the more than ten weeks since the delivery of Mr. Gillmore's ultimatum and the consequent endeavor to prevent production, not a single picture was disbanded, postponed or cancelled. During this same period also production in Hollywood was at its highest peak.

APPRECIATION VOICED

"To those who refused to accept dictation from the New York group, we express our appreciation. To those who felt required to support Mr. Gillmore, we say that the controversy is ended.

"With malice toward no one, we voice the hope that the industry in which we are all interested may continue to do what it is designed to do without interference from outside influences."

Gillmore's long-awaited farewell statement failed to materialize yesterday when he announced he will issue no more statements and that he said all he had to say last Saturday night when he rescinded his edict and told the Equity members they could accept the form of contract which has been in vogue for months in Hollywood. With Paul N. Turner, Equity attorney, Gillmore leaves for New York today or tomorrow.

COUNCIL REZONES AREA

The City Council yesterday adopted an ordinance rezoning property in Kingsley Drive between Wilshire Boulevard and Seventh street from Zone A to Zone B.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

UNDER sentence to be hanged for an assortment of brutal murders, the king of the Florida rum-runners seemed, in his last hours, to have a great deal of inside information on the intentions of Providence.

Like Hickman, he was convinced that his little social errors in the way of killings had been forgiven and that the gates of heaven were due to swing wide open for him. The average crook is so swollen with egotism that he gets a sort of mental kick out of being the hero of a hanging.

THE GOLDEN GOOSE

Mexican labor unions are doing what they can to pull Mexico's future out from under her—to make a series of Irish bulls in one sentence.

Especially is this true on the West Coast, where the Southern Pacific Company has invested $65,000,000. Mexico has every resource that can be imagined. But she needs capital; and the returns from this capital cannot, in the nature of things, be immediate. She needs capital that will wait with her and work with her. A necessary ingredient of this mixture is a state of mind in the Mexican people that will assure such capitalists that the period of waiting—and the ultimate reward—will be characterized by fair dealing on both sides.

The goose which lays the golden egg frequently meets a sad fate; but golden geese are becoming wary.

HIGH DIPLOMACY

The Brooklyn clerk who married two wives and kept them together in a one-room apartment takes high rank as a diplomat. However, the Plains Indians followed that plan as a regular system. In the case of the Sioux and Blackfeet a man often factfully married two sisters. That probably helped some.

MILD INDORSEMENT

After being shown the beauties and high benefits of enlightened sovietism, a group of selected American travelers have taken a poll on recognition. Only thirty-three per cent of them favor extending the right hand of international partnership. It is not very convincing.

WHY?

It is not exactly clear why the judicial opinion binding the millionaire Pantages over for trial in the Superior Court should have sounded like an apology. Or, for that matter, why there should have been any written opinion at all explaining the nature of preliminary examinations. Pantages is entitled to just as good a break—and no better—as the janitor of his buildings.

WHAT CAN WE DO?

The lovely little Senorita Amalia Dugo of the Argentine complains that our flappers are too tame. I know something ought to be said about this; but she just leaves me speechless.

GAMBLING SHIPS

The effort of the law-enforcement officers to find some legal quirk whereby the gambling ships can be put out of business once more calls attention to the absurdity of the international treaties. The three-mile limit was designated in the days of slow sailing ships. It is a matter of common sense that the zone

SHE'S LIVED STATE'S HISTORY

Mrs. Mary Miles, Nonagenarian, Californian by Choice; Immigrant of Seventy-seven Years Ago Has Never Put Foot Across Borders Since, She Says

Mrs. Mary Miles

Seventy-seven years ago today Mary Miles, then Mary Waldron, 14 years of age, landed at San Pedro. She now is 91 and has never been outside California since—not even across the Mexican border.

"This State is good enough for me," she said with a happy smile yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. T. Watters, 1911 Bellevue avenue.

She is the mother of three sons and five daughters and has assisted in rearing fifteen grandchildren, fifteen great-grandchildren and nine great-great-grandchildren.

"My father, Mahlon Waldron, came across the plains from Marion, Ind., in 1851 in a covered wagon with two men and eighteen horses. They were one day behind a party that was killed by Indians, but my father had no trouble.

"Father settled in Gold Hill, Placer county, and was the contractor for the Big Bear River ditch. He sent for his family and we left New York City February 8, 1852, by boat for Aspinwall, where we were taken up the Chagras River in a flatboat poled by natives as far as Gorgonia. Then I rode across the mountains on muleback and my baby brother and sister were carried on the backs of natives in baskets.

"We sailed on the bark Emily for California, but at San Blas the ship was condemned as unseaworthy and we were delayed until the brig Condor picked us up and landed us at San Pedro.

"I visited the first State fair ever held in Sacramento and it was a gay week of horse racing and exhibits. My husband and my father each contributed $300 toward the fair. Money was plentiful, but everything was very high in price.

"My husband was a member of

MRS. HOWARD IN COLLAPSE

Grief-Stricken Woman Faints Beside Bier of Husband at Final Rites in Forest Lawn

Mrs. Irene Howard was in a state of collapse at the family home, 1905 Victoria avenue, yesterday following funeral services for her husband, Frank S. Howard, wealthy automobile dealer, who was killed last Saturday by his 12-year-old son, Richard.

The stark tragedy attendant on the death of Mr. Howard was further emphasized by the fact that Richard was not at the funeral. Fear that the ordeal would prove too much for him resulted in the decision to keep him at home.

CARRIED TO CAB

At the conclusion of the services at the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Cemetery, Mrs. Howard collapsed and had to be carried to her car. Her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Richter, became hysterical at the sight of her daughter prostrated. Mrs. Howard later was revived and was accompanied home by the family physician, Dr. J. D. Davenport.

Many friends and business associates gathered at the church to pay a last tribute to a friend whose course through life had run at times through the shadows of tragedy. In their thoughts as they sat there meditating, in the music of the organ, and in the beauty of the great bank of flowers there was the peace of understanding.

INTERMENT TEMPORARY

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. E. Leitzel, associate pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church. Interment was in a temporary vault in the church.

The places of business of the Howard Automobile Company, with which Mr. Howard formerly was connected, were closed yesterday as were those of the Howard Motor Company of Hollywood and Pasadena. According to C. S. Howard, brother of the deceased, who came from San Francisco with his two sons, it will be some time before arrangements will be completed for final disposition of the remains.

CRASH IN FOG KILLS FLYER

Long Beach Man Dies in Inglewood Field but His Companion Escapes Serious Injury

Attempting to land his small airplane in a field at Arbor Vitae street and Prairie avenue, Inglewood, yesterday morning because of a heavy fog, Len Owens, 29-year-old Long Beach flyer, misjudged the distance and crashed, meeting instant death.

Vaughn McNulty, 19 years of age, of 3336 Falcon street, Long Beach, who was a passenger and co-pilot in the plane, was thrown through the top of the cabin, but escaped with minor injuries.

The two had left the O'Donald Airport at Long Beach shortly before the accident to fly to the American Aircraft Airport on Angeles Mesa Drive, according to McNulty. After arriving there, they were to take another plane and fly to Phoenix, Ariz.

But fate intervened and shortly after taking off from Long Beach with McNulty at the controls the small craft entered a heavy fog bank over Inglewood and they were unable to find the American Aircraft flying field. McNulty said that he then turned the controls over to Owens, who was more experienced in "blind flying."

At last the flyers came down through the fog over Inglewood and seeing what appeared to be a safe landing field, Owens attempted to ground the plane. Just as they were about to land, however, the plane ran into another fog bank and in another second crashed to the ground with tremendous force, McNulty said. The engine was forced back into the cabin, killing Owens.

Both flyers were licensed pilots and the plane had been government inspected, according to Walter Hunter, deputy sheriff assigned to the investigation.

Janitor and His Wife Held in Jail For $12,800 Burglary of United Artists Theater Safe

BANK DEPOSIT LEADING CLEW

Officers Say Woman Put $6500 in Account

Her Maiden Name Cited by Police Officers

Husband Declares Illness Constitutes Alibi

Suspected of the recent "Jimmy Valentine" rifling of the United Artists' Theater safe of $12,800, Edward A. Kavanaugh, 32 years of age, and his wife, Mary, 23, of 3216½ Division street, were arrested yesterday at their home and held in the City Jail on three charges — suspicion of burglary, suspicion of grand theft and receiving stolen property.

MRS. MARY KAVANAUGH

Working under Detective Captain Bert Lynn, head of the police burglary detail, Detective Lieutenants Kleinfeld, Collins, Malina and Slaughter made the arrests, tracing the pair through the asserted deposit by the wife on Monday of the sum of $6500 in the United States National Bank at 2501 Vasquez Road.

BANKERS IDENTIFY

According to the officers, bank officials identified Mrs. Kavanaugh positively as the woman who placed the sum on deposit under the name of Mary Consiglio. That, the detectives assert, is Mrs. Kavanaugh's maiden name.

EDWARD A. KAVANAUGH

The trail led to the Kavanaughs as the result of information that the husband has been employed as head janitor at the theater for five months. Prior to that employment he served in the same capacity at the Paramount Theater, which then was known as the Metropolitan. For eight years, until he came to Los Angeles three years ago, he was a detective working out of the Sheriff's office in New Orleans.

ALIBI IN ILLNESS

When taken in custody, Kavanaugh, the detectives assert, tried to establish an alibi by declaring he has been confined to his home with illness since the 11th inst. Moreover, in the face of bank officials' identification of her, Mrs. Kavanaugh denied she had made the deposit.

The theater was robbed sometime between last Sunday night and Monday morning. When the house manager opened the theater Monday morning he discovered that the safe had been opened expertly through working of the combination, the entire contents removed, and the heavy door closed and locked.

Water System Bonds Voted

Voters in Municipal Improvement District No. 69 yesterday voted twenty-seven to two in favor of authorizing an $82,000 bond issue for the purpose of providing a water system for Hollywood Knolls.

There were twenty-nine votes cast.

The Illinois cleric is a Kiwanian and an intimate friend of Horace W. McDavid, president of Kiwanis International. Community singing through the courtesy of KHJ will be broadcast. Dr. Ernest C. Bashor will be chairman of the day.

CHANGES IN PORT POSTS ANNOUNCED

New Warden Placed Under Traffic Chief Starr as Wadleigh Takes Job

Coincident with the announcement of his formal appointment yesterday of Frank T. Wadleigh as port warden, Port Manager Burt Edwards stated that the functions of the office have been placed under Jay G. Starr, port traffic manager. Mr. Wadleigh will relieve C. B. Terry, who has been port warden since 1921, this morning.

It is explained that Mr. Wadleigh's duties, for which he will be paid a salary of $350 a month, will consist of patrolling the port's highways, policing the harbor waters to keep them free of debris and prevention of traffic congestion in the water-front area. Mr. Starr, following a conference yesterday afternoon with the new port warden, expressed hope of giving Mr. Wadleigh added responsibilities as he acquires experience in port conditions.

Port shipping interests yesterday expressed pleasure over Mr. Edwards's order in transferring all functions of the port warden's office to the office of the traffic manager, pointing out that Mr. Starr is a man of marked ability and wide experience in administration of port affairs.

Bierman, general passenger agent. The new coaches are of steel, eighty feet, eight inches in length, and have a seating capacity of seventy-eight passengers. They are equipped with double plate glass windows, revolving adjustable seats and the smoking compartments are equipped with leather lounge chairs.

ENGINEER OFF TO MEETING

Pecos H. Calahan, director of the Los Angeles chapter of the American Association of Engineers, left Los Angeles yesterday for Mexico City to attend the Pan-American convention as official delegate of the local chapter. Among other engineers of Los Angeles who will attend the convention, which meets on the 26th inst., is Donald M. Baker, first national vice-president of the American Association of Engineers and secretary of the Associated General Contractors.

DEATH OF CHILD DUE TO POLISH

Cyanide Paste Probable Cause of Poisoning First Laid to Peach Pits

Cyanide in a metal polish induced the death of little Helen Feder, police announced yesterday to still widespread alarm aroused by their original report that the poison had been absorbed from peach pit kernels which the child ate.

Helen, who was 2 years and 10 months of age, died in convulsions Sunday night at 3905 South Hobart Boulevard, where her wage-earning mother had boarded her. An autopsy disclosed cyanide traces in her stomach, following which detectives learned that peaches and peach pit kernels had been eaten by Helen and other children.

A flood of alarmed inquiries by peach eaters inundated the homicide detail yesterday. Detective-Lieutenant Condaffer went to the house where the child died and made a thorough investigation. He found a bottle of metal polish which contained cyanide, analysis revealed.

Condaffer learned that some of the children at the house had been polishing coins and that probably little Helen put a bright coin in her mouth, thereby absorbing poison.

Motor Schooner With Rum Past to be Auctioned

The motor schooner Pramrod, said to have been at one time the property of Tony Cornero, rum-runner, will be sold at auction at 11 a.m. on the 30th inst., it was announced yesterday by United States Marshal Sittel. The schooner, which has figured in numerous legal actions brought by the government, was brought to this country from Hamburg, Germany.

At New Orleans the captain of the vessel surrendered it to the government as having a contraband of illicit liquor. It later was released with its liquor cargo and appeared on the west coast, minus the cargo, but unable to proceed. It was then seized by the government.

Actor's Wife Wins Divorce

John K. Stein was an actor but not enough of one to support his wife properly, Mrs. Edith Stein declared before Superior Judge Comstock yesterday. She was granted a divorce from her husband. The wife asserted Stein was too temperamental to do anything else; in fact, he refused to do anything except act and as a result both he and she were left without means of support.

"He refused to work at anything but acting," the wife said, "and he didn't do enough of that to provide the necessities of life," she added.

The couple were married January 8, 1926, and separated July 1, last, according to the complaint.

Jail Sentence in Traffic Case

Asserted failure of Otis L. Jennings, 800½ East Seventh street, to answer to a number of traffic violations resulted in Municipal Judge Swain yesterday sentencing him to serve eight days in jail.

Taken into court on warrants issued on four asserted traffic-law infractions since August, 1928, Jennings was given sentences of two days on each of the charges, which included failure to obey a traffic officer's signal, failure to keep to the right, standing in a passenger loading zone and driving in a southerly direction in a downtown alley.

RHEUMATISM AGONY RESULTS IN SUICIDE

Ending his life yesterday with a bullet through the brain, Edgar G. Wisdom, 82 years of age, retired contractor of 2424 LaSalle avenue, left a note to his daughter, Mrs. Mabelle Everett, explaining that the agonies of his rheumatism were more than he could endure.

Richard (Skeets) Gallagher and His Bride, Pauline Mason

WORK comes before pleasure, according to Richard (Skeets) Gallagher, stage and screen actor, who returned to Hollywood yesterday from Agua Caliente, Mex., following his marriage to Pauline Mason, actress.

At the Paramount studio, where he has just finished "Fast Company" and is to start work on a new picture, Gallagher said their honeymoon plans will be held in abeyance until his present production is finished. Gallagher surprised his friends Sunday when he slipped away to the border resort and was married to Miss Mason by a Mexican magistrate.

Hitting Horse With Fist Not Act of Cruelty

Should a man strike a horse in the head with his fist he probably would do more damage to his fist than to the horse's head, opined Municipal Judge Thompson yesterday in finding A. P. Radish, milk wagon driver, not guilty of cruelty to his horse.

"If it were not for the fact that the court was brought up on a farm, he might be inclined to believe the horse in question had been mistreated, but I do not believe it has," said Judge Thompson.

Radish was asserted to have run his horse without sufficient rest and to have struck it in the face with his fist. Testimony to this effect was given by Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Larimer of 238 West Fifty-ninth street. Radish produced witnesses who stated he was a competent driver and kind to the horse.

Torso Murder Trial Now Set for Tomorrow

Trial of Dr. Frank P. Westlake, 57-year-old retired physician, charged with the murder of Mrs. Laura B. Sutton, his reputed sweetheart, yesterday was continued by Superior Judge Wood until tomorrow. The delay is occasioned because counsel for Dr. Westlake is engaged in another case.

Dr. Westlake is charged with the murder of Mrs. Sutton following the discovery and identification of a torso as that of Mrs. Sutton. The headless and limbless body was located in the Los Angeles River near Lynwood last May.

CAFE TABLE MAY HOLD FATE OF PAIR ON TRIAL

Whether a table in the Happy Bungalow, a cafe at 11802 Washington Boulevard, was in Culver City or Los Angeles on the night of the 10th inst. is the problem a jury in Municipal Judge Sheldon's court will have to decide today in returning a verdict in the trial of Mrs. Teresa Ochina and Paul Livingston, charged respectively with six counts of sale and possession of liquor and one count of committing a Wright Act nuisance and with giving information about liquor. The trial ended late yesterday, and Judge Sheldon is slated to instruct the jury this morning.

Called by Deputy City Prosecutor Kaufman, Police Officers Williams, Payne and Sale testified they entered the Happy Bungalow on the night of the 10th inst. and after seating themselves at a table summoned Livingston, who was a waiter employed there, and asked him if they could purchase liquor. They declared he gave them information which a few minutes later resulted in Mrs. Ochina, the proprietress, selling them drinks.

During the trial it developed that the boundary line between Los Angeles and Culver City bisects the dance floor of the cafe. Deputy City Prosecutor Kaufman insists, however, that the table at which the officers were served was on the Los Angeles side. On the other hand, the defendants insist it was on the Culver City side.

Kaufman said last night that if he gets a conviction he will call the Wright Act nuisance charge into play against all resorts suspected of selling liquor. This carries a penalty of $1000 fine, for payment of which the premises may be sold, if necessary.

CHARACTER WITNESSES AID BROKER

Six Testify at Trial of Newport and Clarke as Case Nears Close

Six witnesses yesterday took the stand in Superior Judge Doran's court to testify to the good character of F. P. Newport, prominent realty developer, who with Robert D. Clarke, former Municipal Court clerk, is on trial charged with attempting to influence a public official.

The witnesses were D. W. Pentius, D. H. Hart, E. S. Pauly, John M. York, C. E. Kimlen and James W. Foley. They were called and questioned by LeCompte Davis and William Neblett, Newport's attorneys.

The remainder of the day was taken up by numerous motions by defense counsel to strike portions of testimony already given pertaining to Newport. Arguments in the case probably will start at 2 p.m. today and the case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow.

Drake Changes Mind on Delayed Permit Granting

Granting of applications and renewals for all manner of police permits for dance halls, massage parlors, pool rooms, junk dealers and other business under the jurisdiction of the department, held up indefinitely a week ago on motion of Commissioner Drake, was resumed yesterday by the Police Commission, also on motion of Drake.

Drake's first motion had passed after he had urged that all permits should be held up until the Mayor appoints a successor to Commissioner Gilmore, who resigned. The action caused considerable indignation among those who had laid their business plans to obtain permits within a certain period.

Yesterday the board rescinded its action after Drake had explained that it appeared there would be more delay than was anticipated in getting a full board, as former President Schweitzer also had handed in his resignation, making two vacancies to fill, instead of one.

SUSPICIOUS SPOUSE DIVORCED BY WIFE

Ralph Eugene Ward often falsely accused his wife Florence of infidelity and made life miserable for her with his suspicions that she was untrue to him, Mrs. Ward testified yesterday before Superior Judge Lambert when asking for a divorce. Mrs. Ward declared her husband came home after a drinking bout, obtained a large butcher-knife and begged her to kill him. Mrs. Ward was given a decree of divorce and the custody of two minor children, Ralph, 5 years of age, and Albert, 3; also $15 a week for their support.

New and Improved..

THIS is an announcement to all users of Agmel. It is also addressed to all prospective users who are interested in this great health food—this valuable tonic in high blood pressure, kidney deficiencies, indigestion, glycosuria.

You have probably seen Agmel in the new glass bottle which has replaced the familiar tin container. It is the same Agmel—known so long and favorably in this community. However, it has been improved in both taste and appearance and its efficiency has been considerably increased. It is the finest concentrated sap of the maguey plant that has ever been produced.

As before, Agmel is imported from Mexico. But an improved vacuum process is now employed in the concentration of the raw sap. The latest type of vacuum reducing equipment has been installed in the center of the maguey growing region of Mexico and the raw fresh sap is concentrated every day as soon as it is gathered from the plants. This new method makes the relation between fresh aguamiel and Agmel closer than ever before. In fact, Agmel is aguamiel or maguey sap with the surplus water removed.

The new glass bottle holds a sufficient quantity of Agmel for a whole month's use. Get Agmel at your druggist's. Most druggists sell it.

Seven California youths, two of whom are from Los Angeles and one from Glendale, are among the thirteen candidates of the Ninth Corps Area Citizens' Military Training Camps who have been selected to uphold the rifle-shooting traditions of the West at the annual National Rifle Matches at Camp Perry, O., from the 25th inst. to September 15.

The seven successful Californians, selected with six others from among 2000 competitors representing the eight States in the Ninth Corps Area, are: Nathan Carll, 1181½ North Chicago street, Los Angeles; Donald W. White, 2100 Lloyd avenue, Los Angeles; Homer J. Lockwood, 1230 North Jackson street, Glendale; William G. The first five named were chosen at the Del Monte camp, the remaining two at the Vancouver Barracks.

Announcement of the selection was made yesterday by Maj.-Gen. Hines, commanding the Ninth Corps Area at the San Francisco Presidio.

STRIKE LOST BY VIOLENCE, SAYS PFAFF

Visitor from New Orleans Asserts Street-Car Men Killed Public Sympathy

Having lost the sympathy of the public when they indulged in violence, the street railway employees have lost their strike in New Orleans, in the opinion of William Pfaff, prominent business man of New Orleans who has been visiting in Los Angeles.

Mr. Pfaff, who is a former president of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce, a board member of the United States Chamber of Commerce and ardent open-shop advocate, said that the question of wages does not enter at all in the present controversy between the street-car men and the company. The men average $125 per month for a nine-hour day.

"It was a matter of recognition of the street-car men's union and the demand of the men that they have a say in the question of the company discharging employees," said Mr. Pfaff. "The company felt that to it alone belonged the right to hire and discharge its employees. When the strikers indulged in violence they lost the sympathy of the public and then it was that they lost the strike."

Mr. Pfaff believes that the strike gradually will disintegrate rather than be settled. As a member of the firm of Searcy & Pfaff, Ltd., the largest printing concern in New Orleans, Mr. Pfaff has maintained the open-shop policy for forty years.

He will leave this morning for Salt Lake City, being a delegate to the convention of the United States League of Building and Loan Associations.

PANTAGES TRIAL DELAY OPPOSED

State Will Announce Itself as Ready Tomorrow

Defense to Meet Opposition if It Procrastinates

More of Theater Employees Undergo Questioning

The District Attorney's office will announce itself ready to go to trial at once when Alexander Pantages, vaudeville magnate charged with a criminal attack on Eunice Pringle, appears in Superior Judge Aggeler's court tomorrow at 10 a.m. to enter plea to the charges, it was learned yesterday from Chief Deputy District-Attorney Robert Stewart.

Setting date for the trial, it is recognised, will be the most important proceeding when Pantages appears in court tomorrow, as it has been announced that he will plead not guilty or enter a demurrer to the complaint. The defense is expected to combat efforts to hurry the case before a jury.

SEVERAL QUESTIONED

"I will inform the court that we are ready to go to trial at any time," said Stewart yesterday. "However, we cannot object to a reasonable time being allowed the defense attorneys in preparing their case. Any unreasonable demands for extended time or unnecessary delays, however, will meet with vigorous objection from me."

While both sides were preparing for tomorrow's court proceedings, the District Attorney's force continued its heavy guard over important witnesses and its questioning of everyone that might have some possible connection with the case.

Those questioned yesterday included Connie Hardin, motion-picture machine operator; Marie Lowell, box-office cashier, and Ruth May, book-keeper, all employees of the Pantages Theater.

STORY OF DESK

Hardin, according to attaches of the District Attorney's office, corroborated the previous statement of Roy Keene, assistant manager of the theater, that a desk was placed in the little room where the Pringle girl said she was assaulted after the asserted offense had taken place. Keene, in his statement, declared that Pantages told him to move the desk to alter the appearance of the place and that he got Hardin to help him move the heavy piece of furniture.

Marie Lowell, questioned by Assistant Chief Investigator Matthews, said that she was at her station in the front box office of the theater when the asserted attack took place and neither saw nor heard anything of importance.

SCREAMS HEARD

Ruth May, the investigator said, reported that she heard the girl's screams and walked to the top of the stairs where she could view the door of the little room, but that she did not descend and had no part in the subsequent events.

Although there was little of major importance that happened yesterday in the Pantages case, nevertheless there were numerous telephone calls to the District Attorney's office throughout the day by persons who believed they had information of value. Some of these were from persons who knew Pantages many years ago in San Francisco and in the Yukon during the gold-rush days.

MERCHANDISING TO BE TAUGHT

New School Announced at U.S.C. Dinner

Will Give Course Leading to Bachelor Degree

Project Underwritten by Business Firms

Education for students of the Southland assumed a broader scope and a greater opportunity for practical application with the announcement last evening by President Von KleinSmid of the University of Southern California of a new school of merchandising to start at the university when the fall semester opens September 16.

The announcement was made at a dinner in the Trojan Student Union given for the purpose of bringing together the representatives of the merchandising and business organizations of Los Angeles and near-by cities by which the new school is being sponsored and underwritten for the next five years.

The supporters of the school include the following: Barker Brothers, Blackstone's, Broadway Department Store, Bullocks, Bullums of Long Beach, Coulter's Dry Goods Store, H. G. Chaffey Company, Daley's, Inc., Dyas's, J. J. Haggarty's New York Store, the May Company, MacMarr Stores, Ltd., Myer Siegel, Millinery Stores Company, I. Magnin, the Marston Company of San Diego, Hugh A. Martl of Long Beach, the Los Angeles Publishers' Association, the Los Angeles Advertising Club, the Association of Chain Stores of Southern California, Piggly Wiggly (Western States,) the Safeway Stores, the Owl Drug Company, Parmelee-Dohrmann, Robinson's, Van De Kamps Walkers, the Whitney Company of San Diego, the Wise Company of Long Beach, Van Der Ahe, Long Beach Press-Telegram, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Express, Los Angeles Herald and The Los Angeles Times.

PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT

In his formal announcement Dr. Von KleinSmid said:

"The school of merchandising was authorized by the board of trustees of the University only after careful investigation by the leading merchandising organizations of Los Angeles and near-by cities, and is made possible by the financial assistance of a wide variety of organizations on the coast and the assurance of their willingness to cooperate in seeing that the students receive adequate training in sound practice as well as in sound theory.

"Students entering direct from high school may take 40 per cent of their freshman and sophomore work in basic courses and Los Angeles and Long Beach stores will make it possible for them to acquire part-time work in practical salesmanship. For students entering this field after two years of general college work, the curriculum is sufficiently elastic to allow them to take the basic background courses along with the more specialised courses designed to prepare them for their major field."

OTHER SPEAKERS

Other speakers during the evening, introduced by toastmaster Dr. Frank C. Touton, vice-president of the university, were Herbert M. Bigelow, representing the Retail Dry goods Association; Edward Dale, representing the Cooperative Chain Stores; A. Carman Smith of the Los Angeles Advertising Club, W. H. Wright, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; Prof. Emory Olson, U.S.C.; Dr. Reid McClung, U.S.C.; Dr. Florence May Morse, U.S.C., and T. C. Palmer, vice-president of Walkers.

According to Dr. W. D. Moriarty, professor of economics, who has been appointed director of the school of merchandising, completion of the courses will lead to a degree of bachelor of science in merchandising, and every resource of the university will be open to students who come there either to begin or to continue the study of merchandising.

The major courses in the new school come under the head of marketing, advertising and retailing, with some of the specific courses listed as co-operative buying and selling, fashion merchandising, consumer research, chain-store distribution and management, market analysis, buying and selling advertising, business contacts, merchandising management problems, store and window display, retail buying and many others. In the outline of courses there are forty-four specific courses listed.

COURSES INCLUDED

The freshman and sophomore program includes courses in elements of merchandising, principles of advertising, principles of economics, sales orientation, health education, line, color and design, general psychology, public speaking, merchandising statistics, textiles, man and civilization, American constitutional history and specialised activities.

Koch, formerly head of the Retail Merchants' Institute in Chicago; Prof. Frank Nagley of the college of commerce and business administration of U.S.C.; Dr. J. Harry Tregoe, formerly executive manager of the National Association of Credit men, and Mrs. Ada Colline Holme, formerly of Marshall Field & Co.

Voting on the resolution revealed a total membership of sixty-one at the gathering, but these were augmented by some 150 others, more than half of whom were women.

Short talks were made by City Health Officer Parrish and City Attorney Werner, who explained the activities of their respective departments. Another meeting was announced for next Tuesday night, when a more detailed program is expected to be perfected.

OLD MERIT PLAN URGED FOR POLICE

Ex-Chief Heath Pleads Advantages of System in Defending Officer

R. Lee Heath, former Police Chief, yesterday advised the Police Commission to restore the merit system as the best method for maintenance of discipline among the men of the department.

Heath appeared as counsel for Officer Samuel G. Cope, dismissed on charges that he was derelict in his duty, incompetent, inefficient and failed to pay his just debts. The evidence against Cope failed to convince the commissioners and they ordered him restored to duty, holding that they were not interested in debts of officers in their private life. That, the commissioners held, was for the civil courts to handle.

Heath, in commenting on the insufficiency of the charges, said that when he was chief the system of placing so many demerits against an officer before dismissing him or giving him a certain number of merits and promoting him had been found better than the present system of suspending or dismissing officers on grounds often found insufficient.

The commission reprimanded Officer L. R. Graves, accused of carelessness resulting in one man being arrested for violation of the dry laws on a warrant issued for another, instead of using the proper warrant. Graves was warned against making a similar error, the first of the kind brought to the attention of the commission.

GAMBLING SHIPS "TAKEN FOR RIDE"

Uncle Sam Tows Them to Port For Blocking Sea Traffic

THE two gambling barges, Johanna Smith and Monfalcone, came back into port last night, not willingly, but on the end of towlines from the Coast Guard cutters Tamaroa and Algonquin. They were deemed obstructions to navigation as they lay anchored about twelve miles south of San Pedro.

Owners of the barges could not be found late yesterday. It is declared the patronage of the gambling ships had fallen off materially in the last few weeks, and coupled with mounting difficulties in maintaining shore-boat communication due to minor legal conflicts, the discontinuance of operations is not highly disappointing.

The barges were anchored off Terminal Island, and turned back to their owners, as Coast Guard officials made it plain the craft were not being seized, but merely moved.

MORE DOLLARS FLUTTER IN FOR STRANDED FAMILY

The charitable heart of Los Angeles poured forth another stream of dollars yesterday to aid the mother and her three children who all unknowingly awakened public sympathy two weeks ago when a news item was made of the fact that policemen found them stranded in the city, after having come here from Amarillo, Tex.

From envelopes sent to The Times by nineteen contributors there fluttered bills and checks totaling $37, which is acknowledged with the assurance that it has been diverted to the proper channel.

As has been the case on previous days most of the contributions came from anonymous sources. To those who did not request that their names be withheld, however, The Times is able publicly to express the destitute family's thanks. There was a $5 check from Ada R. Martin; a $2 check from N. L. Blobon; a dollar bill each from A. A. Fulton of 2251 Lewis avenue, Pasadena; "A Mother;" Mrs. K. L.; "A Friend;" "A Britisher;" and $2 from the Foothill Boys' Club of Monrovia.

In addition to these the Pasadena Knitting Mills announced in a letter that they are prepared to present the stranded mother's three children with new sweaters.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know about Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases. A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding, and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.—[Advertisement.

Today's Bible Text

Unto you first, God, having raised up his Son Jesus, sent him to bless you, in turning away every one of you from his iniquities. The Acts iii:26.

THE WINGED PLOW

Recently on a test a biplane was used to pull a plow in Kansas, but we imagine it will be a long time before a Zeppelin will be listed as a farm implement.

MASSIVE FROGS

Bullfrogs that weigh more than ten pounds are to be found in French West Africa. They should make dandy fryers. A croaker with a drum stick proportionate to that weight should help ward off famine.

THE PERFECT BACK

The chiropractors were seeking the perfect female back. The beaches offer a bewildering array of possibilities. If a tanned back is eligible there are hundreds of the noblest examples that were ever disclosed to the ravenous eye of man. We can positively guarantee our samples.

FOR CHURCH UNITY

They are getting organic church union in Canada. The United Church of Canada is a blend of Methodists, Congregationalists, Presbyterians and the like and it lists about 8500 places of worship where creeds are forgotten in Christian conference. The union has gained more than 50,000 members in the last three years and is doing well.

FLYING SOUTH

In flying from Vancouver to Agua Caliente the aviator, Tex Rankin, spanned Uncle Sam's territory from north to south without ever setting foot on the same. It was a solo nonstop flight and it was made in thirteen hours on seventy-five gallons of gasoline. Here is another of those air adventurers that are worthy of special recognition.

PAYING THE PRICE

Racketing is figured to have cost Chicago more than $180,000,000 last year. Most of this is charged up to labor-union troubles, strikes and bombings. This is a part of the price that any big city must pay for its surrender to the labor bosses. Yet there are careless citizens in our own priceless community who would sleep while the invader sets foot on the threshold.

A BATTLE ROYAL

Vittorio Campolo, the newest fistic champion from South America, is said to stand about six feet eight inches in height and weigh better than 250 pounds. Those who enjoy dark or red meat would get a thrill if Vittorio were given a start in the same ring with George Godfrey and Long Tom Hawkins. There would be three bulky battlers who would make the musketeers look like skimmed milk.

GETTING PINCHED

According to the best reckoning the number of State arrests on account of prohibition during the fiscal year recently ended was 10,509, as against 4762 for the previous period. Possibly this means that the laws are being better enforced. But there is comfort in the fact that the number of youthful offenders is lessening. The junior sports weary of this synthetic slop before they form the habit.

OUR WEAKNESS NOW

Hardly a day passes but some critical stranger will make sneering remarks about the railway stations we offer to their vision. We are so big and beautiful in other lines that the contrast becomes pitiful. When we explain that we have been trying for fifteen years to obtain something in tune with other conditions they want to know what is the matter with the railroads themselves. In the matter of cities we have the biggest drawing card on the continent and it should be their pride—as it is their advantage—to do their part in keeping it so. They tell of the magnificent stations in New York, Washington, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit and other cities—many of them much smaller than Los Angeles—and the visitors are unable to comprehend the negligence of the railways. We tell them we have gained every legal point that has been raised by the opposition and they marvel all the more.

AID TO GRAPE GROWERS

Save for an emergency loan made necessary by the fruit-fly extermination campaign in Florida, the first advance made by the Federal Farm Board goes to the aid of the grape growers of California. An advance of $9,000,000, half of which is supplied by banks and half by the board, is made available to the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers and to the Federal Fruit Stabilization Corporation for the aid of the 1929 crop, now in process of harvest, and the distressing conditions which beset the grape industry last year probably will not recur.

Since the California grape and raisin crops are valued this year at $40,000,000 to $60,000,000, the importance to general business conditions of obtaining orderly marketing needs no argument. In this particular matter, aid to the California producers means aid to the whole industry everywhere in the country, since 90 per cent of the nation's grape crop is produced in this State and the remaining 10 per cent will share in the benefits.

The Sun-Maid Raisin organization will be able to retain its trade-marks and good will, built up by long effort and heavy expenditure, as a result of the advance. These assets will prove to be worth in the long run far more than the amount of the loan, but being intangibles were of no great aid to the organization at a time of scarcity of cash.

One paragraph of the board's announcement is worthy of special notice:

> This financial aid to the fresh-grape industry has been given because the Federal Farm Board recognized that the success of any effort to improve conditions in the grape industry of California must be dependent (1) upon complete coordination between the different elements involved, such as raisin grapes and fresh grapes, and (2) recognition upon the part of the growers themselves that they must subscribe to an industry program and be willing to follow the leadership brought about by an agreement on the part of the organizations interested.

In other words, if there is working at cross purposes the industry, and with it the growers, will suffer; but if all the growers and all the growers' organizations follow the course agreed upon, even if they differ in their opinion of its details, the result generally is likely to be good.

There are two reasons why the grape industry obtains this early assistance. One is that it was one of the first organized to meet the Federal Farm Board's requirements; the second was that it needed the aid immediately, in moving this year's crop and in overcoming past disorganization, which had left the industry in a perilous situation.

For the grape men, therefore, prospects are now brighter than they have been for years. The crop is somewhat smaller, which will naturally mean better prices, and for the first time in several years there has been no carryover of raisins. With the marketing aid thus extended, sale of all of this year's crop at good prices should be possible and the growers should be able to clear up obligations and establish themselves on a firmer basis for the future—a basis which will mean prosperity.

Incidentally, the shipment of a large quantity of refrigerated grapes from this port to Manila recently opens up a new activity for Los Angeles Harbor, as well as showing that the grape men are seeking new outlets for their product. Hitherto grapes have not been shipped from Los Angeles in any quantity; the business has gone to other ports. The development of export business from this end of the State has long been needed, and the shipment is important, therefore, as indicating that the development is actually taking place. It gives Southern California a new interest in the grape business.

SAN FRANCISCO'S OPINION

The opinion of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, expressed in a referendum, is heavily in favor of permitting the Great Northern and Western Pacific to parallel the lines of the Southern Pacific through Northern California, but it is a question whether the action was taken after full consideration and understanding of all phases of the subject. Business interests and the public generally frequently favor railroad extensions without regard to their economic soundness, on the ground that money will be expended in the community while construction is going on and, therefore, will promote prosperity. It may be that this point of view had its influence.

It is a short-sighted viewpoint, since in the long run the public is compelled to pay, either in higher rates or inferior service or both, for any railroad building that is not necessary. The only question involved in the railroad dispute now before the Interstate Commerce Commission is whether a railroad line from Klamath Falls to a point on the Western Pacific in the north-central part of the State will give sufficient additional service to justify its cost. That is a highly technical matter, to be passed upon by experts after due and careful study, and is not to be decided by a mere count of hands.

It is understood that neither railroad system involved inspired the Bay City referendum, since the roads are supposed to have ceased propaganda activities because of the suggestion of the commission chairman that propaganda was a waste of time and its product would not be considered in deciding the question. The ban on agitation and wire-pulling campaigns does not, of course, prevent organizations or individuals from expressing their preferences. But the commission has made it clear that principle and broad policy, rather than preference, will determine the decision. This is as it should be.

THE DISTURBER

Gen. Augustino Sandino is now about to become a rancher at his haven in Yucatan and some of his revolutionary followers in Nicaragua are joining him there. What he intends to raise on his ranch is not mentioned. Possibly he would raise a new revolution. He had best cultivate peace, however. He might get on Brother Bill Wrigley's pay roll if he would stick to the soil and raise the stuff on which America's gum is founded.

The LEE SIDE O' LA
By Lee Shippey.

THE possibilities of radio are as yet little realized. A Beverly Hills motion-picture personage—after the hospitable way they have—has some mechanism secreted in a shrub close to the front gate, so that as any canvasser or uninitiated stranger starts to unlatch that gate a series of soul-terrifying dog growls comes from the shrub.

No doubt in time selectivity will be developed to such superhuman perfection that magazine agents, bond salesmen, bootleggers and dry raiders can be detected by the mechanical watch dogs and greeted accordingly.

Just Our Luck!

Round playing cards are a new Los Angeles fad. But that won't keep our opponents from continually getting corners on all the good ones.

Man and Superwoman

Conventions in the summer sun
Have wilted, but there still remains
One thing unsolved which rocks our brains
As merrily the streamlets run
From off the brows which ardently
The sun has hist. Men shed their coats
And walk untrammeled, fat and free,

But, as for women, fashion notes
Say gossamer shall clothe their shanks,
And sharp observers must admit
Few mutinies have split their ranks.
But why, with blazing sun above,
Do they invest themselves in fur?
How can one wear, for wealth or love,
That steaming strop which smothers her?
ABE RIVLIN.

The Retort Obvious

We publish the foregoing just to prove that we're not the blindest man in town.

Anyone who imgaines women wear more clothes than men do this summer is pitifully worse off than we are.

What with short skirts, no petticoats, no stockings, short sleeves and diaphanous materials, many a girl goes out for a week-end trip now with an overnight bag so small it looks like a camera.

Only the other day we thought we'd got six dandy snapshots of the kids, only to find out we'd seen working the snapper on their visiting aunt's overnight bag.

What is funnier than a man who habitually wears coat, collar, tie, long trousers or short trousers with heavy golf stockings roasting the women on the way they dress?

You shouldn't roast anybody in August, Abe. It's unnecessary cruelty.

Consolation

But you can always be cool in Southern California, even at San Bernardino. Up there the other day we were sighing for gushing springs and rippling rivulets. Then we got busy and suddenly they were ours—gushing from our own neck.

Outshines the Stars

When the Mt. Wilson Observatory was established in 1904 Mt. Wilson was selected as one of the best places in the United States for such an observatory. But it is doubtful if the 200-inch telescope which now is being built for the California Institute of Technology will be located there, for all the surrounding territory has grown so amazingly that now the lights of 100 towns and cities, reflected in the sky, cause the astronomers some perplexity. Tests now are being made in a number of places and it is probable that no place closer to Los Angeles than the San Bernardino Mountains will be found unsettled enough to create perfect conditions for astronomical observations, and it may be necessary to locate the telescope on Mt. Palomar, more than 100 miles from Los Angeles.

In 1904 one looking down from Mt. Wilson saw a few glimmering lights here and there, with Pasadena and Los Angeles mere dim Milky Ways in the distance. But cities are vastly brighter at night now, and on either side the spectator looks down on rivers and lakes of light, flowing into each other and forming an unbroken chain of luminous beauty. It gives every other beholder a thrill—but it gives astronomers a pain.

ORGANIZED TIME

A director of one of the prominent clubs says youth today is not hard-boiled. He avers that the youngsters of his boyhood were more sophisticated than the extremely candid boys and girls of this time. He cites an instance to prove his contention.

On New Year's Eve 140 high school students asked the privilege of having a party in the clubhouse. Being chairman of the house committee, it became his duty to deal with them and oversee their activities. He was personally acquainted with about a third of them before the event and had abundant opportunity of intimately contacting all of them that night.

Of the 140, no more than ten carried flasks in their hip pockets. Of these but two or three became boisterous. Naturally they were noisy and gave atmosphere to the crowd. That but this small percentage was off color is impressive. The vast majority of youth is wholesome and dependable.

A controlling factor in directing the destiny of the oncoming generation is organizing its time. Although they do not know it, the boys and girls have their time so completely budgeted that they have few idle moments in which to hatch mischief. Their very play hours are systematized.

Possibly if some of the oldsters had their time organized and they had less opportunity for loafing, there might not be as much senile delinquency. Most of the inflammatory speeches in the public parks come from the loafers. The idle hand usually has a wagging tongue to defend it.

NEGLECT OF DUTY
By James J. Montague

Anyone not only can be rich, but ought to be rich.
—John J. Raskob.

I know it is my duty
To be a wealthy man,
With tons of gold, as I am told
That Raskob says I can.
But while uncounted millions
This active lad has made
And laid aside, I've merely plied
A rather trifling trade
And when, as soon they will be,
My earthly sands are run,
My duty, which is growing rich,
Must be left quite undone.
This lies upon my conscience;
My head is bowed with shame.
Too late I learn with grave concern
I haven't played the game.
While John piled up a fortune
Which anyone can do
In daily gains, as he maintains,
I haven't saved a sou.
It may be that a fortune
Would do me little good,
Yet I must die aware that I
Have not done what I should.
And so it's Raskob's duty
To each and every one,
To teach the knack of getting jack
As fast as he has done.
Some may not want the money—
Though plenty of them might—
But I believe they all will grieve
If they have not done right.
And if he'll give me lessons
In gathering the pelf
I'll gladly learn my pile to earn
And thereby square myself!

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

CORN BORER AND FRUIT FLY
[Detroit Free Press]

The Mediterranean fruit fly and the European corn borer are two immigrants this country could have done well without. The corn borer located in the States along the Canadian border, where it is menacing the corn crop in precisely the same way that the fruit fly is threatening the southern fruit crop. The success so far obtained in combating this pest is disappointing.

In Michigan the recent repeal of the State Corn Borer Act, with its compulsory clean-up feature, is already bringing natural bad consequences. In the absence of active Federal intra-State regulation, the individual farmer is left to his own devices and the devastating insect is spreading from county to county without encountering any great obstruction.

Thus, a Michigan crop that normally is worth about $50,000,000 to the farmers of the State is in danger of almost complete destruction within a year or two. And the just will suffer with the unjust, for it seems quite impossible to progressive individual farmers to fight the borer successfully while their neighbors sit by indifferently.

A quarantine is maintained along the borders of Michigan, with the object of preventing the spread of the borer to adjoining States. This prevents exportation; but it leaves the eradication of the pest within the State to local efforts and none are being taken.

IS ITALY OUT OF STEP?
[Christian Science Monitor]

So much opposed to the spirit of the times are the statements made in a recent budget speech by Antonio Mosconi, the Italian Minister of Finance, that one wonders why they were permitted to pass unchallenged. He said:

> If one day the government should be able to dispose of new financial resources, you know well, after the warning words of the Duce, so solemnly confirmed by the august words of the sovereign, what objectives must have the most absolute precedence in our expenditure—namely, those which will give added efficiency to the forces meant for the defense of the fatherland.

There is no mistaking the objective—a more efficient fighting force!

In the face of the solemn pact of peace to which the bulk of the nations of the world have subscribed, of the widespread realization that costly armaments have no place in budgets, and of the general recognition that the arts of peace are far more important than the arts of war, the utterances of the Italian statesman are, to say the least, surprising. They certainly do not inspire confidence. And if they are not to be taken at their full value, they had better have been left unsaid. Otherwise, Italy is to be adjudged out of step with the onward-looking nations of the world.

ATTACKING THE DIVORCE PROBLEM
[Chicago Daily News]

Judge Joseph Sabath's arrival in Europe to study Old-World methods of dealing with divorce may bring results of importance through the discovery of ways to meet sanely and successfully one of the major social problems now before the American people. Judge Sabath is especially interested in European "courts of reconciliation." Those courts aim to employ every resource in efforts to restore discordant homes to harmony.

Although he has granted more divorces than any other living person—approximately 42,000—Judge Sabath is refreshingly optimistic in his views of human nature and of marriage as an institution.

When one considers the number of business ventures which go on the rocks, the careers dreamed of but unrealized and the professional partnerships dissolved through friction, one must deem it a tribute to the institution of marriage that in this day of high-pressure living, casual courtships and hasty weddings, ill-considered finances and unplanned family life, at least three-fourths of the matings endure.

Judge Sabath points out—gleefully, he admits—that divorce as well as marriage often proves to be a failure. Last year at least 11 per cent of the divorced couples in Chicago remarried.

MENACE OF THE TERMITE

BY ARTHUR L. MACKAYE

Throughout the great Southwest, especially in Arizona and Southern California, is multiplying an imported insect pest whose capacity for destructiveness is not generally appreciated. This menace now spreading here is the termite, or white ant, as it is generally known, which is capable of actually eating one out of house and home, if one's home happens to be built of wood. There are a number of species of this destructive insect, which is not a real ant, although it lives in colonies much as our common ants do; that is, those termites known as ground termites.

The latter have secured a firm foothold in a number of localities in Los Angeles county, while the brown, or winged, termites are numerous in Arizona. But if ever they immigrate to California they will be particularly destructive through their ability to eat hardwoods, such as furniture is often made of, and other furnishings.

So great a menace has this termite invasion proved to be that at the session of the last Legislature a bill was passed for special control of this pest, which has already destroyed much valuable property in Pasadena and elsewhere. Under this bill examinations will be held in the office of the Los Angeles Horticultural Commission, in charge of Deputy Commissioner Wilcomb, for applicants as operators to begin active work to eradicate this termite pest. Examinations are this week, from August 19 to 25, in the County Building, Broadway and Temple street.

The ground, or white, termite was evidently introduced from the Orient, possibly by way of Hawaii, where it is proving to be a tremendous problem, having nearly destroyed the Kawaiahou Church, one of the oldest and finest churches of the Territory. The damage done in this instance amounted to over $150,000, while now $100,000 or more is being spent to prevent the total destruction by termites of the Iolani Palace, former home of the Hawaiian kings and queens, but now the Capitol Building of the Territory in Honolulu.

In this city a special study is under way by Dr. C. A. Kofoid of the University of California, of the so-called wood-eating or ground termite. All termites are wood eaters, but some are more destructive than the rest, especially in connection with the damage done to buildings and their foundations. D. T. Fullaway, Territorial entomologist of Hawaii, is also making a thorough investigation of this termite, both in Hawaii and the mainland, and has asked the cooperation of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce. He believes the pest has been spread from, as well as to, Hawaii by lumber shipments on steamers. The local Chamber of Commerce is also co-operating and its construction industries committee has raised a fund to further research work for the termination of the termite menace.

In the State as a whole work for the investigation and methods of control of the termite is being conducted under the supervision of Paul A. Harvey, field biologist of the committee named at Berkeley last winter to devise the best way to attack this pest. Many of the principal engineers and building inspectors of public utility concerns and oil companies are members of this committee, of which Walter Putnam of the building inspector's office in Pasadena is chairman, while Walter Zuetell, also of Pasadena, is secretary.

There is no known sure way of destroying the pest completely or preventing its spread. This is due in large measure to the fact that the presence of the termite is not known, except it be discovered by a careful inspection, or by accident, until the evidence of its destructiveness has appeared, for the termite works in secret, and therein lies the difficulty of its control.

Although the ground termite is blind it maintains a high form of community houses, generally deep in the ground where it can find moisture, for moisture is necessary for its existence. From this home deep in the ground, where live the queen termite and the nurses, who tend the young termites, run galleries built by the workers and engineers, made with a skill to rival the honeycomb of the bee. These tunnels lead directly to the nearest house, telegraph telephone pole, or even an oil derrick, which is penetrated from under the ground and the inside of the wood eaten away, leaving only a shell. The colonies of these insects are kept scrupulously clean, for when one dies it is immediately eaten by the others, as is all refuse of every kind.

The brown, or winged, termite, on the other hand, reproduces its colonies from pairs and breeds in the wood in which it is making its home and which provides it with its food supply. About once a year, generally in the spring, the young termites, graced with wings, issue forth from their homes and swarm about lights at night by which they are attracted, when it seems as though millions of them must be killed. It is during the swarming that they mate and then immediately seek some new wooden home, there to breed and raise new colonies.

In the Hawaiian Islands I have watched this winged termite seek its home by lighting on a piece of furniture. As soon as possible this flyer will seek to get rid of its wings, which otherwise would prevent it boring a hole in the hard wood. It is curious to watch them when they find trouble in losing their wings. They will become acrobats in their contortions to tear off the wings. Often they will try to pull them off with their feet or rub against an obstruction. Eventually the wings will be dispensed with and at once the termite will begin to eat into the wood, boring a small, round hole, and it is wonderful in what a short time it will disappear, to enter upon its work of making a home for itself and new colonies.

SEEING STARS

By The Foothill Philosopher

Peak piled on peak, tier after tier, stretching out and away forever, a cosmic theater in which the gods may sit to watch the human drama; baby foothills smiling in their sleep; tiny stars flung by the glacier gods from a towering precipice; lofty redwoods everlastingly young and barren trees on brown hills, dreaming of the days when they were green. These are among the scenes that stamped themselves on my mind during my last visit to that wonder of wonderlands, Yosemite National Park.

Also I remember the footprint of a giant in a boulder at the head of Nevada Falls, sweet azaleas whispering fragrant secrets to the streams, a mariposa lily, embraced by an ardent love-vine, peeping from a crevice in the rocks and breathing, singing bits of blue sky flitting among the trees at dawn.

Then, too, there were the children feeding crumbs to squirrels, chipmunks, big brown bears emerging suddenly from the hollows of burnt trees and mild-eyed, trustful deer bowing good morning to visitors at the tent door.

However, I think the most vivid, if not the most pleasant recollection, is of an incident that occurred when we were en route to Bakersfield. I sat in the rumble seat in order that I might better appreciate the fading drama of the highway and also to prevent myself from describing to the driver the wrecks that loomed ahead of him.

We had just descended from the high ridge and were well out on the desert road and I was gazing at the stars. I had been a reader of "The Monthly Evening Sky Map" and thought I knew the chief planets and the big constellations pretty well, but I was unprepared for the flaming glory of the skies that met my gaze on that wondrous July night. My favorite planets and constellations were lost in that vast panorama of whirling worlds.

As I sat there rapt in wonder suddenly I saw a great dragon, with big red eyes, approaching us with lightning speed. The dragon was screaming with all its might and I began to tremble. We pulled to the right of the highway and stopped. The dragon also stopped as its scream dwindled to a whine, and out of its mouth stepped two men in uniform. They wore big belts, with guns in attached pockets. I thought they were bandits, with the gentle intention of robbing us of the money we didn't have.

Approaching the rumble seat in a terribly dignified manner, one of the men said to me very calmly, but with awful authority: "Keep still—don't move."

He needn't have worried. I had no idea of moving. I had suddenly developed a complex of fear and anger. Stepping around to the driver, the men said some things to him which evidently were intended for his good, but which I thought were spoken rather saucily. They told him that if he was sober his Lizzie must be drunk. Then they returned to the back of the machine and asked me if I had noticed how we had been zigzagging along the road. I started to tell them that I had been looking at the stars, but I checked myself, thinking that such a remark would cause them to start a search for booze. Instead, I told them that I hadn't noticed any zigzagging, but that I was ready to regret anything that might have done amiss. I told them we were from Los Angeles and their faces seemed to soften. I hope motorists will remember that fact. We had no more trouble, but I imagine that the farther north one goes the nicer he will be treated by folks generally, and cops in particular, if he informs them he is from Los Angeles.

Finally the men left us, with the advice "Keep to the right!" I remember saying "Much obliged, Cap!" but I also remember that I wasn't much obliged at all, but mad as blazes because of the delay. I breathed a sigh of relief as the distance began to lengthen between us and the dragon. Then onward we sped toward Yosemite Valley—that staggering, stupendous, sublime spectacle that makes the heart ache with a nameless joy and fires the mind with a madness to express the inexpressible.

Turtle Vaccine Defended

Turtle vaccine has been effective in cases of tuberculosis, according to Dr. Franz Nagleschmidt of Berlin, Germany. He says the treatment has been successful in nearly all early cases of lung tuberculosis and also in a large number of moderately advanced cases, but it was too late in those which were very advanced. In many patients under the treatment the curative result is already visible and possibility of complete recovery is highly encouraging, the doctor added.

Americanism: Feeling sorry for subject people who are exploited by a master; funds paying toll to a racketeer.

Human nature doesn't change and when the meek inherit the earth they'll probably run it and spend most of it trying to keep out of jail.

Still, it's rather cheeky of the Philippines to ask freedom from a land that hasn't enough for her own folks.

It's still a hick town if you feel sophisticated when you see a married woman to have a sundae.

The pedestrian has one advantage on a one-way street. Knowing which way the inevitable is coming, he can always never to take the bump on the soft spot.

A good word for a bad one is worth much and costs little.

We're educating people now to buy an auto or a cow, or anything on time; why do without a gramophone, when you can get one such week a bone, and have it while that's sublime? Why do without a diamond ring? Your credit's good for anything, to hear the dealer's speak; you pay five haps a ruble down, a ginger kopeck or a crown, and then so many cents a week. Why do without your private ship, if you should wish to make a trip to some distant spot; there doubtless is a place in town where you may pay a guilder down, and buy a handsome yacht. This is the method up to date, and to a man old-fashioned skate, it seems a risky thing; while times are booming right along the happy life is one sweet song. There's nothing that he may not own while he can pay his weekly loan; there's naught beyond his reach and he may train with the best, hats, a necktie that's a pippin. Put if a panic should arrive we must struggle to survive, as we have done before; the man who buys all things on time will think his conduct was a crime; his spirit will be sore. He'll look upon the stacks of junk which he paid a weekly plunk through all the booming days and he will murmur and regret and wish he'd put the coin by in brine like other prudent folk. We're educating men to do whatever sceneries they can before their wage is drawn; and there will come a day no doubt when they will have no bread nor kraut, and nothing fit to pawn. I hold to old back-number ways and I believe it always pays to pay up as we go; to earn our pay in honest sweat, and then avoid the demon debt, with all its train of woe.

COUNTY TO KEEP MOTOR PATROL

Supervisors Decide It Will Be Preferable Policy

Board Allocates $260,000 to Defray Expenses

State Officers Will be Welcome Here Also

Los Angeles county will continue to maintain its own motor patrol of county men, in addition to whatever force of State traffic officers the Sheriff may decide to send into the local roads, the Board of Supervisors decided yesterday. Although the county's share of the latter, that formerly was used to augment the local force, under a plan by which part goes to maintain the State police, the Supervisors yesterday voted to allocate $260,000 in the budget to pay the expenses of the county patrol.

FINES PAY COSTS

The county can afford to do this, according to Supervisor Wright, because the county patrol under Capt. J. Duncan is self-supporting, the amount against traffic violators more than the cost of patrol. It was expressed as the opinion of the Supervisors that a county patrol would make many fines; the available forces of the State force that is doubled to work in Los Angeles county.

"A great number of arrests does not necessarily mean that efficient work is being done, however," said Supervisor Wright, "but in a certain way it indicates that efficient police protection is being furnished."

MANY MEN NEEDED

"I want to see how efficiently the county force operates before we add to the county over to it. Personally, I do not feel that the State forces that may be detailed here by Sheriff Jess in addition to the County men and the city highway squad, will be too many to have in Los Angeles and the amount in the budget for the use of the county motor police, will be used for salaries."

PLANS ADVANCED FOR INTERCEPTOR SEWER

The Health and Sanitation Committee yesterday decided to recommend to the Council the construction of an $800,000 interceptor sewer to serve portions of Culver City, in addition to Los Angeles territory. Control will be under the City of Los Angeles. The work will be done under the supervision of City Engineer Shaw, with City Engineer Wemer handling the legal proceedings. It is to be paid for by assessment district.

FORMER FOOTBALL HERO TO WED

Lines Up With Bride at License Bureau

Gridiron Star too Happy to Talk

Newell Welch (Jeff) Cravat and Miss Margaret Colegrove at marriage license department yesterday. They will go to altar Monday.

NEWELL WELCH (Jeff) CRAVATH, former University of Southern California football star, appeared at the county marriage license bureau yesterday and began calling signals to Miss Rosamond Rice, deputy clerk in charge of the bureau.

Miss Rice, who knows what to do when a young man's ears get red and he stammers, gave the athlete and his intended bride, Miss Margaret Colegrove, a couple of blanks to fill out.

Later, the information was revealed that Miss Colgrove, daughter of Dr. John A. Colegrove, 861 Irolo street, is 21 years of age. Cravath is 26.

The marriage, which will take place Monday at St. John's Episcopal Church, is the result of a campus romance, it was stated. The couple will live in Denver, where Cravath is coaching a football team.

HIS FALSE TEETH GET GNASHED

Husband Asks Divorce When Wife Assertedly Raps Way Molars Work

It was bad enough, thought Albert L. Pears, who filed a divorce suit yesterday against Mrs. Jennie Pears, to have to wear false teeth, and when his wife chided him about the way they worked, the situation became unbearable.

So Mrs. Pears is charged in the complaint with cruelty. She also is asserted to have taunted him about the way he played cards, the way he drove his automobile and, in addition, she wouldn't let him go hunting.

COSBY AGAIN ASKS COURT FOR DIVORCE

Action Asserting Cruelty Fourth Filed by Couple Since October, 1924

Attorney Fairfax Cosby yesterday began the fourth attempt at legal separation that he and his wife have made since their marriage in October, 1924. He filed suit asking a divorce on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Mrs. Evelyn Cosby, the defendant, sued for separate maintenance in December, 1924, asserting desertion, and for divorce in the following March, charging that her husband took another woman to a prize fight. Both of these suits were subsequently dismissed. Cosby, his wife asserted, filed a suit for annulment in San Francisco in January, 1925, but this suit was not pressed.

In the latest complaint Cosby declares that his wife has left him four times, and has employed nine attorneys to represent her in various matters. He also declares she told acquaintances her husband was "a poor lawyer."

Father Jailed With Daughter

Victor Czowan, 58 years of age, of 241 West Seventy-fourth street, and his 27-year-old daughter, Sophie, were arrested early yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs and charged with violating the State morals law. They will be held in custody until the District Attorney decides whether or not to issue a complaint against them.

Miss Czowan more than a year ago appeared at the District Attorney's office and swore to a complaint against her father, but when the case was called for trial she refused to testify against him.

Believing that the father might have threatened the girl to cause her to withdraw the complaint, Sheriff Traeger recently ordered Deputy Sheriffs Farmer and Baker to keep him under surveillance. The arrest followed Monday night at the Czowan residence when the officers assert they found father and daughter together.

YOUR STUCCO HOUSE NEED PAINT? . . . THEN—

Give a Thought to Both Ends of the Paint Brush

IN arranging for the painting of your stucco house, keep in mind that a paint brush has two ends. On the handle end you want a reputable painter—a painter whose long experience insures a first-class job of paint application. On the bristle end you want pure lead paint—the standard for generations.

The experienced painter and pure lead paint are the two famous partners of the painting industry. They'll make your stucco house weather-proof, moisture-proof . . . and beautiful.

Skilled painters—master painters—today use pure lead paint made with Dutch Boy white-lead. It covers stucco with the same lasting paint-film which has long been preferred for wood, brick—and all other surfaces. It keeps dampness and moisture from penetrating the porous stucco . . . ; prevents the stucco from cracking.

Let us send you detailed information about using pure lead paint on stucco. Also ask for our new booklet, "The House We Live In." It tells how to select colors for interior and exterior painting.

THUNDER AROUSED CHILD'S FEARS OF DARK

Mrs. M. P. writes: "You were such a great help to me when my daughter was an infant that I am now asking your help on an important matter. My daughter is now 2½ years of age and weighs thirty-five pounds. Up until a month ago she was pleased to go to bed for her nap and when she awoke would call for me. She also liked to go to bed for the night. About a month ago we had a severe thunderstorm and the lightning came up so suddenly that I gave a sharp cry. She got scared and since then I have had a terrible time with her. She screams every time it thunders, though I have helped a little by telling her stories about the thunder.

"Every time I take her upstairs she cries and when she awakens in the morning she cries. I play with her at night and she sleeps in the room without a light, but if I go in the room she jumps up and screams.

"I would appreciate some advice on this."

Answer: It is more than possible that the thunder and lightning have merely complicated a rather natural situation. It is quite usual for children to show some fears during the second and third year and one of the most natural fears is that of being left alone in a dark room. This is because children pick up ideas about what may happen to them in the dark from all kinds of sources. Also, when they get older they dislike being separated from the family or their mother and nap and bedtime are periods of separation. In connection with this, the child has likewise been frightened by thunder, perhaps at the time when she was ready for bed or her nap, and this is now connected in her mind with these ceremonies and adds to their distastefulness.

Around about this age it is sometimes better to drop the nap as a nap and merely give the child a rest period in bed that cuts into her daytime activities. Put her to bed in a light room with her clothes off and give her toys to play with and make no effort to have her sleep. If no pressure is brought to bear upon her and she feels that she can nap or stay awake as she pleases, she will not fight against going to sleep and may nap as usual. If she doesn't she can stay in bed for an hour and then play quietly for an hour before dinner and will be ready to go to sleep shortly after dinner.

You can continue to interest her in thunder and, even if she cries, pretend she is trying to outdo the noise of the thunder and laugh at her and she will begin to find it funny instead of terrifying.

If she wants a light near her room at night or a door open don't make a fuss about it. She will outgrow this period if she is never made frightened by stories of being alone or in the dark and will later find it a pleasure to go to sleep as usual.

That Gift Brush

There's no doubt every housewife in the nation has been given a vegetable brush by some enterprising brush company during the last few months. If you should happen to have two of them, use one for scrubbing soiled neckbands, collars and cuffs of shirts. They get the stains and dirt out in no time and are so much easier on the material than hard rubbing on a board.

APOLOGIZING

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Ben was visiting with Aunt Mary. During his stay he caused her considerable anxiety by running off for hours at a time without telling her where he was going or even notifying her at all.

When, at the end of the week, his father came to call for him, Aunt Mary felt it her duty to report the story of Ben's misconduct.

"Well, now, son, I'm sorry to hear this," said his father. "Don't you know that you've been very disobedient and inconsiderate? Don't you know you've caused auntie all sorts of worry?"

"Yes, but—"

"No buts about it, son. Apologize to Aunt Mary at once. Tell her you're sorry."

"I don't see why I should. I only just—"

"Come, come, that's no way to talk. Speak up like a gentleman, now, and ask Aunt Mary for forgiveness."

Ben's face was a complex study of irritation, embarrassment and humiliation.

"I'm waiting, Ben."

"Oh, well, then—I'm sorry," he muttered sullenly, but his expression said much louder than words, "I'll get even with you, Aunt Mary, all right, all right!"

People too frequently demand of children the lip service of politeness and repentance. Nothing could be more false and foolish.

If you cannot make a child feel sorry he has misbehaved, it is the height of silliness to make him say that he is. When you force him to apologize you are giving him not a lesson in repentance or even courtesy; you are, rather, teaching him to suppress his antagonism and to justify himself in his wrong doing.

AVIATOR'S SICKNESS

In this strenuous period when airplanes are passing out of the experimental stage into the field of practical use, it is interesting to study some of the hazards which confront the flying man. In spite of the fact that any serious disease prevents the granting of a pilot's license, the aviator must be constantly alert to protect himself against many minor illnesses and accidents which would not be serious to one not flying.

One exposed to the strain of flying too frequently, or too long at one time, may develop flying staleness, and a temperamental nervous feeling, causing his sleep to be broken by terrible nightmares, as of crashing into a ship that is on fire from a tremendous height, or colliding in the air with another ship flying in formation. By the time he has dreamed such a dream every night for a week, his judgment and mental control may be affected. Sometimes in these dreams one whom the pilot knows to have crashed comes back to haunt him. Is it any wonder that in the morning he fears to take his ship up, or that his self-confidence is shot?

The physical strain of excessive flying may also result in a muscular unbalance. A convergence insufficiency, or a divergence excess which will impair the pilot's judgment at the vital moment when he is landing will cause him to under or overestimate the proper distance so that he will not hit the field when he wishes to.

Duyenner, the French ace, showed these symptoms of increasing nervousness and irritability for some time before his fatal flight, and his mates called in a doctor to examine him who arrived just half an hour after the famous ace had left on the flight from which he never returned.

In the beginning of the flying era men stayed comparatively close to the ground, but now it is not uncommon to go up as high as 22,000 feet. Due to the increased oxygen tension there are two types of altitude sickness. The symptoms are headache, vomiting, buzzing or ringing in the ears, nausea, and a dimness of vision. The first type of this sickness is acute and marked by fainting attacks or lividity, rapid heart beat, and marked weakness. The second type is of much the same characteristics, but the attack is delayed. The symptoms of nervousness and heart derangement may be accompanied by a heavy panting and the feeling of being unable to move—a sort of paralysis of the limbs and marked weakness. The pilot becomes dazed or unconscious.

In some cases the pilot does not realize that he has pain or distress. He may feel well, almost too well, and this breeds confidence in himself and his condition that keeps him from realizing that his life is imperiled. He not only feels very well, but he is sure that he was never better. He considers himself in full control of his plane when he may really be almost helpless. He may lose control of his plane suddenly, acting like a sufferer from petit mal (epilepsy,) or he may faint two or three miles away from the earth and, alone in his ship, hurtle downward. If luck is with him, he will come to at a lower level of flying to find his plane out of control, or he may never recover from the fainting fit at all, in which instance he crashes.

Diet for Reducing

Question: F. D. asks: "Will you please tell me if the menus printed once a week in your column are reducing menus? I am too heavy and would like a balanced diet which would take off ten or fifteen pounds. Have been following your instructions but do not lose by using your weekly menus."

Answer: If you want to reduce, I would advise you to change the weekly menus somewhat. A simple way to do is to substitute a fruit meal in place of any meal including starch. If you are overweight and will do this, you will probably lose from three to five pounds a week.

Sweet Milk

Q.: H. asks: "Is it healthy to drink a glass or two of sweet milk just before retiring every night?"

A.: Not unless you are on an exclusive milk diet, in which case your schedule might extend to bedtime, depending upon how much milk you were taking. Ordinarily, when milk is used at all, it should be used as a meal itself, and not in addition to any of the customary three meals a day.

Mitral Stenosis

Q.: G. D. H., Jr., writes: "I am a young man of 20 years and have heart trouble (mitral stenosis) which has existed since birth. I have heard that near my 21st birthday I may expect a change for the better, the explanation being given that during youth at intervals of seven years a change occurs. Is this true.

A.: It is true that heart disorders of childhood often gradually disappear after adolescence, but do not depend too much upon this possible change. Start in eating correctly so that you do not have an excessive amount of gas pressure against your heart, as such gas pressure is the most common cause of all heart derangements.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

EGGS ST. CATHERINE

Cut the tops from four large even sized baked potatoes, remove nearly all of the potato meat, fit a slice of tomatoe in the bottom of the potato shells, season with salt and pepper, place the potatoes in a baking dish, break an egg on top of the sliced tomato, cover with a little well-seasoned cream sauce, sprinkle with grated cheese, dot with bits of butter, place in the oven, and bake for ten minutes. Serve garnished with branches of parsley.

CHICKEN POT PIE

Take a young, fat hen and cut up in even-sized pieces, place in a sauce pan and just cover with boiling water, bring to a boil, skim off the froth, and add a sliced onion, two branches of parsley, one sliced carrot, and when half-cooked season with salt, when beginning to get tender, add twelve small round potatoes, twelve very small onions, and one-quarter of a pound of parboiled salt pork that has been cut in small squares, simmer until the vegetables are tender; mix in a cup three tablespoonfuls of flour and half a cupful of cold water, stir this slowly into the chicken mixture and allow to simmer for ten minutes, place the chicken in a large baking dish, sprinkle with chopped parsley and allow to cool, cover the top with a rich baking powder dough, brush over the top with the yolk of an egg, place in the oven and bake until well browned.

EGG PLANTS SICILIENNE

Peel a medium-sized egg plant and cut in round thin slices, mix in a bowl, two cupfuls of grated cheese, one egg, one-half a cupful of thick cream, and a tablespoonful of chopped chives, seasoned with salt, and a little cayenne pepper, spread a slice of the egg plant with the mixture, cover it with another piece of eggplant in the form of a sandwich, dip in flour on both sides, then in beaten egg, and then in bread crumbs, fry in deep hot butter until well browned on both sides.

MERINGUE PEACHES

Cook one cupful of rice in four cupfuls of milk until the rice is tender, and the milk absorbed, add half a cupful of cream, three tablespoonfuls of butter, one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, and mix well, spread this mixture on a serving dish, about one inch deep, place on top of it, halves of peaches that have been cooked in a rich syrup, make a meringue of the whites of four eggs, and cover the peaches with the meringue, dust with powdered sugar, place in a very slow oven and bake until the meringue is brown and dry.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department. PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

Oil President to Be Tried on Theft Charge

Accused of having taken the proceeds of stock sales in the company of which he was head, Thomas R. Johnson, president of the West Texas Petroleum Corporation, yesterday was held to answer in Superior Court to a charge of grand theft following a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Ballard. He was released on bail of $2500 pending trial.

Johnson is charged with having misappropriated $1143 derived from the sale of stock. Among those who testified were L. J. Styskal of 870 Subway Terminal Building, secretary and treasurer of the company, and C. F. Locke of 1416 South Second street, Alhambra, and C. C. Ritchie of 511 Subway Terminal Building, salesman, who told of selling the stock.

The prosecution was represented by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Choate.

The Linen Closet

Paint the inside of the linen closet or drawers holding linens with dark blue enamel. This will prevent the linens from turning yellow and is much less trouble than wrapping them in blue paper.

Next Radio Show to Give Ideas of How They Work

Radio's workshop will have its sides removed, its ceiling lifted and its equipment, from the inception of receiving-set construction to the final tests of the completed outfit, fully revealed to the Southern California public.

Occasion for this revelation of radio science will be the seventh annual National Radio Show, September 2 to 7, in Ambassador Auditorium, the exhibition of the Radio Trades Association of Southern California. Many exhibitors are reported planning to put on display the delicate mechanisms, such as bridges, tube testers, oscillographs and other such contrivances by which they bring receiving-sets to perfection.

Heretofore, radio shows have contented themselves with exhibiting completed receiving-sets. The coming show will picture in detail the science behind the making of the set.

A Clean Cut

A sharp knife is better for trimming the ends of flowers than scissors, as scissors are inclined to squeeze the stems so that they do not take up water well.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Of Interest to Housewives

Pale green is always a good color for bathroom decorations.

Pure lemon juice and strong sunlight will remove mildew stains.

Worn knitted underwear makes lovely soft cloths for cleaning white paint.

After polishing the copper kettle rub it with olive oil. It makes a splendid polish.

Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will remove obstinate paint stains from clothing.

Beware of pulling very long bastING threads as you are apt to leave holes in the material. Rather cut them every few inches and pull short lengths.

Paint Pots

A few painting pointers might come in handy just at this time when we are doing some summer renovating.

A pail of water in a freshly painted room will help to remove the odor.

Paint brushes can be cleaned by washing them in hot soda and soft soap.

Half a glass of ammonia in two quarts of water will remove stains from white paint previous to painting.

A light coat of varnish, applied every few months, will lengthen the life of linoleum and preserves the design.

A coat of clear shellac over the seats of rush-bottom chairs will greatly prolong their lives and keep the reed from splitting.

The Child's Bookcase

An inexpensive bookcase is a necessary touch for the child's bedroom or playroom. It will interest him in reading and in the care of books. Insist upon his returning the books to their proper places after having been reading and you have also instilled orderliness in him.

Stains That Have Aged

Old blood stains may be removed by using iodide of potassium diluted with four times its weight in water.

FILM GROUP UNIONIZING REPORTED

Laboratory Employees of Studios and Independent Companies Involved

Culmination of secret efforts to unionize employees of the film laboratories of the larger motion picture studios and the independent commercial laboratories was announced last night by officials of the Independent Association of Theater and Stage Employees who asserted that 80 per cent of the employees, both men and women, have signed applications for membership in the union.

Dan Farmer, an executive of the union, said yesterday that William Bilz, who will head the new group, is in New York to obtain a charter from the American Federation of Labor and that formal announcement of the organization, to be known as the Laboratory Workers' Union, will be made within a week. He said that David Lory and Charles Rogerson, organizers for the new union, have been able to obtain a large membership in the studios and commercial laboratories, and that the deadline for "action will come within a few weeks."

Headquarters for the union is at 8111 Santa Monica Boulevard.

A number of the new members of the tentative union said that the union organizers have promised them the following scale: Operators of printing machines, $50 weekly; patchers, $35; $50 to $100 for cutters and $65 for developers, as against a present scale in the commercial laboratories of: Printing machine operators $38, patchers $23, cutters $35, and for developers approximately $36. The latter scale is said to be only for the commercial laboratories.

One result of union control will be the restriction of one worker to one job, with the result that a girl who might operate an automatic printing machine for two hours a day would not be allowed to do other work in the laboratory such as splicing, cutting or wrapping.

Yacht Ordered by Barrymore

Planning extended voyages to the South Seas and other far-off waters, John Barrymore, stage and screen actor, yesterday placed his order for a 120-foot steel power cruiser with a cruising radius of more than 5000 miles. He awarded the contract to the Craig Shipbuilding Company of Long Beach.

According to Barrymore's announcement yesterday at Warner Brothers' studio, the cruiser is to be powered by two 275-horsepower Diesel engines, was designed by E. L. Geary of Seattle and is expected to have a speed of thirteen knots. It will take six months to build.

It is especially designed for long fishing trips. Barrymore already owns the Mariner, twice winner of the trans-Pacific race to Honolulu and in which he cruised the South Seas last fall on his honeymoon with his bride, Dolores Costello.

Venice Seeks Wider Street

The Councilman from the Eleventh District yesterday introduced a resolution requesting that the City Attorney be instructed to prepare the final ordinance for the widening of Second avenue, Venice, between the Santa Monica boundary and Rose avenue.

The resolution also calls for the County Affairs Committee, of which Councilman Davis is chairman, to attempt the obtaining of an allocation of county funds from the Board of Supervisors.

EDISON CONCERN LISTS DEMANDS

City Hears of Terms if It Takes Over Property

Business in Annexed Areas "More Than Physical"

Rail Board Engineer Fixes Value at $1,227,975

If the city of Los Angeles desires to take over the business of supplying electric power to consumers in annexed territories now being served by the Southern California Edison Company, it should be required to pay a sum to the latter that not only will cover the physical valuation of the properties involved but the value of the going business that is a part thereof. This will be the attitude of Edison company attorneys when they have their inning at the hearing before State Railroad Commissioner Seavey, which was resumed here yesterday.

The day was given over, for the most part, to the hearing of testimony by Railroad Commission witnesses. P. E. Defour, the commission's valuation engineer, the first to take the stand, told the commissioner that $1,227,975 is a fair valuation for the physical properties sought by the city.

Other witnesses, including L. E. Torrey, John Pringle and M. W. Boright, testified along similar lines. The properties involved are located in Venice, Green Meadows, Mar Vista, Barnes City, Tuna Canyon and other areas annexed by Los Angeles during the past few years.

The case of the city was outlined at the hearing by Deputy City Attorney Warren, who explained that, since Los Angeles took over operation of Edison company properties within the city in 1922, additional areas have been annexed and the city desires now to serve Edison power consumers in these territories.

Although not ready, he said, to fix a definite figure at which the commission should arrive in its final determination of the question, B. F. Woodard, assistant general counsel for the Edison company, declared yesterday that the commission valuation expert's figure is entirely too low and will be opposed.

It was indicated that no witnesses for the company will take the stand until a later date, but that efforts will be made before the case is submitted to show that the properties desired by the city not only have a physical valuation but that there is a very important question of valuation on the actual business of the company in the territories involved. The company will contend, Attorney Woodard explained, that in congested districts, where business is heavy, the question of business valuation is as important if not more so than the question of a correct valuation of physical assets.

At the conclusion of yesterday's testimony, Commissioner Seavey continued the hearing until September 5.

TEN TINY SPORT PLANES ARRIVE HERE BY RAILWAY

Two railway carloads of novel sport monoplanes drew in on a specially constructed siding of the Southern Pacific at Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport yesterday morning and at dusk had been assembled and were buzzing around over Los Angeles.

The ten new planes are light German-type gliders with small forty-horsepower French Salmson motors on their noses. They are capable of ninety-five miles an hour, but land at less than thirty miles an hour.

Yesterday's shipment, valued at $37,500, is the first that Southern California has received by rail directly to an airport, and their speedy assembly by mechanics on the siding platform set a one-day record.

It took less than an hour for each plane to have its undercarriage attached, its wings fitted on and control wires hooked up.

Pilots at Metropolitan had novel experiences in piloting the little ships, flying along beside automobiles and talking to the drivers and landing at slower speeds than an average automobile can make in second gear.

The planes originally were designed as gliders and float along on a head wind with little or no motor power. They have been named Aeromarine Klemms, and were shipped to Roger J. Manning, distributor for the United States west of Kansas City, Mo., in Canada west of Winnipeg, and all of Mexico.

Two of the Klemms were ferried here from New York last week by Capt. O. C. Le Boutillier, last of the sky-writers, and E. N. Unruh, both of New York.

They flew the planes across country to demonstrate their air worthiness as well as ease of control and motor reliability.

Malone Plans Fight to Keep Place on Board

A. C. Malone, chairman of the County Civil Service Commission, whose resignation was asked by the County Board of Supervisors following a closed session on Monday, last night announced he will not give up his post.

"There are a number of matters in the Civil Service Commission which require my attention before I step out," said Malone. He declined to go into detail as to his plans for meeting the request for his resignation, although Supervisor Wright declared Monday that if the resignation was not forthcoming "charges would be preferred against him."

A resolution, passed on the motion of Supervisor Beaty, asked Malone to relinquish his post, after Supervisor Wright had declared that the head of the Civil Service Commission "entirely had disrupted the harmonious relations of the commission and has prevented its efficient operation."

Beach Bather's Body Recovered

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 20.—Life guards today recovered the body of William Schlah of Los Angeles, who was drowned here Friday. Schlah picnicked on the beach Friday with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Darling of Santa Monica, and other friends. When the others left, he remained for a swim. That night his car was found near the Gables Club.

His body was found floating opposite the Sea Breeze Beach Club today, and was taken to the Todd & Leslie undertaking establishment.

WOMAN DIES AFTER BEING STRUCK BY CAR

Fatally injured by an automobile last night, Mrs. Sadie Butler, colored, 52 years of age, of 1554 East Twenty-first street, died on arrival at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. She was struck down while crossing Compton avenue at Twenty-second street. Police arrested Julius Alexander, 27, of 1154 East Tenth street, driver of the car, and booked him on charge of suspicion of manslaughter. Officers Ward and Walker of the Newton-street division, who arrested Alexander, reported that witnesses said he was driving at a high rate of speed when the car struck Mrs. Butler.

CONDUCTOR VICTIM OF HIT-RUN DRIVER

Struck by a hit-and-run driver last night, Frank J. Nims, 42 years of age, a Los Angeles Railway conductor, was injured critically. Nims had alighted from a U car of which he had charge, to change trolleys at the end of the run, Slauson and Central avenues. A passing automobile knocked him down, breaking his right arm and right leg. The driver dashed away without giving aid. Nims was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Kirkpatrick treated him and transferred him to Good Samaritan Hospital.

SALVADOR ARMY PILOT WILL STUDY

Lieut. Jacinto Bondanza Arrives for Two Years of Observation on Flying

Lieut. Jacinto Bondanza, one of the eight pilots of the army air force of Salvador, arrived at the port yesterday aboard the Panama Mail liner Ecuador. He comes here to study American methods of aviation.

He sailed for Los Angeles, said Lieut. Bondanza, because Southern California is regarded in Central America as the air capital of the United States. It is his plan to remain here for two years, to complete courses in modern military and commercial flying and to make surveys of American airports.

Lieut. Bondanza, still in his twenties, has been a flyer for ten years and has been decorated by his government for difficult cross-country flights. Economic development of Salvador depends upon the establishment of adequate commercial flying facilities, he said, because of poor highway and railway facilities through the jungle areas.

Former Circus Champion Wins Fight for Bail

Miss Alice Brahm, once known to circus followers as the world's champion bareback rider, yesterday won an eight months' fight for liberty under bond when Superior Judge W. T. Aggeler granted the motion of A. Brigham Rose, Miss Brahm's attorney, to release her under bond pending her appeal.

The woman came up for trial eight months ago accused of attempting to burn the residence of a neighbor in Culver City. At that time Miss Brahm pleaded guilty to the charge and asked for probation, but probation officers suggested that probation be denied because they said Miss Brahm would not tell them all the facts in the case and "apparently was shielding some one else."

Attorney Rose then was brought into the case and asked the court to set aside her plea and grant a rehearing, but this motion was denied. The case then was appealed and word now is being awaited from the higher courts as to its final disposition.

New Air Line Gives Schedule

Two round trips a day between San Diego and Los Angeles with Long Beach as an intermediate stop will be instituted next Saturday by four fast Lockheed-Vega monoplanes of Continental Air Express.

Harry Sperl, president of the air line, said a plane will leave the company's airdrome on Angelus Mesa Drive every morning and afternoon, land at Long Beach Municipal Airport twenty minutes after take-off time, and reach San Diego an hour out of Long Beach. The same fast schedules will be flown on northbound trips.

Institution of the line north will connect four of America's largest oil fields—Long Beach, Taft, Bakersfield and Coalinga. The local company also operates fast passenger transports between here and San Francisco.

VICTIM OF "PARALYSIS" RECOVERS SUDDENLY

Crying that he suddenly had lost the use of both arms last night, George Kowell, 38 years of age, of Redlands, was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital after creating excitement at Fifth and Main streets. He told Police Surgeon Kirkpatrick he is a disabled World War veteran. The police surgeons stood Kowell on a table and put him through several tests indicating his arms were paralyzed. Then he was told to get down from the table. In doing so he lost his balance and promptly threw out his arms to steady himself. Smiling cheerfully, he departed, waving his hand to the surgeons and police. Dr. Kirkpatrick said that Kowell presented himself at the hospital a year ago asserting he was in the last stages of tuberculosis. He was sent to General Hospital and promptly discharged after a thorough examination.

CHURCH PLANS STATES' DAY

Annual States' day is to be observed next Sunday at Trinity Church, Flower and Twelfth streets, it was announced yesterday. The Federation of State Societies invited its various organizations to participate, adding that the officers of each State society will be on the platform. Services will commence at 11 a.m. The different State organizations will have their own sections in the audience and will be introduced. Col. F. M. Rublee, president of the federation, called for a record attendance next Sunday.

POLICEMAN EXERCISES PHOTOGRAPHIC MEMORY

Fellow-officers last night were calling Police Sergeant Eubanks "the man with a photographic memory."

Returning yesterday to his desk in the Georgia-street division at the end of a four weeks' vacation, he spent the moments of a lull, idly thumbing accumulated police bulletins. One bulletin is issued daily; so there were twenty-eight in the pile. One of them, dated the 12th inst., bore a picture of Robert Arnett, alias Robert Barnett, wanted on suspicion of burglary, and said by police to have a record of seven arrests since 1925. But Sergt. Eubanks was attracted no more by Arnett's picture than to any other in the twenty-eight bulletins.

Some hours later, the sergeant was standing at Pico and Figueroa streets, when he regarded as familiar the face of a man boarding an "E" street car. The officer followed and engaged the man in conversation.

"I've seen you somewhere before," he said in a friendly manner. "What's your name?"

"Arnett," said the "familiar" one.

A few minutes later, Arnett was being booked at Georgia-street station on suspicion of burglary.

Johnny, Mickey and "Dutch" Smith, a trio of L.A.A.C. diving stars, arrived in San Francisco yesterday for the men's national swimming championships which get under way tomorrow. Johnny has high hopes of equalling his brother's fine record in national competition.

John Metz, Memphis, Tenn., eliminated William Hascom, St. Louis, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3. Jack De Lara, Los Angeles, defeated J. C. Miller, Jr., Birmingham, Ala., 9-7, 6-3, 7-5. SARAH PALFREY STAR OF NATIONAL WOMEN'S PLAY

Youthful Net Ace Defeats British Veteran; Steals Limelight from Helen Wills at Forest Hills

BY TED VOSBURGH
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS (N. Y.) Aug. 20. (AP)—Winsome little Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., stole the spotlight away from the other feminine tennis stars on the courts of the West Side Stadium this afternoon.

Not even the straight-set victories of such famous international figures as Helen Wills, Helen Jacobs and Betty Nuthall could compare in popular approval with the dramatic match in which the smiling Sarah outplayed the British veteran, Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron, 8-10, 6-0, 6-4, to reach the third round of the national women's championship.

HELEN WILLS

Fairly earning her victory, Miss Palfrey scored no less than fifty placements in the three sets, while Mrs. Shepherd-Barron was tallying sixteen. From the base line she was steadier than the English woman with the weird "double wind-up" service, and at the net her volleying won point after point.

On the basis of her brilliant all-court play, the Brookline miss, who will not be 17 years of age until next month, is favored to defeat Mary Greef of Kansas City tomorrow and meet Helen Jacobs in the

Alhambra Four Wins Over Chicagoans to Gain Place in Semifinals

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Midwick Club of Alhambra, Cal., winner of the intercircuit title, today took a step toward the United States Polo Association's twelve-goal championship. The westerners went to the semifinals by decisively defeating the strong Onwentsea Club of Chicago, 12 to 5.

The Oak Brook-Du Page four became Chicago's hope by eliminating Fort Hoyle, Md., 10 to 7, in an uphill fight. Oak Brook scored four goals in the final chukker to break down the army outfit's lead and gain the decision.

SCHMELING WILL SAIL SATURDAY

German Heavy Books Passage for Journey Back to Homeland

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, whose victorious campaign in America has been clouded by almost continual controversies with boxing authorities, booked passage today on the liner Albert Ballin sailing for Germany Saturday.

Schmeling thus ended of his own accord for the time being his difficulties with the New York State Athletic Commission, which suspended him and his American manager, Joe Jacobs, and finally revoked their licenses, because of Schmeling's failure to go through with a match here against Phil Scott of England.

The sensational young Teuton, whose path to the vacant heavyweight throne was smoothed by decisive victory over Paulino Uzcudun, will be accompanied only by his trainer, Max Machon. He said he planned to return in September.

WALKER WON'T GIVE UP MIDDLEWEIGHT LAURELS

BY JACK FARRELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, has no intention of playing Good Samaritan to aspiring title contenders in his division by surrendering his title without a struggle. On the contrary, he not only intends to defend it at so much per fight, but he hopes to establish himself as the greatest fighter of modern times by knocking off all who dispute his claim to the world's light-heavyweight title, which Tommy Loughran must surrender, and all of the bigger fellows who are struggling for possession of the heavyweight berth formerly occupied by Gene Tunney.

"Walker is going to be champion of everything from the 160-pound class up," declared Manager Jack Kearns today while outlining his program. He is going to defend the middleweight title against Ace Hudkins in California a few months hence. And I guess he proved he can lick all of the 176-pounders by what he did to Lomski, so he is going to claim and defend Tommy's title just as soon as the latter gives it up."

Kearns said he thought a fight between Mickey and Schmeling would be just the thing to draw a big house, and that he would give a lot of attention to the first promoter who broached the subject.

Bobby Jones Arrives Today For Exhibition

KNEELING POSE COSTS VERDICT

Winsor's Battler Fails to "Hear" Referee Count

Boxer Jumps to Feet Too Late in Olympic Bout

Deaf Mute is Worn Down by Gorilla's Body Blows

BY PAUL LOWRY

It's too bad Windy Winsor's airplane drop to restore Dummy Mahan's hearing was unsuccessful. Otherwise the cash customers at the Olympic last night might not have gone home with the feeling there was something queer in Denmark.

DUMMY MAHAN

For Mahan, kneeling on the floor in the sixth round, was counted out apparently because of confusion over Referee Billy Burke's toll and Gorilla Jones of Ohio was awarded a "knockout."

Immediately after the fatal "ten" left Burke's mouth, the deaf mute jumped to his feet ready to continue the fight.

He had slipped to the floor from a weak punch to the side—not a finishing punch, but one that added to the pounding he received in previous rounds found him ready for a respite.

It was not a wallop that compared in any way with the heavy socks to face and body Mahan took in the fifth round, but it was the one that wound up the fight, and that is what counts in the record books.

ADVANTAGE IN REACH

Although the boys entered the ring within a pound of each other in weight, Jones scaling 148 to Mahan's 147, the Ohio black boy had a tremendous advantage in reach.

This made it hard for the Dummy to get at his foe, and the only way he could score was by long-wing shots to the head.

In the meantime, Jones was piling up a husky margin with heavy clouts to the side, and in the fourth and fifth ripped home sharp, hard smashes to the head.

However, unless the black boy from the Middle West has something else in his repertoire than he displayed last night there is no reason for Jackie Fields, the new welter king, to lose any sleep over an engagement with the visiting Ethiopian.

In fact, Mr. Jimmy Dougherty, who has a welterweight southpaw named Billy Angelo, said he would

DOEG BEATEN BY DE RICOU

Oxford Net Star Defeats Stanford Veteran

NEWPORT (R. I.) Aug. 20. (AP)—Shortly after being introduced to each other today, Philip Neer of Portland, Or., and young Bruce Barnes of Austin, Tex., stepped out on the historic Newport Casino tennis courts and overwhelmed Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison who became the world's champion doubles team by defeating Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra in the recent Davis Cup play with France. The scores were 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

JOHNNY DOEG

Van Ryn and Allison were playing their first doubles match since they left Paris and, despite the fact that they spent most of last week practicing on the Longwood courts in Brookline, Mass., they appeared under-tensioned.

The defeat of Van Ryn and Allison was the gravest upset of the tournament, which opened yesterday. Before being named as the American Davis Cup

AMATEUR KING IN FIRST VISIT

Plans to See Southland on Four-Day Stopover

Chick Evans Due Friday for Los Angeles Match

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

Bobby Jones arrives in town today!

And who doesn't know Bobby?—the 27-year-old Atlanta attorney, who has whipped the world's finest golfers on both sides of the Atlantic.

BOBBY JONES

Making his first trip to the Pacific Coast in defense of the United States amateur golf championship, which will be played over Pebble Beach the week of September 2 to 7, Bobby arives here today at 2:15 via the Santa Fe.

They say there are approximately 15,000,000 people playing golf in America, but Bobby will likely think there are that many golf bugs here in Los Angeles when he honors Southern California by playing his first exhibition match in the West over the north course of the Los Angeles Country Club Saturday afternoon.

Every golfer who can beg, borrow, or steal the price of admission will from all indications be on hand to see Bobby "smack 'em out" in his match with Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, former national open and amateur champion; George Von Elm of Los Angeles and Detroit, former national amateur titleholder; and Jack Neville, California State champion of Pebble Beach.

EVANS DUE FRIDAY

Evans, who holds a record Bobby may equal at Pebble Beach—that of having won the national open and amateur in the same year, is due

Nick Lutze Faces Joe Stecher in Elimination Tourney Mat Battle Tonight

HEAVYWEIGHTS MATCH HOLDS

Young Star May Surprise Former Champion

Daro Presents Second of Titular Series

Kruse Gets Another Chance to Prove Worth

TONIGHT'S MAT BOUTS

Joe Stecher vs. Nick Lutze, best two out of three falls to a finish.

Bob Kruse vs. George McCleod, one fall, forty-five-minute time limit.

Ivan Linow vs. Joe Wingo, one fall, thirty-minute time limit.

BY RALPH HUSTON

Stronger, more vigorous, more active and more colorful than at any previous time in his career, Nick Lutze tackles Joe Stecher in the feature bout of Lou Daro's Olympic wrestling program tonight, in the second match of the heavyweight elimination tournament. Lutze scored the most surprising victory of his career two weeks ago, when he tossed Joe Malcewicz on his head, to win two out of three falls, and a crack at Stecher.

NICK LUTZE.

With the winner of tonight's feature well on the way to a chance at Ora Sonnenberg and the heavyweight crown, the affair carries every prospect of being one of the best of the year. They are not new rivals, as Stecher successfully defended his crown against Lutze some time ago. But not without a battle, which is the reason local mat fans are predicting a sensational struggle tonight.

SPRANG SURPRISE

Lutze was the underdog two weeks ago when he won from Malcewicz. In that match he showed no fear of the slippery Utica Panther, and displaying superb condition, outlasted and outgrappled his rival to win the match. In working out for Stecher, Lutze has shown that same excellent form, and although he can't be rated a favorite tonight, the fans won't fall over in the aisles if he wins.

As against Malcewicz, there will be no caution, or fear in Lutze's make-up when he steps into the ring tonight. When he and Stecher wrestled before, Lutze broke his rival's deadly body scissors five straight times—something that has never been done before or since. He has perfected a combination leg lock-knife scissor and split hold to use on Stecher's underpinning so that he won't be able to use his body scissors at its best. With his opponent once weakened, Lutze experts little difficulty in getting his overhead slam to working, and if he does, he'll win. Nobody has discovered anything yet to halt the effects of the terrific mauling Lutze presents to his opponents.

Fans are likely to see a rejuvenated Stecher in action tonight. In his campaign for a chance at Sonnenberg, Stecher went into hiding in Nebraska, and returned with the dashing, aggressive style that he used in the early days of his career. It makes him about 20 per cent more colorful, and at least 20 more effective, according to the mat experts, which ought to make him just about twice as good as he was on his last appearances here. He has been in active training for the past eight months, and those who have watched him claim the former champion is not only unbeatable at this time, but will wind up beating Sonnenberg for the crown.

The ultimate winner of Daro's elimination festivities is practically certain to meet Sonnenberg here early next month. No date has been set, but Daro is in constant communication with the title-holder's manager, and is exuding confidence over the title prospects.

Billy Sandow, manager of Strangler Ed Lewis, whom Sonnenberg beat for the title, will be on hand tonight, as one of the more interested spectators. Lewis wants a chance in the elimination tournament, and if Sandow thinks his charge can meet tonight's winner, he is likely to put up a vigorous demand that Lewis be admitted to the series.

FAST PRELIMS

Tonight's preliminaries promise additional excitement of the major sort. Bob Kruse, the youngster who won his match in such impressive fashion, last week, hooks up with a talented rival in the one-fall, forty-five-minute time-limit affair, with George McCleod. The latter is rated on a par with Dick Daviscourt, which insures Kruse of plenty of competition. The opener, one fall, thirty-minute time limit features Ivan Linow, the "Colosal Cossack," at 240 pounds, and Joe Wingo, 228-pound Oklahoman.

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWDY

THE FOOTBALL MILEAGE SITUATION

SOME of the football statisticians are beginning to worry about the terrific dent that is going to be made in all past records for football mileage this season.

They point out that Notre Dame, while building a new stadium at South Bend, Ind., is going to play nine games away from home.

That California is journeying east to play Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

That Southern California meets Notre Dame in Chicago.

That Army comes west to tackle Stanford.

That somebody from the East or Middle West or South will play a western team at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Mr. Grantland Rice, one of the eastern experts, even remarks that Army "comes close to playing the hardest schedule in football this fall with Illinois, Notre Dame and Stanford to tackle."

I wonder what he thinks of the Southern California schedule with Stanford and California to play on successive Saturdays and with three tough games—Stanford, Washington and Notre Dame—all away from home.

For this trio of foreign games the Trojans will travel approximately 7500 miles.

If Army's schedule is tougher than this one somebody is cross-eyed.

THE CASE OF BRICK MULLER

MR. DICK HYLAND, who used to play a bit of football for Stanford, has been evincing some agitation over the length of Mr. Harold (Brick) Muller's famous heave in the California-Ohio State game of January 1, 1921.

Mr. Parke Davis has it listed in the record books as a 70-yard affair.

Speaking from a large fund of football experience Mr. Hyland says under the conditions such a throw is ridiculous, and he has even dug into the musty records to prove his point.

This is a matter that also has annoyed the conductor of this column for a number of years.

Mr. Muller was a very remarkable player and quite capable of making such a throw, but the circumstances of the game did not warrant such an act.

As Mr. Hyland points out, after delving into the records, the play which produced the former Bear star's heave started on the Ohio State 38-yard line.

In order to heave the ball seventy yards it would have been necessary for Muller to run back thirty-two yards from his line of scrimmage before dispatching the oval to Brodie Stephens on the goal line.

California tried the same play in the Rose Bowl game against Georgia Tech this year, but it failed to work because the Bears did not have another Stephens.

Phillips was the Brick Muller of the heave, switching ends with Avery just before the play started. The play develops slowly as far as the heaver is concerned with the receiver streaking down the field.

Phillips, after receiving the ball, ran about fifteen yards back of his scrimmage line before turning and making the throw. Breakenridge tripped on his cleats or California might have scored on the play.

The set-up for the play is a point near the right side lines. The throw is diagonal—to the left of the goal posts.

That's where I believe the Muller enthusiasts have made their mistake.

And that is not the way you figure football forward passes.

ANDERSON AND HUDKINS AGAIN

I DON'T know what all the shooting was about in this proposed Hudkins-Forgione and Anderson-Forgione mix-up.

But I do know that the Olympic came out of the deal with the bout it should have been after in the first place—a Hudkins-Anderson rematch.

When Anderson beat Hudkins last October a rematch at the time would have put a huge crowd into the ball park.

The Wildcat and his brothers were all mad enough at Anderson for winning the decision to have annihilated the Covington (Ky.) middleweight.

For some reason or other the match was permitted to cool, but it is back on the cards again and at a time when fistic excitement is surging high.

The Olympic wasn't big enough to hold the crowd last time the boys fought, and it is unlikely there will be any vacancies this time. In the middleweight division it should be the best fight of the year.

HERMOSA SWIM TONIGHT

Dodie Blewett Heads List of Fair Mermaids in Annual Rough-Water Event

Fourteen mermaids of the Pacific Ocean will compete tonight in the annual rough water swim classic to be held over a highly illuminated two-mile course at Hermosa Beach, starting at 8 o'clock. The swim will be an all-feminine affair, the starter being the lady Mayor of Redondo Beach, Mae B. Hopkins.

The course will be brilliantly lighted by searchlights from a fleet of Coast Guard cutters, individual convoys and a battery of searchlights on the shore end of the Hermosa Beach pier, thus adequately safeguarding the contestants. The race is scheduled to start from the Olympic fishing barge at 8 o'clock, and will finish on the north side of the Hermosa Beach pier, within the fence-inclosed section of the beach.

Following the race, a pajama parade will be held on the beach, and music will be furnished by a municipal band. The entire beach will be illuminated for night bathing from 8 o'clock until midnight. The race will be the first to be held under A.A.U. jurisdiction and Les Henry and other A.A.U. officials are expected to attend.

The fourteen widely known women swimmers who will compete in the race are as follows: Dodie Blewett, who won last year's race; Olga O'Byrne, representing San Clemente; Hilda Curtis, Lilly Mae Kelsey, Marie Moore, Florence Chadwick, Genevieve Scully, Florence Chambers, Norene Forbes, Arlein Schiroli, representing the Florence Chambers Swimming Club of San Diego; Miss Wallace and Miss Moore.

The race is expected to take about two hours, and is an annual event for the Hermosa Cup.

YELLOWTAIL SIGHTED OFF SANTA MONICA

Capt. Max Watt at the Santa Monica municipal pier is back from a scout cruise on the ship Lois of the outside waters of the Bay City and reports that the water was found too choppy for observations. No broadbill swordfish were sighted and no tuna, but numbers of yellowtail were seen.

However, Capt. Watt did say that fishing for barracuda, bass and halibut continues good from the live-bait boats and from the barge Billings. The ships Kikuma and Freedom have been returning from their daily trips with some exceptionally large catches of barracuda.

WESTERN OPEN STARTS TODAY

Abe Espinosa Leads Large Field of Golfers

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Aug. 20. (AP) The western open golf championship, a tournament that has grown and then dwindled in importance as a classic since 1899, comes back again tomorrow with the largest field in the history striving to win the crown now held by Abe Espinosa, the golfing toreador from Chicago.

Two hundred and seventy-eight wielders of the wood and iron from seventeen States and Mexico, including a dozen or more shot makers who rank as perennial threats to every major golfing title, are entered in the championship struggle which will be decided over 72 holes of medal play on the Ozaukee Country Club course.

So large is the field that tomorrow and Thursday will be used for the initial 18-hole qualifying round. The low 150 and ties from the first round will play 18 additional holes Friday and the low sixty-four and ties at the end of those first rounds will settle the title dispute between themselves in a 36-hole final Saturday.

Because of the fast field, which includes three former national open champions and past and present holders of other important titles, Abe Espinosa will have the experience of defending his championship with faint hopes. Some of the "big shots" of golfdom who are fighting against him are Tommy Armour, former national open champion from Orchard Lake, Mich., Gene Sarazen of Flushing, L. I., another famous national open king and one of the most brilliant players on the links; Jock Hutchison of Chicago, a former British open title-holder, who appears to be back on his game after a few years lapse; Horton Smith, the sensational blond sharpshooter from Joplin, Mo., whose last victory was in the French open; "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, the in and outer from New York; Al Espinosa, who was defeated by Bobby Jones in the play-off for the national open crown; Emmet T. French, Youngstown, O.; Leonard Schmutte, Lima, O.; Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa.; Al Watrous, Detroit; Bobby Cruickshank, former national open champion; Lester Bolstad, Minneapolis, former national public links champion; Henry Ouel, the little Italian from Stratford, Conn.; Densmore Shute, Canton, O.; Harry Hampton of Chicago and others well known in the golfing firmament. George Carney of Tampico is Mexico's representative.

Friday. He will be the guest of Everett H. Seaver, former president of the Southern California Golf Association. Von Elm and Neville arrive tomorrow.

While in Southern California Bobby plans to see all he can of the country and, accordingly, has refused all invitations. Outside of attending the newspaper men's banquet at the Biltmore Friday evening and his match Saturday, the national amateur champion has expressed a desire to be freed of all public functions.

Bobby will arrive at state this afternoon in his own private car and surrounded by his personal friends. Included in the party are his wife, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Black, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Hurt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Keeler and Mr. and Mrs. Don Abbott.

The party will leave for Pebble Beach on Sunday, stopping at points of interest on the way.

DUCATS AT GATE

Officials of the Los Angeles Country Club announced yesterday that there will be no ticket sale, but that pasteboards must be obtained at the gate for the match Saturday. The eighteen-hole match will start at 2 o'clock, and the gate will be opened at 1.

The price of admission will be $5 per each, the entire gate going to the benefit of the Children's Hospital.

EDDIE CLECKNER RETURNS

Eddie Cleckner, genial manager of the Angelus Bowling Academy, is back from an extended fishing and camping trip in California and Oregon. He reported that he did considerable trout fishing while in Oregon and had good luck. Since his return he has ordered a complete resurfacing of the alleys at the academy.

Mill Valley Wins Crown

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Mill Valley (Cal.) boys' baseball team won the right to represent the southwestern region in the American Legion western play-off at Colorado Springs, by drubbing the McGill (Nev.) team here this afternoon. The score at the end of the eighth inning, when the game was called, was 23-to-0, in favor of the Californians.

BOSTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Buffalo's entry in the American Legion eastern junior baseball tournament, eliminated Uniontown, Pa., today, before an audience which included President Hoover, by a 15-to-6 score.

HUDKINS IN TRAINING AT WHEELER SPRINGS

VENTURA, Aug. 20.—Ace Hudkins is at Wheeler's Hot Springs going through preliminary work before starting the heavy training grind for his coming fight at the Olympic on September 10 with Joe Anderson, the Covington (Ky.) terror, who defeated Ace at the Olympic nearly a year ago.

Hudkins does some eighteen or twenty miles of the hill-climbing stuff each day and will continue the light work for one week, after which he will return to Los Angeles and dive into training in earnest.

DRIVERS BLOCK MEL KENEALY

Speed Demons Out to Check Advance of Leader

Determined to stop the victorious streak of the sensational Mel Kenealy and prevent the crafty Irish pilot from gaining a stranglehold on the A.A.A. dirt track championship of the Southwest for 1929, more than twenty other speed kings will have their mounts in fast shape for tomorrow night's program of races at the American Legion Speedway.

Kenealy in his roaring Simplex special won the last two main event prizes here and he has captured so many first places this season that most pilots are of the opinion that he must be stopped tomorrow night or he will be so far ahead in the race for the 1929 title that it will be almost impossible to catch him.

Walt May, driver of the Multiford special and touted as Kenealy's closest rival, has mapped out a plan of beating the Irishman on the curves. It is May's contention that he can out-jockey Mel on the dangerous bends and this part of the course is expected to see the most action tomorrow night.

Others will be contenders for the Pat Harmon trophy which goes to the victor in the thirty-lap main event, are Ernie Triplett, Nick Martino, Charley Gelston, Jimmy Sharp, and Art Boyce.

TULSA GETS DONDERO

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20. (AP)—Infielder Leonard Dondero of the St. Louis Browns has been sent to the Tulsa team of the Western League on an option. He will play third base for the Oilers.

Bresee Will Coach Romans

Horace Bresee, former star athlete at the University of California at Los Angeles, will coach the football eleven of the Los Angeles High School this fall, it was announced yesterday by Dave Ridderhof, retiring Roman coach. Ridderhof resigned after four years of coaching at L. A. High to take a better position as head of the athletic department at George Washington High School. Bresee was a stellar performer in both football and basketball at the Bruin institution. He was an end on the grid team, and an all-Southern Conference guard in basketball, captaining the cage team in his last year. Last year he coached the Roman lightweight eleven to its third straight City League championship.

ANGELS SCORE MOST

Los Angeles and San Francisco and Hollywood scored almost identically the same number of runs in the first twenty-one weeks of the Coast League season. The Angels tallied 896 times in 149 games. The Seals scored 895 times in 148 games. The Stars counted 891 times in 151 contests. The total runs scored by the eight teams was 6385. As there were 595 games played in the circuit the average would be 10.73 runs scored in every game.

SUHR LEADS LEAGUE

Gus Suhr, the home run king of the Coast League, has hit for a total of 388 bases in twenty-one weeks, to lead all players in total bases. Suhr has collected 126 singles, 48 doubles, 6 triples and 37 home runs. Suhr has made 14 less safe hits than Smead Jolley, but in total bases leads the batting king by 39. His 17 extra home runs swelled the total-base column considerably.

SOX SOCKED

CHICAGO, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Yankees took the edge in the series with the White Sox todya, winning the third game, 5 to 4, to give Tom Zachary his ninth straight victory of the season. Zachary was relieved in the seventh by Wilcey Moore, who kept the Yank lead intact.

Red Faber, veteran of sixteen seasons with the White Sox, was feted by the 18,000 fans who turned out to honor the veteran on "his day." Faber could not squelch the heavy Yankee attack, but pitched a steady game throughout. He was showered with gifts and presented with a check for $2700 before the game.

DUCKS POUND MAILS TO WIN GAME, 5-1

PORTLAND, Aug. 20. (AP)—Concentrating a ferocious one-inning attack on Walter Mails, the Portland Ducks won the first game of the series from San Francisco, 5 to 1. Some loose fielding by Smead Jolley contributed to the Seals' defeat.

Fullerton, pitching great baseball, held the visitors to three scattered hits, one of them being a homer by Jolley. The Portland hurler added to his laurels by making two hits in the same number of trips to the plate.

All of the Ducks' scoring was done in the fifth. They did not come close to the plate in any other inning. Score:

OAKS CONQUER STARS, 8 TO 6

Johns Routed by Acorns in Fatal Seventh

Sheiks Blow Early Lead and Drop Contest

second inning after two were out.

Heath was on first base as the result of a walk when Burkett hit a lucky single which struck the third bag and bounced into left field for a safe hit.

Mr. Johns then strode to the plate and shot a slow liner to center, which Carlyle got on the pick-up. Heath scored on the swat and Burkett stopped at second.

Lee's smash to right was partially stopped by Brubaker, who leaped high into the air to tick it with his finger tips, Burkett coming home with the second run and Johns going to third.

Rollings ended the excitement by striking out, being thrown out at first when Lombardi missed the ball.

The Oaks got two hits in the first half of the third, but were unable to convert them into runs. With Edwards and Schino on the bags Brubaker flew out to Funk and Verges was thrown out at first by Johns.

SCORE AGAIN

The Stars got two more runs right off the reel in the second half of the inning. Funk singled off Edwards's glove for a single and Rumler lifted the pill over the left-field barrier. Heath then walked and Green singled him to third, but neither Burkett nor Johns could aid the cause, and Vitt's boys had to be satisfied with two markers.

Two singles in the fifth availed the Oaks nothing when, with men on first and second, Johns tossed out the hard-hitting Mr. Verges at first on a slow roller down the pitchers lane.

Another pair of bingles in the sixth again went for naught when Carlyle fell the victim of fast footwork by Funk, the Stars' center fielder, who caught his man at second on a sharp hit to the fence, and Lombardi flied to center after Penton had singled to left. Buzz Arlett opened the inning, but the Oaks' league-leading walloper was an easy out, Lee to Heath.

After all their nibbling of previous innings the Oaks appeared due, and they fell on Mr. Johns with much gusto and considerable cruelty in the seventh.

Before the orgy was over the Oaks had slammed out seven hits and scored as many runs. Of this total Johns was responsible for six hits and five runs before he was derricked with only one man down.

Hulvey, who relieved him, allowed two more runs to score before striking out Dean and Edwards, the tenth and eleventh batters of the inning, respectively, to end the orgy.

Here's the chronological run of the catastrophe:

Dean doubled to right center. Edwards hung up his third straight hit with another single to right. Dean hugged third, but came home a moment later with the first Oak run on a sacrifice fly to center. Brubaker sent Edwards to third with a double and Verges scored Edwards and Brubaker with a single between short and third.

ARLETT HOMES

Runs four and five came in when Arlett lifted the ball over the left-field wall, scoring himself and Verges. Penton hit a hopper over Heath's head and Johns was lifted in favor of Hulvey.

Hulvey walked Penton and let Lombardi double Carlyle and Penton home, but then proceeded to get down to business and struck out Dean and Edwards.

The Stars got two of these runs back in their half of the eighth. Green, the first man up, singled sharply to left center, and Burkett promptly smacked a humpbacked liner over the left-field fence. Albert, who hit for Hulvey, flew out to short, but Lee walked on four wide ones. Rollings, the young man who was biffed on the forehead with a pitched ball in the first inning, hit a fly to right field and was out, but Funk hopped a grounder over first for a single, sending Lee to third.

With the stage all set for a possible tie Rumler hit a bounder to Dean on which Funk was tossed out at second for the third out.

Walter Kimmey, who relieved Lorentzen after the latter had clogged the bases on two walks and an error with nobody down, got the Stars out of the hole in the ninth with only one run. He made Lombardi pop out to Lee and Dean to Severeid, but forced Arlett across the plate by walking Craghead. Schino forced Craghead at second on a grounder to Lee.

The Stars could do nothing in their half. Severeid went out, Dean to Fenton. Heath fanned. Green walked, and Shellenback went in to hit for Burkett, but whiffed. Score:

ACE-ANDERSON WINNER MAY GET FORGIONE GO

There is a big shot awaiting Vincent Forgione, Philadelphia Italian middleweight if he wins from Everett Strong Friday night at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium. The winner of the Hudkins-Anderson fight will be a natural with Forgione who has about run out of opponents around Southern California.

A fight with Ace Hudkins has been in the making for weeks, but Ace can't make up his mind to sign a contract. The Hudkins boys claim that Ace had rather fight in Los Angeles than New York if he could get attractive opponents. With Forgione as an opponent Ace would draw a fat purse.

Sid Torres, the Filipino bantamweight, is a favorite to beat Harold Matthews in the semi-wind-up. Torres rates only second to Speedy Dado among the Filipino fighters. Matthews is a strong little battler, but not so good on the trigger as Torres and better in a long fight than a six-round affair.

Jackie Fields is boosting Al Izoz, Chicago welterweight, who worked with him for his fights in Chicago. Izoz came west with Willie Rooney, who expects to make a main eventer out of the Chicago boy after a few starts in the preliminaries. Izoz is favorite to beat Matt Codan in the special.

BOXERS BATTLE FOR CRACK AT BROWN

Fighting for a chance at Newsboy Brown, Midget Mike Dundee of Brooklyn and Ernie Hood of Pasadena, will clash in the ten-round main event at Pasadena Arena tomorrow night. It is Dundee's coast debut.

Hood, in particular, would like to get another crack at Brown for the Newsboy took a decision over Ernie in the last Hood hometown appearance. However, that was because the fight was stopped with Hood bleeding badly from a cut eye. Hood's supporters claimed he was just getting started when the bout was stopped. The eye is entirely healed now and Ernie wants another shot at Brown.

Gaines Wins Qualifying Honors in Spreckels Cup Tourney

BETTERS PAR FOR FINAL TRY

Has Five Stroke Lead On Youthful Rival

Ward Edmonds Wobbles but Finishes Second

Angelenos Find Trouble in Tricky Fairways

CORONADO, Aug. 20.—Jack Gaines of the Girard Country Club today found the rough, tricky greens of the Coronado Country Club course much to his liking and he raced away with qualifying honor in the A. B. Spreckels trophy tournament, scoring a 72-71—143, one less than par for thirty-six holes.

Last year Gaines won this tournament, defeating E. S. Armstrong of Midwick in a sensational finals match. This year he has set his heart on repeating his victory of a year ago and today with the qualifying round out of the way he was off to a good start.

His nearest opponent, Ward Edmonds, Stanford University athlete, today shot a 76, which, with his 72 yesterday, gave him a total of 148. Edmonds electrified the gallery at the 440-yard eighth hole when he sank his second shot, played from a trap, for an eagle 2.

The Southern California amateur champion, Gibson Dunlap of Riviera, finished yesterday to take a 75. He had a chance at a 70, with four or five holes to go, but blew the works, coming in. At that, his total score of 76-75—151 placed him third, two strokes in the lead of K. D. Harrison of San Angelo, Tex. Yesterday Harrison shot a brilliant 74, but today he seemed unable to get started and had to be satisfied with a 79.

Warner Edmonds, Ward's "kid brother," had a 79 today for a total score of 154 and tonight occupied an enviable position in the draw. Warner, Ward and "Speed" Martin, the former Cub star, are carrying the honors of San Diego in the tournament and all qualified well. Speed today had a 79 which with his 77 yesterday gave him a total qualifying score of 156.

The many Los Angeles youngsters who are playing through the Spreckels tournament today had their troubles in qualifying. Jack Mackey of the Los Angeles Country Club was driving well and was putting well. But he was missing his second shot with the result that he took two slips and a total score of 80. However, his 78 yesterday pulled him through and he qualified nicely.

Ralph Hutchinson of the California Country Club, was clear off his game, scoring an 80 yesterday and an 82 today. His putting was nervous and erratic and his drives were anywhere but down the middle. The Spreckels tournament this year drew an entry which included between twenty-five and thirty players of "3" handicap of less. With such a field the scoring should have been considerably lower than it actually was.

Match play in all flights will continue tomorrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20. (AP)—Sacramento's Senators opened the series here with the Missions with an 8-6 win today. A three-run rally in the ninth gave the Senators sufficient margin to nose out the locals, who made two counters in their half of the last frame. MOTH HELPS YACHT PIRATE WIN

Winged Mascot Given Credit for Eastern Triumph by Skipper Matt Walsh; Brings Back Luck Confined in Tin Can Also Model of Sloop Vanitie

A tiny moth, which paid a visit to the R-class sloop Pirate during the Larchmont regatta a month ago on the east coast, was given chief credit for the sloop beating the pick of the eastern R-class fleet by Matt Walsh, skipper of the Pirate, on his return from the East yesterday. The yacht, owned by Commodore O. K. Hunsaker, also arrived yesterday aboard the deck of a steamer and is back at the moorings of the California Yacht Club.

According to Matt, no yachtsman can win races unless he has a moth as a mascot. During the many years he has sailed races Skipper Walsh has found the moth his mainstay. It is something that gives him confidence. It works for a yachtsman like a "rabbit's foot" does the trick for a landsman.

"You know," he said, "when we lifted the San Francisco trophy for the first time on San Francisco Bay in 1923 with the R-class sloop California things did not look very good at first. The yachtsmen up there had all the breaks. They knew their waters. They knew their winds and they knew their committee. However, we started out for the series.

"As we were hoisting the sails for the first race a moth was observed to alight on the cabin of the boat. I grabbed it and stowed it below in a safe place, where it wouldn't get away. When I came up on deck I remarked: 'Boys, we're going to win.' They wanted to know how. I told 'em not to worry, that we had the thing cinched. Sure enough, we went out and trimmed the boats in the series and also lifted the San Francisco trophy."

Matt then told of the trip east and the outlook, with the Pirate facing the two best R-class creations of the Herreshoffs along with other famous boats. He said things did not look so good, but that he and his crew intended to go out and do their best.

"We got aboard the Pirate for the first day's races," said Matt, "and I remarked that there wasn't much chance unless we had a moth for a mascot. I unlocked the cabin hatchway cover and started to shove it back to go below to bring out the mainsail. Just then a moth fluttered along out from shore and lighted just two inches from my right hand. I reached for it and missed and then yelled for one of the boys to grab it. One of them did. I told him to hang on to it and put it below. Then I said: 'Boys, we have got this thing cinched. We have got a moth for a mascot and can't lose.'

Subsequent events proved that Skipper Walsh was right, but he failed to make mention of the part he had in it, which was about everything. He gave all the credit to the mascot, which arrived aboard the Pirate confined in a tin can. Life was extinct, however, and Matt has it stowed away in a safe place as a keepsake.

Walsh brought something else of interest back from the East with him. It is a large model of the famous big racing sloop Vanitie, which has been trimming the Resolute, which latter beat Lipton for the America's cup. Under her showing the Vanitie is considered the fastest thing under canvas in the world and Walsh possesses the only model in existence.

Back-Handed Golf Swing

BY SOL METZGER

About the easiest shot of all to execute for a lie against an obstacle that prohibits you taking a normal right-handed swing at the ball is the back-handed one here described. The nice thing about it is—anybody can play it.

Playing a round in Boston one day a member of our foresome hooked his tee shot right up against a tree. There was apparently no way to play the ball except with a left-handed swing with a niblick, toe down, the shot described yesterday.

But we were wrong. Our friend surprised us. He walked to his ball, saw the lie and then asked us to watch him get it on the green some 50 yards away. We chuckled quite a bit when he turned his back to the green and, taking his niblick in his right hand, took the stance here sketched. But we didn't laugh when he swung down and backward and laid his ball on the green. "It's easy," he said. "Try it." We did. All with excellent results.

It's about the most natural swing you can imagine and you'd be surprised at the accuracy and distance you obtain. There is another freak shot I want to tell about in tomorrow's article that everyone needs to know.

Add yardage and accuracy to your drive by writing Sol Metzger, care of The Times, for his free leaflet on "Driving." Inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

ican scores would be tied and a sail-off necessary.

Today's race was over a six and one-half-mile course, three and one-quarter miles of it a beat into a light southeasterly breeze which faded considerably as the boats ran home before it.

The American entry, Tipler, finished second today and the Kickerle third, the same order in which they came home yesterday.

Several puck-chasing stars from Canada will be on hand for the opening of the season at the Palais de Glace, October 1, according to Bert Clark, manager of the Hollywood rink. Clark has just returned from a trip to Winnipeg, where he accuted the pucksters in that section and signed several to compete in circuits here.

Barnes, playing in his first major tournament, seemed to thrive against the supposedly unbeatable opposition while Neer, who won the national intercollegiate title while attending Stanford back in 1921, displayed an exceptionally well-balanced style.

Big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter were barely able to nose out a victory in their thrilling extra-set match with Edward Jacobs of Baltimore, and Tamio Abe of Japan, 5-7, 6-3, 6-1.

Sixteen players, including all of the favorites except Johnny Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., were able to advance into the quarter-finals of the singles. Doeg received his first serious setback of the current season when he was defeated by Paul De Ricou, young French player, 6-3, 7-5, in a fourth-round match.

The draw in the lower half forces Hunter into a clash with H. W. "Bunny" Austin of England, the top-seeded foreigner, tomorrow morning and promised other battles involving such stars as Van Ryn, Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., Abe, George M. Lott, Jr., another Davis Cup player, and Berkeley Bell, the intercollegiate titleholder. At the request of the players the remainder of the singles play will be a best three sets out of five basis instead of the best two out of three which prevailed for four rounds.

TWO AQUATIC TEAMS ARRIVE

Philadelphia, for individual high point laurels. Spence will race in the 100-meters free-style medley and breast stroke.

Thursday's events will include three men's championships, the 100-meter free-style, one mile swim and spring board diving and two women's exhibitions, the 220-yard breast stroke and 440-yard free-style.

GUNTER HEADS NORTH TONIGHT

"Doc" Gunter, L.A.A.C. breaststroke swimmer, leaves tonight for San Francisco where he will join his Mercury team-mates for the men's national outdoor championships, scheduled to open tomorrow at the Fleishhacker pool.

Coach Fred Cady and his three star divers, Mickey and Johnny Riley and Dutch Smith went north Sunday. The divers open their competition tomorrow with the staging of the ten-foot springboard championship. The high platform event will be held Sunday, final day of the meet.

Morrison Egbert, club swimming commissioner, will fly north tomorrow morning, reaching San Francisco in time for the opening event. Georgia Coleman and Olive Hatch reached San Francisco yesterday from Honolulu and will remain for the meet. Miss Coleman, holder of three women's national diving titles, will give a series of exhibitions.

SEALS ON TOP

San Francisco leads all Coast League clubs in batting, in home runs and in two-base hits. The team has a batting mark of .317, has hit 138 home runs and 302 doubles. Los Angeles is second in home runs with 132. The Angels have driven out 291 doubles.

JUNIOR OLYMPIANS ENJOY TRIP

Young Champions See Molten Lava Pit After Being Feted Heavily in Honolulu; Local Lads to Compete in Athletic Meet With Islands Boys

BY BRAVEN DYER
By a "Times" Staff Representative

KILAUEA (Hawaii) Aug. 20. (Exclusive)—Mme. Pele, Hawaii's godess of fire, was host tonight to Vane Baker, Jerry Deal, Robert San Jose and Fernandos Ramos, the four Junior Olympic champions of America.

As the Southern California youngsters stood on the brink of Halemaumau, the great, ever-active volcano sent up a pyrotechnic display which kept the youngsters riveted to their observation points by its awe-inspiring grandeur. While the floor level of the gigantic pit of molten lava is hundreds of feet below the point where it puts on its greatest display, recent subterranean disturbances have started many whirlpools of fiery liquid and gas flames from the many "spatter cones" painted a picture under the full moon night that has impressed the Southland visitors more than any other feature of their tour of the Paradise of the Pacific.

Nothing has been missed by the boys on their grand prize tour which has been awarded them by the Los Angeles Times. Leaving Honolulu after a whirlwind program of sight-seeing, surfing at Waikiki and entertainments in their honor, the youths, chaperoned by the writer, sailed to the Island of Maui for a short stop before landing in Hilo early this morning. News of their athletic honors had gone on before them and they were welcomed to the big island by a group of Hawaiian athletes and leaders of civic organizations.

A railroad trip up the Hamakua Coast skirting the verdure-clad cliffs, which shoot down in a precipitous angle to the ocean, was the first visit on the program. The boys were then taken to Rainbow Falls, near Hilo, and from this point started on the thirty-two-mile drive to the Volcano House on the edge of Halemaumau. Gigantic fern forests were pored over, bird refuges were explored and the many grotesque formations left by lava flows from the fire pit were ransacked for perfect specimens of a-a and pahoehoe lava.

The boys leave Hilo tomorrow afternoon for Honolulu, where they will round out the remaining part of their entertainment program. An athletic meet has been arranged at Palama Settlement in Honolulu, where the Southern California youths will meet Hawaiian, Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese and American boys in competition.

The entire party is in wonderful spirits and all have drunk deep of the cup of Hawaiian hospitality, and when we sail for home Saturday morning there will be a pang of regret in leaving, especially with the Royal Hawaiian Band playing Aloha as the Lasco steamer City of Los Angeles slips her moorings.

SARAH PALFREY STARS AT NET

quarter-final round on Thursday. It was Miss Greef whom Miss Palfrey defeated in straight sets at Rye on Sunday in the final for the eastern turf court title.

Although forced somewhat into the background for perhaps the first time in her career as the gallery hailed a potential future champion, Helen Wills gave an impressive exhibition of hard hitting and accurate shooting in trimming Mrs. Charlotte Homer Chapin of Springfield, Mass., 6-1, 6-0. The defending champion has lost just one game in two matches. That she is even more formidable than last year is indicated by the fact that Mrs. Chapin took six games from her in the quarter-finals of the 1928 tournament.

Helen Jacobs, playing better than in her opening match yesterday, speedily eliminated Eleanor Goss of New York, 6-0, 6-4, and Betty Nuthall, the principal English threat, accounted for Gertrude Dwyer of New York, 6-3, 6-1. Except for a victory by Mrs. Lillian Scharman Hester, Glencove, N. Y., over Clara Zinke, Cincinnati, 3-6, 10-8, 7-5, the second-round matches carried but few surprises. One of these was the elimination of Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., by Mrs. L. A. Harper, San Francisco, by the one-sided score of 6-1, 6-1.

Mrs. Shepherd-Barron was the only seeded star to fall, and four of the English Wightman Cup players are still in the running, while their two teams appeared to dominate the doubles phase of the tournament, which got under way today.

The matches to be contested in the stadium are:

3 p.m.—Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Santa Monica, Cal., vs. Betty Nuthall, England; Mrs. Molla Mallory, New York, vs. Virginia Hillsary, Philadelphia.

4 p.m.—Helen Wills, Berkeley, Cal., vs. Alles Francis, Orange, N. J.; Mrs. L. R. C. Mitchell, England, vs. Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Cal.

5 p.m.—Eleanor Goss, New York, and Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Ct., vs. Mrs. Hazel Wightman, Brookline, Mass., and Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass.; Mrs. L. A. Harper and Edith Cross, San Francisco, vs. Carolyn Babcock and Helen Marlow, Los Angeles.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Helen Marlow, Los Angeles, Cal., 6-2, 6-1.

Mrs. B. C. Covell, England, defeated Mrs. William H. Endicott, Boston, 6-1, 6-0.

Mrs. Phoebe Watson, England, defeated Mrs. A. J. Lamms, Jr., Rye, N. Y., 6-2, 6-0.

Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Marjorie Cuchs, Boston, 6-3, 6-4.

Mrs. Molla Mallory, New York, defeated Mrs. J. Saunders Taylor, New York, 6-2, 6-1.

Mary Greef, Kansas City, defeated Clara Greenspan, New York, 6-0, 6-2.

Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Cal., and Betty Nuthall, England, won by default from Mrs. H. D. Eaton and Mrs. Bronson, New York.

Mrs. Phoebe Watson and Mrs. Peggy Mitchell, England, defeated Mrs. W. W. Hester, Glencove, N. Y., and Mrs. A. J. Lamms, Jr., Mrs. N. Y., 6-1, 6-1.

Mrs. May Bundy, Santa Monica, Cal., and Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Cal., defeated Mrs. C. H. Hitchcock and Marie Wagner, New York, 6-1, 6-1.

Carolyn Babcock and Helen Marlow, Los Angeles, defeated Mrs. J. Saunders Taylor and Gertrude Dwyer, New York, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Mrs. Charlotte Chapin, Springfield, Mass., and Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, defeated Elizabeth Warren, Wilmington, Del., and Clara Greenspan, New York, 7-5, 6-4.

Mrs. Hazel Wightman, Brookline, Mass., and Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., defeated Marion Hunt, Los Angeles, and Clara Zinke, Cincinnati, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Virginia Rice, Boston, and Evelyn Parsons, Palo Alto, Cal., defeated Alice Francis, Orange, N. J., and Mrs. R. F. Stens, of New York, 6-3, 12-10 in the doubles.

MALONEY TRIUMPHS OVER ITALIAN HEAVY

MAHAN LOSES BOUT TO JONES

be delighted to bring his boy west from "Philadeffy" to knock out this Jones person.

There were moments when Jones spurted and appeared on the verge of bursting forth as a slasher, but he quickly degenerated and the knockout was nothing to rave about.

FIFTH BEST ROUND

The best round was the fifth, when Mahan was taking a punch to give one. Gradually the Dummy lost steam from the body pounding he received and toward the end of the session he was being bombarded heavily.

The turnout was approximately 8500 fans with a reported gate of $13,800.

Before the main event Jackie Fields was introduced as the new welterweight king, and received a fine welcome from the crowd. James Braddock and Yale Okun, who meet next week, also were given the glad hand. Jack Doyle, baseball scout and cousin of the fight club Doyles, was another to get the mitt.

Johnny Torres and Huerta Evans went six rounds to a draw in the semi-wind-up, but their bout was surpassed in bloodthirstiness by the special event in which Wally Fraser won the nod over Tom Morgan. Morgan was floored in the second round from a left hook, but came back fighting strongly, and it was a battering match clear down to the finish of the six rounds.

The preliminaries resulted as follows:

Jack Goldman won a four-round decision over Pal Shoaf, mainly because the latter started too late and couldn't make up all the ground he lost in the first two rounds, and Dick McDaniels won from Frank Sunday in four rounds.

HELD GIVEN TOUGH BATTLE ON LINKS

JASPER (Alta.) Aug. 20. (AP)—C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, the defending champion, was eliminated in the first round of match play in the Canadian amateur golf championship today by Cecil Coville of Vancouver, one up in thirty-six holes.

Eddie Held of New York, who won the qualifying round medal yesterday, survived the first round of match play only after a terrific battle with 18-year-old Monty Hill of Vancouver. Hill played the new Yorker almost even over the whole route but finally succumbed at the thirty-fifth green, 3 and 1.

HELEN SEYMOUR COPS RACE

STOCKTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—Helen Seymour, a green mare owned by I. L. Borden of San Francisco, came from behind in two out of three heats to win the 2:30 class pace, feature event of today's San Joaquin Fair race program. Her best time was 2:07 3-4.

PAUL HUNTER TRIES COURSE

Southland Golfer Shines in Del Monte Practice

DEL MONTE, Aug. 20. (AP)—Practice rounds over the 1929 national amateur golf championship course at Pebble Beach today brought in two low scores.

Phillips Finlay, semifinalist in the 1928 national, turned in a 36-35 for a total of 73, against a par for the course of 72. He was followed by Dr. Paul Hunter, who birdied the sixteenth and the eighteenth for a 74.

Among the other contenders for the 1929 amateur crown who drew galleries today were Johnny McHugh of San Francisco, Jack Neville, California amateur champion; Alvin Herold, city champion of Dallas, Tex.; Franklin Stevens, Jr., runner-up in the recent amateur tournament; Ralph Hoffman and Harry Eichelberger.

McHugh and Herold turned the first nine in par figures, playing in a foursome with Neville and Harold Mack of San Francisco. They picked up on two holes in the last nine and failed to turn in scores.

Hoffman reported a good practice round but found several traps on the outward journey. Dr. Hunter's 74 was considered remarkable because of a strained ligament in his shoulder which kept him from using a full swing with his wooden clubs.

Californians in Net Wins

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 20. (AP)—The odds-on favorites today stroked their way to victory with monotonous precision in the second and third-round matches of the Wisconsin State open tennis tournament, now in progress on the Town Club courts here.

Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Cal., disposed of Frank Wegener, Milwaukee, 6-0, 6-2, and then came back in the junior singles to score a love victory over William O'Brien of Milwaukee. While this brought him a match closer to that title he may meet with difficulty at the hands of William Schemmer of Milwaukee, who defeated Ed Malloy, a fellow-townsman, in easy fashion.

California tonight seemed destined to be the next home of the boys' singles trophy, with the sensational Jay Cohn of Santa Monica and Charles Hunt of San Francisco both winning in easy style.

MICHIGAN BASEBALL NINE BEATS HAWAII

HONOLULU, Aug. 20. (AP)—Heavy hitting during the sixth inning coupled with a series of costly errors by the University of Hawaii players, gave the University of Michigan baseball team an 11-to-5 victory here today. The Michigan squad stopped here en route to Japan, where a series of games will be played.

WATERMAN STOPS FOE

SANTA ROSA, Aug. 20. (AP)—Jimmy Waterman of Vallejo scored a technical knockout in the main event of tonight's boxing card here over George Landau of San Francisco, in the fifth round of their scheduled six-round bout. They are welterweights.

HOFFMAN BEATS ITALIAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 20. (AP)—George Hoffman, New York heavyweight, outpointed Salvatore Ruggirello of Italy, in the ten-round feature bout at the Queensboro Stadium tonight.

As a result of this conversation, Tarzan late that night went alone to a squalid den beside the water front of Dover. As he paused within the evil-smelling room, a muffled figure brushed past him, whispering: "This way, my lord." In the gloom he did not recognize the man. "Where is the boy?" he questioned. "On that small steamer whose lights you see yonder," replied the other.

Scarcely had he done so than the heavy covering fell clattering above him. Instantly he knew he was the victim of a plot. He waited for what might next befall him. Soon there came to his ears a sound that caused him to go cold with apprehension. The ship was moving! Then high over the noise of the propeller, clear and shrill from the deck above him, rang the scream of a frightened woman.

JAIL HOUSING PLAN OFFERED

Fifteen Division Stations May be Used in Emergency

Use of the fifteen police division stations in the city limits to house city prisoners and the police department executives and staffs, until such time as Los Angeles shall provide a permanent headquarters and jail, was urged yesterday by President Thorpe of the Police Commission, should the Health Commission carry out the proposal of Dr. George Parrish, city health officer, to close the central jail and headquarters as a menace to the health of the occupants and the city.

Commissioner Drake suggested that empty rooms in the City Hall tower be fitted out as police headquarters. Commissioner Pierce said that placing the prisoners all over the city would create a problem of transportation.

Thorpe delegated .he commission as a committee of the whole to make a complete investigation of his proposal and to report at the next meeting or at a special session.

CREATE PROBLEM

"Closing of the Central Station and jail, as proposed, will create a real problem," he said, "and I spent all day yesterday with Superintendent of Construction Brittain visiting the different divisions to ascertain what room is available. We found that only one or two prisoners are at most stations and in some there are none. The fifteen divisions will provide from 325 to 340 cells. Ninety-eight beds are being occupied by trusties. I believe the space in front of the cells could be utilized."

Thorpe expressed the view that some prisoners could be kept in the better cells in the old jail and police officers could be transferred to the divisions. He asserted there is plenty of room in the division stations, which he says have been built for from five to ten years hence. He said completion of the Hollywood division will provide space for ninety more prisoners.

WORK ON PROPOSAL

Secretary Jeffers informed the board he had heard that some financing plan was being taken up with the Chamber of Commerce for construction of a new headquarters and jail for the Civic Center.

Commissioner Drake informed Thorpe that the State law, requiring a certain amount of space for prisoners and city employees, will have to be considered under the proposal to utilise the fifteen divisions.

BAKERY ACT EVADERS FINED

Pleading guilty to violations of the bakery law, which prohibits the return or exchange of bakery products once they have been delivered to a retail store, seven men yesterday were sentenced to pay fines of $25 each or serve five days in jail by Municipal Judge Bogue.

Those sentenced included George H. Parry, T. Johnson and D. C. Gorte, grocers, and J. L. Dugan, F. P. Emerson, E. G. Beauves and Eugene S. Martin, drivers of bread trucks.

Charged with selling stale eggs, A. Matis was fined $50 by Judge Bogue and H. Berman $25 for his asserted failure to stamp eggs he sold as to their size and quality, according to the law.

PIANO-PLAYING MATE RAPPED

Wife Given Decree on Her Story of His Asserted Aversion to Work

To be able to play a piano is an enviable talent and the music made affords delightful entertainment, but when a husband refuses to go to work and sits around the house all day tickling the ivories, it does not bring home the bacon, according to Mrs. Hazel Scott.

Mrs. Scott appeared before Superior Judge Comstock yesterday asking for a divorce from Lloyd Scott. She asserted her husband was indolent, shiftless and lazy; that he refused to go to work, but would sit in the home all day playing the piano.

Judge Comstock granted the decree.

The couple were married at Dallas, Tex., on August 21, 1924.

Perfect Hand in Pinochle Wins Contest

A perfect pinochle hand—1500 trumps—was held by Harry Schuller, 244 South Olive street, last night in a play-off contest held at his home for a silver trophy offered by devotees of this card game.

He was playing against Dr. Will Knox and Dr. Harry Yeagar. Schuller won the contest through having held the perfect hand. Contrary to the usual procedure when players hold perfect hands in card games, he did not drop dead, his friends say. They declare that this hand has been held but thirty times in the history of the game in America as far as they know.

CHILDREN TO OFFER PLAY

"When the Sun Stayed in Bed" is the title of a play to be presented tomorrow by playground children at the "Little Lattice Theater" in Barnsdall Playground. The playlet will commence at 2:30 p.m., and will be followed by a program of acrobatic stunts, costumed dances, musical numbers and story-telling. Tomorrow's performance will be the seventh in the series of dramatic matinees being produced by municipal playground children every Thursday at the miniature open-air playhouse.

YOUNGSTERS SIGN FOR SERIES

May Boley Plays Featured Comedy Role Among Lilies; Antonio Moreno Will be Spaniard in Fox Talker; Vivienne Segal Wins Lead in Musical

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

An experiment is being tried out at Universal City, with the signing of four inexperienced players for leading roles.

Flaming—or at least more or less flaming—youth as exemplified in Universal's new series of stories of juvenile American life, to be called "Sporting News," is to be revealed concretely through eight characters, four boys and four girls.

The youthful players to portray these roles were signed yesterday by Carl Laemmle, Jr.

Two boys and two girls have had screen tests, but are Los Angeles High School students with no previous experience in acting outside of their high-school activities.

These novitiates are Robert Foster, Edward Morgan, Kay McCoy and Alice Doll. All are thrilled at being selected for roles in the series, which of course, will give them an excellent opportunity to embark on picture careers.

The experienced players signed are Ann Christie, Sumner Getchell, Tommy Carr—the last named being the son of Mary Carr—and Joan McCoy.

Ben Holmes is to direct the series and work is to commence soon.

"Sporting News" is to consist of short-reel talkers and will take the place of the "Collegian" series.

MAY BOLEY TO PLAY FILM COMEDY LEAD

It was a foregone conclusion all the time, of course, that May Boley probably would not return to the New York stage, for some time to come at least, now that the talking pictures are here.

MAY BOLEY

Miss Boley's newest engagement in talking pictures is with Corrine Griffith in "Lilies of the Field," in which Miss Griffith is starring for First National. Miss Boley will portray the role of an antiquated show girl, the leading comedy role in the picture and one which has been expanded to give the commedienne a chance to display her gifts.

At the same time another noted actor was signed for an important character role. He is Tenney Holtz, formerly star of the Yiddish Theater in New York, whose part also will be a featured characterization.

Miss Boley is one of the leading comediennes of the country. She was one of the stars in the original cast of "So Long Letty," when the musical was produced here several years ago by Oliver Morosco. She played in the New York production of the piece, and afterward appeared in various New York musicals. She came West to play in Lillian Albertson's production of "Hit the Deck," at the Majestic, and scored heavily.

Antonio Moreno With Fox

We hear that there is an excellent likelihood of Antonio Moreno signing a long-term contract with Fox Films.

ANTONIO MORENO

In the meantime he is to essay a featured role in Russell Birdwell's new Fox picture, "The Girl Who Wasn't Wanted." The part is that of a Spaniard and is a character part of much importance.

Moreno was formerly a Vitagraph star. That was in the days before the vogue of Latin sheiks, so he hardly ever had a chance to portray a Spaniard. Later he signed with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Always he has been considered one of the finest actors on the screen.

Vivienne Segal to New York

While Vivienne Segal has learned to love her Hollywood, it is quite natural that if she should receive an excellent offer from New York to return to the stage, she should accept it.

And so it is likely that we shall lose the sprightly Vivienne, for the time being at least.

Miss Segal has received an offer of the leading role in no less fascinating a production than the musical stage version of "The Big Parade," which, as you remember, caused a sensation when seen on the screen, and which still remains as King Vidor's greatest work as a director.

Miss Segal has just finished a picture for Warner Brothers, and is scheduled to make another, but, due to the two months' shutdown of the studio, is likely to postpone the next talker until after the run of the New York musical.

Helen Lynch With Paramount

Once you get out of the straight and narrow path, professionally speaking, by playing crook parts, it seems difficult to get back to the playing of these pallidly pure heroines on the screen.

HELEN LYNCH.

And so sweet Helen Lynch, whose interpretation of Blond Mag in "Underworld," with George Bancroft, stamped her as a powerful portrayer of underworld characters, returns to Paramount to appear in "Behind the Make-up," a drama of the lives of stage people, in which she will play the role of a sophisticated singer in a river boat, whose theater is the first place in which Hal Skelly and William Powell, as Rap Brown and Gardoni, try out their act together.

Fay Wray and Kay Francis have the other featured feminine roles in the picture.

No Papa, Says Hatton

A wail from the desert comes in the form of a letter from Raymond Hatton, who frantically cries that he is not a new papa, and that it is not true that he has a young son.

It appears that Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hackett were blessed with the arrival of a baby boy a short time ago, and some of the news dispatchers confused the names and attributed the accomplishment to Raymond Hatton.

Hatton admits that he is a godfather, though, since he is busy playing in Universal's "Three Godfathers."

Nancy Carroll Leaving

Nancy Carroll, who has the featured lead in Paramount's "Sweetie," a musical romance of campus life, has slipped off to New York between scenes.

This will be her first visit to her native city since Paramount announced that she had been elevated to stardom. She was born on Tenth avenue, and attended the public schools of New York.

Norman Selby in It

Norman Selby—and it is his real name, too, just as it is Kid McCoy's real name—has been cast for an important part in First National's "Loose Ankles," we learned yesterday.

The actor was formerly a drummer in Abe Lyman's orchestra. But he won a role in Billie Dove's recent picture, "The Painted Angel," at which time he did so well as an actor that he is laying his drum sticks aside for the time being, and bids fair to become a featured player.

Death Comes to Astronomer N. D. Robinson

Nathaniel D. Robinson, astronomer, and formerly a writer on astronomical subjects for The Times, died yesterday morning at his home, 932 West One Hundred and Third street. He had been ill for more than a year.

N. D. ROBINSON

Mr. Robinson was a veteran of the Civil War. He enlisted with the Union forces in 1861 in Washington county, Iowa. Following the war he entered Grinnell College and in 1871 graduated. He came to California and taught the first class at the school in Artesia. He remained there for three years.

He then took up astronomy and played a large part in the establishment of the observatory at Mt. Wilson. Prior to this he wrote a weekly column for The Mirror and later he continued to write for The Times.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Amanda Allen Robinson, three sons and six grandchildren. Funeral services will be conducted at the Brese Brothers' mortuary tomorrow at 1 p.m. Burial will be in Whittier Heights Cemetery.

MILLIONAIRE SUED BY WIFE

R. J. Schiffmann, Patent Medicine Man, Charged With Cruelty and Marital Offenses

Charging extreme cruelty, desertion and "association with other women," Mrs. Mabel Anne Schiffmann, 719 North Maple Drive, Beverly Hills, yesterday filed suit for separate maintenance against her multimillionaire husband, Rudolph Johnson Schiffmann, patent medicine manufacturer and oil magnate. Mrs. Schiffmann in her suit asked through her attorney, Joseph Marchetti, $3000 monthly maintenance, $50,000 attorney fees, $10,000 for incidental expenses in the prosecution of her suit and the custody of her 17-year-old son, Rudolph, Jr.

Mrs. Schiffmann lists her husband's holdings in his medicine-manufacturing companies, land and oil holdings in excess of $10,000,000 and names a long list of corporations, individuals, banks and trust companies as co-defendants with her husband, asserting that they control much of the community property subject to distribution in the division that she asks in her petition.

MADE CO-DEFENDANTS

These defendants are R. Schiffmann Company, R. Schiffmann, Inc., R. Schiffmann Holding and Development Company, California Bank, Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, Monrovia Oil Company, Redlands Heights Ranch Company, Laguna Ranch Company, Mrs. R. Schiffmann, M. B. McLeod, M. S. McLeod, F. A. Hagerty, Elven Musick, five "John Doe" corporations and five "John Doe" individuals.

The couple had one previous marriage, a ceremony performed in 1911, having been dissolved by divorce. The son, Rudolph, was born of this marriage. They were remarried in 1921 and separated July 22, last, according to the petition. Schiffmann's residence is given as the Jonathan Club. He has been active in the manufacture of cough remedies and laxatives, having taken over the extensive business founded by his father in St. Paul. He also owns large ranch and oil properties in Los Angeles and Orange counties, his wife asserts.

ACCUSATIONS CHARGED

The defendant's cruelty, as outlined in the petition, consists of falsely accusing his wife of being a narcotic addict and "taking her in her nightgown" to a sanatorium, and at another time causing the "plaintiff to be handcuffed and borne away on a stretcher to another sanatorium, and kept there for a period of ten weeks."

As a result of her husband's treatment Mrs. Schiffmann declares she has suffered a physical breakdown and is now confined to a hospital for treatment.

Attorney Marchetti included in the petition an application for an injunction against Schiffmann dispossessing his wife from the family home in Beverly Hills, or preventing her using one of two expensive automobiles asserted to be community property.

BOWL GLOWS WITH WARM WELCOME

Bruno Walter Acclaimed by Thousands Attending First Program

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Bruno Walter made glorious music at the Hollywood Bowl last night and 10,000 music lovers were grateful for the restoration. The program was conservative. The overture to "Der Freischuts" by Weber, Tschaikowsky's popular fourth symphony, and three short numbers by the tone colorist, Berlioz. When it was over the orchestra and the listeners applauded his leadership. They welcomed him back to the Bowl with genuine enthusiasm.

Walter has great power over this orchestra. The men play with that respect and whole-hearted interest they give only to the best conductors. There is again an esprit de corps, a pride of musicianship that is characteristic of this splendid body of players when it is at its best. Few are able to call it forth but Bruno Walter is one. Sonorous tone, clean enunciation, deliberate phrasing and an instantaneous response to the baton attracted attention in the performance last night. The orchestra was again at one with the conductor. They spoke his musical language.

When a conductor can lose himself completely in such a familiar work as the Tschaikowsky fourth symphony, without yielding one note to personal exploitation, never substituting his own ideas for the intentions of the composer, he is a great conductor. Clarion trumpets rang across the Bowl in the opening, the strings made perfectly timed entrances, and the woodwinds added their richness to the beauty of all. This was a performance of a much loved work by a virtuoso orchestra under the direction of a member of the musical nobility.

Bridging the gap between the romanticism of Tschaikowsky and the modern intellectualism in music, Berlioz numbers in three distinctly different expressions formed the last half of the program. If Herr Walter wanted to show the resources of the orchestra he could not have chosen better than to present the richly orchestrated Tschaikowsky and the brilliant Berlioz.

The French prophet of the future is possibly not at his greatest in the overture to Benvenuto Cellini, but it is an early work and a natural one for an opera conductor to choose because of its moving drama. Henri de Busscher made the oboe solo beautiful and outstanding by his lovely tone and the significance of his phrasing.

The Will o' the Wisps from "The Damnation of Faust" by the same composer, made an interesting contrast filled with a Faustian humor. It is quite new to Los Angeles audiences and was performed with that super-excellence which wins immediate approval.

Ending with the Rakoczy March from the same opera, Walter demonstrated his knowledge of crowd psychology for applause follows this work inevitably. The orchestra played with military precision and fanfare of tone which our extraordinary brass section affords.

There was but one flaw in this evening's entertainment and it was quite outside the control of the management. A large airplane lighted with two white lights and one red one, deliberately and with the obvious intention to annoy, flew over the Bowl close enough to disturb the music with its engines and, as if once was not enough, the pilot turned back and crossed over the amphitheater again. This sort of thing is inexcusable and some steps should be taken to prevent its repetition.

Odd Reactions Take Place in Crothers Play

Good material for a psychologist is being provided by the oddly different reactions of men and women in audiences at the Vine Street Theater to the character of Dolly Cadwalader in Rachel Crothers's love farce, "Expressing Willie."

Dolly Cadwalader in the play is the feminine half of an enviously ambitious suburban couple and the character as it is being interpreted by the titian-haired Lurene Tuttle is greeted by women with shrill shouts of glee and by men with stony silence, it is said.

The reason is perhaps that Dolly tells all to the extreme embarrassment of her husband, who can't help loving her in spite of it all. Hubby kisses her passionately on the ear under the influence of moonlight and that fact is immediately heralded by Dolly to all assembled. Hubby has a dream and it is hardly concluded before the substance of the dream is known to the world at large through the medium of his wife.

FOX FILM POPULAR

Seldom has the filmization of a successful novel been more widely heralded than the William Fox version of "Behind That Curtain," Earl Derr Biggers's noted story, it is said. "Behind That Curtain" is playing to capacity audiences at the Westlake, where it has its final showings tomorrow night. Warner Baxter and Lois Moran have the two principal roles and Gilbert Emery also plays a prominent part. On Friday the Westlake will offer "The Black Watch," featuring Victor McLaglen. Gertrude Lawrence will be seen and heard in a talkie skit, "Early Morning," it is announced.

UPTOWN BILL CHANGES

Victor McLaglen's voice will be heard at the Uptown for the last times tomorrow in "The Black Watch." This colorful William Fox spectacle, directed by John Ford, has a large and distinguished cast in addition to McLaglen. Merna Loy has one of the principal roles. Starting Friday the Uptown will offer William Boyd in "The Flying Fool," with Marie Prevost and Russell Gleason. Fox Movietone News and talkie shorts complete both bills.

Modernistic Trends Displayed

Joan Crawford and Edward Nugent

Essay important roles in "Our Modern Maidens," M.-G.-M. film which starts at Loew's State Theater tomorrow. Others in the cast are Josephine Dunn, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Anita Page and Rod LaRocque.

"PARIS BOUND" SCHEDULED

"Paris Bound," with Ann Harding, the first release on Pathe's new program, will have its first western showing at the Hillstreet Theater starting Saturday. The picture is the all-dialogue feature which marks Ann Harding's screen debut, and is a talkie version of Philip Barry's noted New York stage success, in which Madge Kennedy starred for more than a year.

"Paris Bound" brings a sophisticated comedy drama, delicately dealing with love affairs after marriage, and is so handled, it is said, that although it is censor-proof, it is entertainment of the intriguing sort.

The film definitely places Ann Harding in the position of screen stardom, it is claimed, a position she has enjoyed on the stage for some time. Reports from the East, where "Paris Bound" has just been shown, are to the effect that she is destined to gain one of the screen's greatest followings of any stage star as a result of this production. An excellent cast of players support the star, including Frederic March, Leslie Fenton, Carmelita Geraghty and Charlotte Walker.

NOTED PAIR WILL VISIT CRITERION

Will Rogers, Fred Stone to Appear at Premiere of "Lucky Star"

Will Rogers and Fred Stone, world-noted stars of the musical comedy stage, will be among the many celebrities who will gather tonight at the Criterion Theater to witness the western premiere of "Lucky Star," in which Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell will make their talking-picture debut. Stars who will attend are planning to arrive for the first evening show.

"Lucky Star" reunites the noted trio which broke records with "Street Angel" and "Seventh Heaven." The combination of Gaynor, Farrell and Director Frank Borzage is a most successful one, and high hopes are entertained for a long run of "Lucky Star," it is said.

Janet Gaynor is said to have a sweet, rather pretty voice, particularly suitable for the type of role she plays in "Lucky Star." Farrell's voice is claimed to be deep, manly and pleasant, and unusually well adapted to recording.

Novel Quartet of Actors Now at El Capitan

Backstage at El Capitan they call them "That Quartet." It sounds like a vaudeville act but in reality it consists of three veteran character actors and a leading man.

The character actors are William Robyns, who has been on the stage more than forty years, and Edward McWade and William H. Turner, who have been acting for more than four decades. Their nightly conversation in the dressing-room is filled with reminiscences of other days, while the fourth member is Bryant Washburn, a youngster in comparison. However, Washburn is always an interested listener in the discussion as to the start of his stage career.

Each of the three character players has had unusual experiences. Robyns acted for eighteen seasons in vaudeville in a playlet called "The Counsel for the Defense," while McWade is the author of a vaudeville sketch called "Change Your Act; or Back to the Woods," which served as a vehicle for Victor Moore and Emma Littlefield for a quarter of a century. Turner points with pride to a record that includes appearances with such old-time stars as Harry Chanfrau, Clara Morris, Frank Mayo and others.

NEW STARRING VEHICLE

Evelyn Brent's first starring vehicle under her now "name-to-be-larger-than-title" elevation by Paramount will be the Sir Philip Gibbs story, "Darkened Rooms." "Darkened Rooms" will be directed by Louis Gasnier, able French director, and the adaptation and dialogue are being prepared by Melville Baker, who is credited with the screen preparation for Adolphe Menjou's first all-talking picture, "Fashions in Love." Baker is a New York playwright and scenarist.

PLAYERS HAVE FUN

Louise Fazenda and Lucien Littlefield have the laugh on each other. They have worked in three pictures together, and have never seen each other without make-up. When Littlefield walked on the set of "No, No, Nannette" and saw Louise on the side lines minus her wig and make-up, he stared at her. Someone introduced him to Miss Fazenda, and he stumblingly explained that he did not know who she was.

Organizations Plan to Visit Biblical Play

Offering evidence of its universal appeal, practically every form of religious, fraternal, educational, industrial and commercial organization will be represented in large parties which will have viewed the Pilgrimage Play before it ends its engagement on the 31st inst.

The congregation of the First Christian Church of Lynwood will attend in a body tomorrow evening, and a big excursion of Knights Templar from Venice, Ocean Park and Santa Monica will make the journey to Hollywood to view the play. On Friday night the University of Southern California will send a second delegation to the Pilgrimage Theater.

In the past weeks of this season's engagement of the Pilgrimage Play, employees of all the large department stores of the city, chambers of commerce from many outside municipalities, public-service corporations, scores of churches and schools, numerous fraternal, social and club organizations and many other associations have organized excursions to the theater.

'Fu Manchu' to Make Way for 'Fast Company'

With the first week of Greater Movie Season ending today in local movie houses, the Paramount Theater is showing "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu" for the last time. Warner Oland portrays the titular role in this Paramount all-talking mystery melodrama. He is supported by a fine talking cast which includes Jean Arthur, Neil Hamilton, William Austin, O. P. Heggie and others.

Tomorrow marks the first showing anywhere of "Fast Company," co-featuring Evelyn Brent, Jack Oakie and Sheets Gallagher. "Fast Company" is based on the play by Ring Lardner, "Elmer the Great," a story of a small-town home-run-hitter who becomes the sensation of the New York Yankees, and the world's greatest ball player.

Evelyn Brent enacts the part of the musical comedy star with whom Oakie falls in love. Owen Lee is Miss Brent's dancing and singing partner, Sam Hardy, as the baseball manager; Arthur Houseman as the gambler, and Bert Rome complete the supporting cast.

"Argyle Case" Film Reunites Screen Couple

Thomas Meighan, star of Warner Brothers Vitaphone production, "The Argyle Case," has as his leading lady Lila Lee, which reunites two players who have often appeared together on the screen. However, this production, appearing at Warner Brothers Theater, marks the first time that they worked together in talkie.

Among previous pictures they have appeared in together are "Male and Female," "The Prince Chap," "Back Home and Broke," "The Ne'er Do Well" and "Coming Thru."

In "The Argyle Case," Meighan has the role of a noted detective, who is called in to solve the mystery that surrounds the murder of the wealthy John Argyle. Lila Lee plays the role of the adopted daughter of the murdered man, and is one who is suspected of the murder.

BABY-VOICE SONGSTRESS AT ORPHEUM

Helen Kane Deserts Studio Temporarily for Personal Appearance

Helen Kane, baby-voiced songstress whose "boop boopa dooping" created a theatrical sensation in New York last season and established her over night as a favorite, will headline at the Orpheum Theater next week. Here to appear in Paramount's production "Sweetie," with Nancy Carroll and Jack Oakie, she is temporarily deserting the studio.

A former member of the Four Marx Brothers' revue, she sprang into prominence when awarded a chance to do a solo number with Paul Ash; she appeared early in the afternoon, and the New York evening newspapers heralded "Broadway's newest discovery." She became a recording artist, a night-club star and a feature of Arthur Hammerstein's "Good Boy." When the latter show opened in Boston, she was starred.

In New York Miss Kane sang her songs for Richard Dix's "Nothing But the Truth" and was signed for additional pictures. Her Photophone successes have broken records. At the Orpheum she will present a program of typical songs.

Bernice Elliott Plays Opposite Taylor Holmes

Bernice Elliott has been engaged as leading woman for the comedy "The Sap," in which Taylor Holmes, noted comedian, will make his first appearance here as guest star with the Henry Duffy Players at the President, starting Sunday.

Miss Elliott was seen here last at the same theater in "Skidding," and also was in the production of "The Squall." Her first appearance with the Duffy forces here was in "New Brooms" at El Capitan with Robert McWade. Born in Honolulu and educated in Philadelphia and Paris, Miss Elliott was in such musical comedies as "Topsy and Eva," "Tip Toes" and "No, No, Nanette" before going into drama.

The engagement of Miss Elliott completes the cast for the comedy. Allen Connor, one of the foremost portrayers of juvenile leads on the Coast, returns to the Duffy forces to play the role of Edward Mason, the young bank clerk, and his wife will be acted by Grace Cooper, a blond ingenue, who will make her first appearance here with the Duffy company. Norma Drew will be the business girl and Ben Taggart will be James Belden, the bank cashier.

No Live Babies Need Apply for Belasco Role

Ambitious mothers seeking stage careers for their offspring are now constant visitors at the Belasco Theater since the opening there of the farce, "Little Accident," according to Edward Belasco, the manager.

There is a baby used in the play—apparently. It is really only a doll, but a number of mothers knowing that a baby is used have called on Thomas Mitchell, the co-author and featured player, and on Belasco bearing their infants and offering them for the role.

Every night at the stage door of the Belasco several mothers are to be found with babies in arms waiting for the arrival of Mitchell in an attempt to secure the job, it is said. Mitchell wishes it to be known that the doll enacts the part realistically, satisfactorily and without salary, and he has no desire to change to a live infant.

Lazarus Stages Musical Revue

"Buntan Frolics," new musical revue featuring Myra Kinch, character dancer from George White's "Scandals," Buddy Garry, popular songster, the "Hollywood Starlets," youthful entertainers, and a chorus of show girls, starts as the stage attraction at Lazarus's Million Dollar Theater tomorrow, under the direction of Jean Meiklejohn.

Outstanding numbers will be "Stairway of Dreams," elaborate staircase specialty; "Gypsy Rhythm," presenting the show girls in a colorful tambourine dance, and "Bathing Beach Medley," played by Bob Hofman's Million Dollar stage orchestra. "The Black Watch," with Victor McLaglen and Myrna Loy, will be the screen offering. Supporting program includes the regular first-run release of Paramount Sound News and a new group of "singing cartoons."

Crook Picture Ends Run Soon

"Light Fingers," an all-talking Columbia production starring Dorothy Revier and Ian Keith, is proving popular with patrons of the Pantages this week. The story is a tale of how a crook is won over on the right path by the cleverness of a beautiful young girl. The vaudeville program is also good.

Saturday will mark the final week of Pantages vaudeville and Laura La Plante in "The Love Trap" has been booked for the sound and synchronized portion of the bill. The picture is said to be a typical bedroom farce and Neil Hamilton has the leading male role. The story deals with two women, at dagger points over the love of a boy, each fighting to have for herself and the boy striving to choose between them.

FARLEY IS CONVERT

Morgan Farley believes in getting the most from California climate. He has taken a yearly lease on the top floor of an apartment-house building in Venice, and lives out on the roof many hours a day. The interpreter of dramatic roles claims that he spent a goodly portion of his earnings with doctory in New York and that he is basking in Hollywood sunshine to the "nth" degree.
